HISTORIC RESTING PLACE — The closest most Marin County residents come to thinking of the problems they or their survivors must face when death strikes, is when they notice a graveyard such as this, the 148-year-old Mount Olivet Cemetery alongside Highway 101 in San Rafael. "We're all creatures of denial" when it comes to planning ahead for death, a psychiatrist declared. The Independent-Journal today begins a series of articles dealing with the problems and expenses caused by death — a sort of primer for survivors.

Indians Declare Separate Nation

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (UPI) — Indians occupying this tiny, historic hamlet on the Oglala Sioux reservation declared war on the United States Sunday after proclaiming it an independent nation seeking recognition by the United Nations. An FBI agent was wounded in an exchange of gunfire.

A temporary peace was shattered Sunday when Indians "arrested" and disarmed six white men, including four federal agents, and exchanged gunfire with FBI agents on a road leading into the settlement.

All leaves were cancelled and heavily-armed U.S. marshals were ordered into standby alert and given field equipment following the gunfire Sunday, but no new shooting incidents were reported during the night.

One FBI agent, Curtis Fitzgerald, suffered a bullet wound in the wrist during the gun battle and was taken by helicopter to Ellsworth Air Force Base 120 miles away. No Indians were injured.

The FBI said the Indians fired first and later apologized for the incident. Indians denied they fired first.

"We consider ourselves under attack and at war with the U.S.," said Russell Means, a leader of the American Indian Movement (AIM), which has held Wounded Knee since taking it at gunpoint Feb. 27.

The last time an FBI man was wounded by gunshot was at Marietta, Ga., when a man holding several people hostage wounded two agents, neither seriously.

Means, one of the few AIM chieftains who is an Oglala Sioux, instructed armed AIM followers to "shoot to kill" FBI agents attempting to enter this 40-acre compound to make arrests.

"Any violation of our borders will be construed as an act of war and be dealt with immediately," said Means, his long black hair tied back in pigtails. "Anyone caught in here without passing through our customs or getting a pass or visa will be dealt with as spies and as countries deal with spies all over the world," he said.

The violence erupted as U.S. Attorney William Clayton prepared a "substantial" number of indictments for a federal grand jury in Sioux Falls, S.D., and readied forces to attempt to arrest AIM leaders.

Means said neither he nor his fellow warriors would allow themselves to be arrested by federal agents.

Means rallied more than 400 supporters on a hill near the Sacred Heart Mission shortly after six of eight Oglala Sioux district chiarmen on Pine Ridge reservation voted to withdraw from the official tribal council.

They declared themselves free of authority under the federal act that created the reservation system in 1937 and said they unilateraly established Wounded Knee as an independent and soveriegn nation over which the United States has no authority.

AIM answered the U.S. Justice Department decision to pull back roadblocks Saturday by arresting four men who identified themselves as postal inspectors along with two white ranchers.

All six were held, questioned and released, their weapons confiscated and turned over the AIM security police.

In Lumberton, N.C. Tuscarora Indian leader Howard Brooks says his people, who have been demonstrating for several days, will quit for awhile.

Brooks made the announcement Sunday.

Six Nations Vote Float Of Currency

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The dollar firmed in Europe today and gold fell following weekend currency developments in which West Germany decided to revalue the mark upward by 3 per cent and six other Common Market members cut their currencies free from the dollar for the first time in 29 years.

So far nine Common Market members are floating their currencies, which means they will let the dollar find its own parity according to the law of supply and demand and that they will no longer buy up billions in unwanted dollars to keep the dollar at an agreed upon price.

Hubert Trost of Vienna, a spokesman for the Austrian Nationl Bank, called the joint float a "long pending and logical decision," but in Paris French economist Pierre Uri warned that "nothing is effective so long as the United States is not doing anything about its balance of payments."

Making Decisions After A Death In The Family

By JEFF GREER
(First of six articles)

"Funerals are good for people," a prominent Marin County psychiatrist declared. He was referring to the survivors.

"Funerals often show a mistaken sense of what constitutes respect for the dead," a Marin clergyman countered.

"Sometimes in their grief, survivors can be over-extended financially," a priest warned.

"Funerals are a barbaric custom. When I die, I want to be cremated and forgotten," a private citizen declared.

However they may have felt about their own last rites, 1,520 Marin County residents died during 1972. In almost every case, their survivors were left to make all the decisions about last respects to the dead.

Many of the families found themselves uninformed and ill-prepared to cope with the many problems, their thinking hampered by the stress of grief. Their decisions often were molded by their minister, the funeral director they chose, advice from friends, and the dictates of custom.

Most Marin County families are small, and the relatives distant, Rev. Edward Dingberg of St. Isabella's Catholic Church, Terra Linda, pointed out. Therefore, the survivors are likely to have experienced few previous funerals, and lack relatives nearby who can help, he said.

"The shock of death is a real tragedy. Usually in Marin the survivor is a young father or mother with a few children. The survivors are completely alone," the priest added. "It makes more difficulty for arrangements."

Father Dingberg said he doesn't particularly urge his

American Spy Released After 20 Years As Chinese Prisoner

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI) — John T. Downey, an American spy freed from a Chinese prison after more than 20 years, arrived in the Philippines today and almost immediately boarded a mercy jet rushing him to the bedside of his sick mother in Connecticut. (See picture, page 18)

"I feel fine, thank you," he said.

In the meantime, Downey's mother, who suffered a stroke last Wednesday and has been in critical condition in a New Britain, Conn., hospital, was said to be "vastly improved."

However, Dr. Bliss B. Clarke said the retired schoolteacher had not been told of her son's release. Clarke said he feared her excitement at the news would worsen her condition.

The 42-year-old Downey, an employe of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), was jailed by the Chinese after his plane was forced down on a flight from Korea to Japan. He was freed early today only after President Nixon appealed directly to Premier Chou En-lai.

Until early this year, officials contended Downey was a civilian employe of the Army. But then Nixon admitted he was a CIA employe.

Downey walked to freedom earlier today across the Lowu border bridge dividing China and Hong Kong. He smiled broadly as he left China and walked to a U.S. helicopter that took him to a special hospital jet for the flight to Clark.

"Apparently, he was OK," said a member of the U.S. consulate that met him at the border.

Members of a small welcoming party said Downey looked a little pale, but was "very fit." He left even before changing from his Chinese blue prison uniform to civilian clothing.

Newsmen were forbidden to speak to him, but a government photographer called out: "Where were you held?"

"Peking," Downey replied.

When he arrived at Clark, the reception center for returning American POWs, he stepped briskly from the C9A evacuation plane that carried him from Hong Kong. He was wearing a brown check sports coat, an off-white shirt with tie and light brown slacks.

He walked quickly to the huge U.S. Air Force C141 Starlifter transport plane that would fly him home, landing at Windsor Locks, Conn., after a flight via Anchorage.

As he flew home, Downey was accompanied by his brother William and a State Department official. William Downey said doctors who flew with Downey from Hong Kong gave

Reds To Release 107 Additional War Prisoners

U.S. Halts Troop Withdrawals Until List Of Remaining Given

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnam today turned over to the United States a list of 107 military prisoners and one civilian prisoner of war it said would be released Wednesday in Hanoi, the U.S. military command said. (See partial list of returning POWs, page 12.)

But the United States said it had halted its troop withdrawals until the Wednesday release is completed and it receives the names of all American POWs held by the Communists and the date and place of their release.

A U.S. command spokesman said it had received no POW list from representatives of the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG). However, he said the PRG promised such a list would be handed over to the Allies in Saigon on Tuesday.

If the Viet Cong follows the pattern they have in the past the Americans will be released in Hanoi within 48 hours after they turn over the list, meaning they would be freed Thursday. They have been releasing the POWs in groups of about 30.

Wednesday's release will be made from Hanoi's Gia Lam airport, the U.S. command said.

The announcement halting the troop withdrawals was the second by the United States since the POW releases began.

"There will be no Phase 3 of the U.S. withdrawal until the U.S. POWs due for release in Phase 3 in fact are released," said Maj. Gen. Gilbert Woodward, the chief American delegate to the Joint Military Commission that arranges prisoner exchanges.

Moreover, he said, the withdrawals would not go into Phase 4, the final round in the exchange program, "until the list of U.S. POWs scheduled for release in Phase 4 and the release date are provided for the U.S."

The United States delayed its troop withdrawal program once before—on Feb. 28 when a dispute delayed the prisoner exchange program until March 4. The impasse ended only after President Nixon intervened.

Under the Jan. 27 cease-fire agreement signed in Paris, all prisoners must go free by March 28. All foreign troops also must leave South Vietnam by that date under the Paris agreement.

There was no word on the release of 13 American civilians still in captivity.

Communists have released 288 American servicemen and 11 civilians so far in two exchanges.

About 7,000 U.S. troops remain in South Vietnam.

Woodward said that 70 per cent of the American forces in South Vietnam when the cease-fire;came into force have left the country. He also said that 82 per cent of the allied troops in Vietnam also were gone.

The withdrawal and prisoner exchanges were intended to run parallel, meaning that POWs would go free in about the same ratio as troops were withdrawn.

Meantime, the release of another 1,900 Vietnamese war prisoners was expected today. Saigon planned to free 700 Communist POWs at Loc Ninh, 75 miles north of Saigon, while both sides agreed to free 600 prisoners each near Chon Thanh, 40 miles north of Saigon.

A two-day swap of 1,000 Communist prisoners for 400 South Vietnamese soldiers was completed Sunday near Bong Son on the central coast, a Saigon command spokesman said. But during the the release, a grenade explosion killed two South Vietnamese military policemen and wounded four others.

Marin Mail Switch Delayed Until May

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The U.S. Postal Service plan to start processing all Marin County mail in San Francisco today has been postponed to late May, a postal official disclosed today.

The processing switch, revealed last month, to the Rincon Annex Post Office in San Francisco, has been delayed because two sorting machines are not yet installed, according to Marshall R. Haines, mail processing representative of USPS San Francisco District.

"It will probably be late May" before the installation is completed, he said.

Haines, who said the change will decrease the cost of mail processing, claimed the two machines can sort mail in half the time men now take to do it.

"The change is not intended to delay the mail" from Marin, he said, adding that in-county mailings will arrive "just as speedily" despite being routed through San Francisco. Managerial controls and the postal transportation system will insure prompt arrivals for Marin County mail, he said.

San Rafael Postmaster Hugh Cassidy, however, has predictd the change will result in delays of at least one day for most mail to Marin addresses which originates in this county. Cassidy has also warned of delays for other Marin mailings, since outgoing county mail will have to wait for "machine time" at the Rincon Annex before being routed and dispatched.

HISTORIC RESTING PLACE — The closest most Marin County residents come to thinking of the problems they or their survivors must face when death strikes, is when they notice a graveyard such as this, the 148-year-old Mount Olivet Cemetery alongside Highway 101 in San Rafael. "We're all creatures of denial'' when it comes to planning ahead for death, a psychiatrist declared. The Independent-Journal today begins a series of articles dealing with the problems and expenses caused by death — a sort of primer for survivors.

Reds To Release 107 Additional War Prisoners

U.S. Halts Troop Withdrawals Until List Of Remaining Given

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnam today turned over to the United States a list of 107 military prisoners and one civilian prisoner of war it said would be released Wednesday in Hanoi, the U.S. military command said. (See partial list of returning POWs, page 12.)

But the United States said it had halted its troop withdrawals until the Wednesday release is completed and it receives the names of all American POWs held by the Communists and the date and place of their release.

A U.S. command spokesman said it had received no POW list from representatives of the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG). However, he said the PRG promised such a list would be handed over to the Allies in Saigon on Tuesday.

If the Viet Cong follows the pattern they have in the past the Americans will be released in Hanoi within 48 hours after they turn over the list, meaning they would be freed Thursday. They have been releasing the POWs in groups of about 30.

Wednesday's release will be made from Hanoi's Gia Lam airport, the U.S. command said.

The announcement halting the troop withdrawals was the second by the United States since the POW releases began.

"There will be no Phase 3 of the U.S. withdrawal until the U.S. POWs due for release in Phase 3 in fact are released,'' said Maj. Gen. Gilbert Woodward, the chief American delegate to the Joint Military Commission that arranges prisoner exchanges.

Moreover, he said, the withdrawals would not go into Phase 4, the final round in the exchange program, "until the list of U.S. POWs scheduled for release in Phase 4 and the release date are provided for the U.S.''

The United States delayed its troop withdrawal program once before—on Feb. 28 when a dispute delayed the prisoner exchange program until March 4. The impasse ended only after President Nixon intervened.

Under the Jan. 27 cease-fire agreement signed in Paris, all prisoners must go free by March 28. All foreign troops also must leave South Vietnam by that date under the Paris agreement.

There was no word on the release of 13 American civilians still in captivity.

Communists have released 288 American servicemen and 11 civilians so far in two exchanges.

About 7,000 U.S. troops remain in South Vietnam.

Woodward said that 70 per cent of the American forces in South Vietnam when the cease-fire;came into force have left the country. He also said that 82 per cent of the allied troops in Vietnam also were gone.

The withdrawal and prisoner exchanges were intended to run parallel, meaning that POWs would go free in about the same ratio as troops were withdrawn.

Meantime, the release of another 1,900 Vietnamese war prisoners was expected today. Saigon planned to free 700 Communist POWs at Loc Ninh, 75 miles north of Saigon, while both sides agreed to free 600 prisoners each near Chon Thanh, 40 miles north of Saigon.

A two-day swap of 1,000 Communist prisoners for 400 South Vietnamese soldiers was completed Sunday near Bong Son on the central coast, a Saigon command spokesman said. But during the the release, a grenade explosion killed two South Vietnamese military policemen and wounded four others.

Indians Declare Separate Nation

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (UPI) — Indians occupying this tiny, historic hamlet on the Oglala Sioux reservation declared war on the United States Sunday after proclaiming it an independent nation seeking recognition by the United Nations. An FBI agent was wounded in an exchange of gunfire.

A temporary peace was shattered Sunday when Indians "arrested'' and disarmed six white men, including four federal agents, and exchanged gunfire with FBI agents on a road leading into the settlement.

All leaves were cancelled and heavily-armed U.S. marshals were ordered into standby alert and given field equipment following the gunfire Sunday, but no new shooting incidents were reported during the night.

One FBI agent, Curtis Fitzgerald, suffered a bullet wound in the wrist during the gun battle and was taken by helicopter to Ellsworth Air Force Base 120 miles away. No Indians were injured.

The FBI said the Indians fired first and later apologized for the incident. Indians denied they fired first.

"We consider ourselves under attack and at war with the U.S.,'' said Russell Means, a leader of the American Indian Movement (AIM), which has held Wounded Knee since taking it at gunpoint Feb. 27.

The last time an FBI man was wounded by gunshot was at Marietta, Ga., when a man holding several people hostage wounded two agents, neither seriously.

Means, one of the few AIM chieftains who is an Oglala Sioux, instructed armed AIM followers to "shoot to kill'' FBI agents attempting to enter this 40-acre compound to make arrests.

"Any violation of our borders will be construed as an act of war and be dealt with immediately,'' said Means, his long black hair tied back in pigtails.

"Anyone caught in here without passing through our customs or getting a pass or visa will be dealt with as spies and as countries deal with spies all over the world,'' he said.

The violence erupted as U.S. Attorney William Clayton prepared a "substantial'' number of indictments for a federal grand jury in Sioux Falls, S.D., and readied forces to attempt to arrest AIM leaders.

Means said neither he nor his fellow warriors would allow themselves to be arrested by federal agents.

Means rallied more than 400 supporters on a hill near the Sacred Heart Mission shortly after six of eight Oglala Sioux district chiarmen on Pine Ridge reservation voted to withdraw from the official tribal council.

They declared themselves free of authority under the federal act that created the reservation system in 1937 and said they unilateraly established Wounded Knee as an independent and soveriegn nation over which the United States has no authority.

AIM answered the U.S. Justice Department decision to pull back roadblocks Saturday by arresting four men who identified themselves as postal inspectors along with two white ranchers.

All six were held, questioned and released, their weapons confiscated and turned over the AIM security police.

In Lumberton, N.C. Tuscarora Indian leader Howard Brooks says his people, who have been demonstrating for several days, will quit for awhile.

Brooks made the announcement Sunday.

MARIN CAGE TEAMS LOSE IN TOURNEYS

Marin's two representatives in post-season basketball tournaments were defeated Saturday evening in games for third place.

College of Marin fell to City College of San Francisco in overtime, 69-61, in the California State Community College championships in Ventura, and Drake High School lost to Salesian of Richmond, 70-62, in the Tournament of Champions at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

Six Nations Vote Float Of Currency

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The dollar firmed in Europe today and gold fell following weekend currency developments in which West Germany decided to revalue the mark upward by 3 per cent and six other Common Market members cut their currencies free from the dollar for the first time in 29 years.

So far nine Common Market members are floating their currencies, which means they will let the dollar find its own parity according to the law of supply and demand and that they will no longer buy up billions in unwanted dollars to keep the dollar at an agreed upon price.

Hubert Trost of Vienna, a spokesman for the Austrian Nationl Bank, called the joint float a "long pending and logical decision,'' but in Paris French economist Pierre Uri warned that "nothing is effective so long as the United States is not doing anything about its balance of payments.''

In Brussels, the world's 14 richest non-Communist nations began work on details of a package to calm speculation

PRIMER FOR SURVIVORS

Making Decisions After A Death In The Family

By JEFF GREER
(First of six articles)

"Funerals are good for people,'' a prominent Marin County psychiatrist declared. He was referring to the survivors.

"Funerals often show a mistaken sense of what constitutes respect for the dead,'' a Marin clergyman countered.

"Sometimes in their grief, survivors can be over-extended financially,'' a priest warned.

"Funerals are a barbaric custom. When I die, I want to be cremated and forgotten,'' a private citizen declared.

However they may have felt about their own last rites, 1,520 Marin County residents died during 1972. In almost every case, their survivors were left to make all the decisions about last respects to the dead.

Many of the families found themselves uninformed and ill-prepared to cope with the many problems, their thinking hampered by the stress of grief. Their decisions often were molded by their minister, the funeral director they chose, advice from friends, and the dictates of custom.

Most Marin County families are small, and the relatives distant, Rev. Edward Dingberg of St. Isabella's Catholic Church, Terra Linda, pointed out. Therefore, the survivors are likely to have experienced few previous funerals, and lack relatives nearby who can help, he said.

"The shock of death is a real tragedy. Usually in Marin the survivor is a young father or mother with a few children. The survivors are completely alone,'' the priest added. "It makes more difficulty for arrangements.''

Father Dingberg said he doesn't particularly urge his

American Spy Released After 20 Years As Chinese Prisoner

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI) — John T. Downey, an American spy freed from a Chinese prison after more than 20 years, arrived in the Philippines today and almost immediately boarded a mercy jet rushing him to the bedside of his sick mother in Connecticut. (See picture, page 18)

"I feel fine, thank you,'' he said.

In the meantime, Downey's mother, who suffered a stroke last Wednesday and has been in critical condition in a New Britain, Conn., hospital, was said to be "vastly improved.''

However, Dr. Bliss B. Clarke said the retired schoolteacher had not been told of her son's release. Clarke said he feared her excitement at the news would worsen her condition.

The 42-year-old Downey, an employe of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), was jailed by the Chinese after his plane was forced down on a flight from Korea to Japan. He was freed early today only after President Nixon appealed directly to Premier Chou En-lai.

Until early this year, officials contended Downey was a civilian employe of the Army. But then Nixon admitted he was a CIA employe.

Downey walked to freedom earlier today across the Lowu border bridge dividing China and Hong Kong. He smiled broadly as he left China and walked to a U.S. helicopter that took him to a special hospital jet for the flight to Clark.

"Apparently, he was OK,'' said a member of the U.S. consulate that met him at the border.

Members of a small welcoming party said Downey looked a little pale, but was "very fit.'' He left even before changing from his Chinese blue prison uniform to civilian clothing.

Newsmen were forbidden to speak to him, but a government photographer called out: "Where were you held?''

"Peking,'' Downey replied.

When he arrived at Clark, the reception center for returning American POWs, he stepped briskly from the C9A evacuation plane that carried him from Hong Kong. He was wearing a brown check sports coat, an off-white shirt with tie and light brown slacks.

He walked quickly to the huge U.S. Air Force C141 Starlifter transport plane that would fly him home, landing at Windsor Locks, Conn., after a flight via Anchorage.

As he flew home, Downey was accompanied by his brother William and a State Department official. William Downey said doctors who flew with Downey from Hong Kong gave

Marin Mail Switch Delayed Until May

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The U.S. Postal Service plan to start processing all Marin County mail in San Francisco today has been postponed to late May, a postal official disclosed today.

The processing switch, revealed last month, to the Rincon Annex Post Office in San Francisco, has been delayed because two sorting machines are not yet installed, according to Marshall R. Haines, mail processing representative of USPS San Francisco District.

"It will probably be late May'' before the installation is completed, he said.

Haines, who said the change will decrease the cost of mail processing, claimed the two machines can sort mail in half the time men now take to do it.

"The change is not intended to delay the mail'' from Marin, he said, adding that in-county mailings will arrive "just as speedily'' despite being routed through San Francisco. Managerial controls and the postal transportation system will insure prompt arrivals for Marin County mail, he said.

San Rafael Postmaster Hugh Cassidy, however, has predictd the change will result in delays of at least one day for most mail to Marin addresses which originates in this county. Cassidy has also warned of delays for other Marin mailings, since outgoing county mail will have to wait for "machine time'' at the Rincon Annex before being routed and dispatched.

More Communist Violations Of Truce Reported By Saigon

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Saigon military command reported more Communist truce violations today, and in neighboring Cambodia, Communists attacked government troops at Preah Prasay, only 12 miles northeast of Phnom Penh on the east bank of the Mekong River.

Cambodian high command spokesman Col. Am Rong said three government soldiers were killed and one wounded in the attack. Since the end of January, Cambodian Communists, led by North Vietnamese cadres, have threatened most government positions on the east bank of the Mekong, Phnom Qnh's main supply artery.

Communists also stepped up pressure along Highway 2, leading southeast from the capital, hitting government positions at Keang Moeung and Chambank, 18 and 24 miles from Phnom Penh.

The International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS) agreed today to investigate the oldest and newest cease-fire violation complaints.

Canadian Ambassador Michel Gauvin said the ICCS decided to investigate a South Vietnamese government complaint of shelling attacks immediately after the cease-fire at the old U.S. naval base at the mouth of the Cua Viet river.

It also agreed to investigate a Viet Cong complaint concerning shelling Saturday of a proposed prisoner of war release site near the Central Coast at Duc Pho, about 315 miles northeast of Saigon. The protest said the shelling came just a day before the scheduled exchange of Vietnamese prisoners of war.

The Cua Viet investigation, Gauvin said, also will include a recent Viet Cong Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG) protest of air and sea attacks in the same area.

In weekend fighting, the South Vietnamese said 27 Communists were killed in two firefights Saturday near Bong Son on the central coast.

In Cambodia, B52 bombers pounded Communist positions Sunday in support of a two-day counteroffensive to save the isolated base at Khleang Moeung, 18 miles south of Phnom Penh. Field reports said the raids failed to break the Communist lines.

In Vietnam, U.S. military spokesmen said that Soviet-built SAM2 antiaircraft missiles, which American and South Vietnamese spokesmen said were installed by the Communists 16 miles below the ormer Demilitalrized Zone (DMZ) after the cease-fire, have been removed "or at least moved."

The missiles were not visible in the latest reconnaissance photos taken of the old U.S. Marine Corps air strip at Khe Sanh, the spokesman said.

Optimistic Viet Stand By Rogers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers says he is "entirely satisfied" the Vietnam peace agreement is going to be carried out effectively and that U.S. military power will not be needed in Indochina to enforce it.

"I'm convinced that they've (the North Vietnamese) decided that force is not the way to solve the problems of Indochina, so we think it's going to work and we're not going to talk about any military threats in the event of a violation of the cease-fire," Rogers said Sunday. "We don't think it's going to be required."

Rogers said he was "optimistic" that the agreement would work, that the cease-fire would be effective, that U.S. prisoners of war would be returned on time, and that all U.S. troops would be out by the March 28 deadline.

"Now there obviously are going to be some problems, and there are going to be some violations, and there are going to be sporadic instances of gunfire and so forth, but all of the indications are that the basic decision has been made that this agreement is going to work, will be effective, and I'm entirely satisfied on that point," Rogers said.

The secretary of state was interviewed on CBS' Face the Nation.

Rogers said he believed Congress eventually would support President Nixon and furnish postwar aid to the nations of Indochina.

On other subjects, he said the U.S. diplomats who will run the American liaison office in Peking will be selected within the next 60 days. He also said he hoped Soviet trade legislation would not be tied by Congress to the issue of Soviet exit fees for Jews leaving the country.

Rogers repeated his statement that he favors the death penalty for the men responsible for murdering two American diplomats in the Sudan. He said terrorists who commit such crimes are "savages—literal savages."

Explosion Victim Not Identified

EUREKA (UPI) — An unidentified man was killed Sunday night in a mysterious explosion in a vacant downtown lot that shattered windows over a wide area.

Police said the explosive material was apparently black powder, but they were unable to determine the cause of the blast.

The explosion, which was heard at least six blocks away, occurred about 20 feet from a two-story apartment building.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Rail Strike Ends

LONDON (UPI) — Striking railway engineers returned to work today at the end of their third strike in three weeks. But even with the trains running again, traffic remained snarled throughout the country.

Disruptions caused by one-day walkouts Friday and yesterday caused cancellation of services on some routes into London and severely curtailed others.

As train woes worried commuters, international travellers faced disruptions at the nation's air and seaports from selective strikes by key customs officials.

Other strikes reduced operations in hospitals and government offices and left more than four million homes, schools, offices and factories with low natural gas pressure or no heating at all.

Koreans Killed

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UPI) — North Korean troops opened fire on South Korean soldiers killing two and wounding one other in a border clash last Wednesday, the U.N. Command said today.

The U.N. Command said the incident occurred when five South Korean army civil policemen replacing border markers north of Chorwon, 45 miles northeast of Seoul, came under small arms fire from North Korean positions.

Troops On Guard

BELFAST (UPI) — Troops surrounded an isolated Roman Catholic community with machineguns and armored cars today to protect it from gangs of Protestants who earlier invaded the area and brawled with its residents.

The Catholic inhabitants of the Belfast suburb of Whitehouse earlier asked the army for guns so they could protect themselves from vigilante groups.

Instead, hundreds of troops rushed to the town after Protestant militants in the Ulster Defense Association organized what officials called two invasions into the small neighborhood within 48 hours.

Arms Talks Resume

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States and Soviet Union today resumed the second round of their Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) aimed at restricting the race for increasingly destructive nuclear weapons.

Unlike the first round, which lasted two and one-half years, from November, 1969, to May, 1972, Salt II is intended to limit the quality rather than quantity of nuclear arsenals.

Salt I produced agreement on restricting each side to two antimissile bases with each site comprising not more than 100 rockets and placed a 5- year freeze on present numbers of offensive Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles.

The first session of Salt II, which ran from Nov. 21 to Dec. 21 last year, established a bilateral commission to supervise adherence to those agreements.

Gaullists Win

PARIS (UPI) — The Gaullist coalition which has ruled France for 15 years won another five-year lease on power by defeating a Communist-Socialist alliance in yesterday's runoff National Assembly election. But its majority was sharply reduced.

The leftwing Communist-Socialist union scored impressive gains, and the Gaullists won the contest only after promising sweeping social welfare reforms and after making an election pact with the moderate opposition to stop the Communists from coming to power.

Energy Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The presidents of five U.S. energy associations said today the energy problem is potentially at a point where "the nation is on a collision course with a major energy shorgage."

"The United States is faced with a growing energy problem which has the potential of developing into a major national crisis," they said. "Public awareness of this is vital to its resolution."

The joint statement of the five energy associations was signed by the presidents of the American Gas Association, American Petroleum Institute, Atomic Industrial Forum, Edison Electric Institute and National Coal Association.

Hospital Holds Earthquake Sale

SYLMAR, Calif. (UPI) -Olive View Hospital conducted a unique "earthquake sale" Sunday, slightly more than two years after Southern California was struck by the state's most devastating temblor in half a century.

Thousands of items, from surgical scalpels to emergency elevators, were priced for 30 cents on the dollar. But the hottest items were 200 disabled clocks, their hands frozen at the precise moment when the big quake struck at 6:01 a.m.

More than 1,000 souveniers hunters and commercial buying agents surged through the gates for the start of the 60-day sale Saturday.

Peronists Lead; Results Changed

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Followers of exiled former President Juan D. Peron won sweeping victories in the most important elections in a decade Sunday but the military government suspended the counting of votes for four hours early today with a Peron handpicked candidate for president near victory.

Onetime dentist Hector J. Campora, 63, who was chosen personally by Peron, swept to an overwhelming lead in a 9-man presidential race. It was the first presidential vote in 10 years.

With 98 per cent of the vote in, Campora polled 48.70 per cent of the ballots. His nearest rival trailed with 21.1 per cent.

But by law a presidential candidate must poll more than 50 per cent to win on the first ballot. Otherwise, he must run a second winner-take-all race against the runnerup.

Later Monday morning, however, the government changed the figure of returns counted to only 45,084 polling places, indicating that only 85 per cent of the vote had been tallied. No explanation was given for the discrepancy and no other changes made in the returns.

Peron workers, using their own statistics, predicted their man would gain 52 to 54 per cent of the vote, enough to ensure Campora of victory in the first round.

Peron supporters danced in the streets and chanted "Peron, Per-on" as results olled in showing his Justicialista Liberation Front scoring heavy gains. Peron himself is in exile in Madrid.

Aspirin Makers Hit On False Advertising

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission accused makers of leading aspirin products today of false and misleading advertising. It asked that they devote 25 per cent of future ads to admitting it.

Named in the complaint were the manufacturers of Bufferin, Excedrin, Excedrin PM, Anacin, Arthritis Pain Formula, Bayer, Cope, Vanquish and Midol.

Among the claims which the FTC said were false:

—That Bufferin works twice as fast as aspirin.

—That Excedrin relieves tension and anxiety.

—That Bayer is more effective for relief of minor pain than other aspirin.

—That Anacin is more effective for pain relief than plain aspirin.

The complaint was originally proposed by the FTC nearly a year ago. Negotiations since then between the agency and the drug companies failed to resolve the issue and the FTC moved formally today against them.

The companies were directed to show cause why they should not be ordered to stop the advertising practices called into question.

The FTC proposed that they not be allowed to advertise the products in question for a period of two years unless they devote 25 per cent of their advertising expenses, not including production, in each medium to corrective ads.

Those ads would have to be approved by the FTC and would consist exclusively of confessions that previous advertising was wrong, and what the truth is.

Any of the companies could get out of having to use further corrective commercials if they came to the FTC during the two-year period with surveys showing the public had become fully aware of the truth about their previous advertisements. The surveys would have to be made under FTC control.

Houston Oil Spill Location Swept

HOUSTON (UPI) — Coast Guardsmen walked beaches and swept over a five mile stretch of the Houston Ship Channel in skimmer barges today, recovering globs of sandy and floating oil that poured into the industrial waterway from a ruptured barge.

A Coast Guard spokesman said 168,000 gallons of industrial grade oil were lost in the accident last Friday.

Optimistic Viet Stand By Rogers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers says he is "entirely satisfied" the Vietnam peace agreement is going to be carried out effectively and that U.S. military power will not be needed in Indochina to enforce it.

"I'm convinced that they've (the North Vietnamese) decided that force is not the way to solve the problems of Indochina, so we think it's going to work and we're not going to talk about any military threats in the event of a violation of the cease-fire," Rogers said Sunday. "We don't think it's going to be required."

Rogers said he was "optimistic" that the agreement would work, that the cease-fire would be effective, that U.S. prisoners of war would be returned on time, and that all U.S. troops would be out by the March 28 deadline.

"Now there obviously are going to be some problems, and there are going to be some violations, and there are going to be sporadic instances of gunfire and so forth, but all of the indications are that the basic decision has been made that this agreement is going to work, will be effective, and I'm entirely satisfied on that point," Rogers said.

The secretary of state was interviewed on CBS' Face the Nation.

Rogers said he believed Congress eventually would support President Nixon and furnish postwar aid to the nations of Indochina.

On other subjects, he said the U.S. diplomats who will run the American liaison office in Peking will be selected within the next 60 days. He also said he hoped Soviet trade legislation would not be tied by Congress to the issue of Soviet exit fees for Jews leaving the country.

Rogers repeated his statement that he favors the death penalty for the men responsible for murdering two American diplomats in the Sudan. He said terrorists who commit such crimes are "savages—literal savages."

Explosion Victim Not Identified

EUREKA (UPI) — An unidentified man was killed Sunday night in a mysterious explosion in a vacant downtown lot that shattered windows over a wide area.

Police said the explosive material was apparently black powder, but they were unable to determine the cause of the blast.

The explosion, which was heard at least six blocks away, occurred about 20 feet from a two-story apartment building.

Rail Strike Ends

LONDON (UPI) — Striking railway engineers returned to work today at the end of their third strike in three weeks. But even with the trains running again, traffic remained snarled throughout the country.

Disruptions caused by one-day walkouts Friday and yesterday caused cancellation of services on some routes into London and severely curtailed others.

As train woes worried commuters, international travellers faced disruptions at the nation's air and seaports from selective strikes by key customs officials.

Other strikes reduced operations in hospitals and government offices and left more than four million homes, schools, offices and factories with low natural gas pressure or no heating at all.

Koreans Killed

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UPI) — North Korean troops opened fire on South Korean soldiers killing two and wounding one other in a border clash last Wednesday, the U.N. Command said today.

The U.N. Command said the incident occurred when five South Korean army civil policemen replacing border markers north of Chorwon, 45 miles northeast of Seoul, came under small arms fire from North Korean positions.

Troops On Guard

BELFAST (UPI) — Troops surrounded an isolated Roman Catholic community with machineguns and armored cars today to protect it from gangs of Protestants who earlier invaded the area and brawled with its residents.

The Catholic inhabitants of the Belfast suburb of Whitehouse earlier asked the army for guns so they could protect themselves from vigilante groups.

Instead, hundreds of troops rushed to the town after Protestant militants in the Ulster Defense Association organized what officials called two invasions into the small neighborhood within 48 hours.

Arms Talks Resume

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States and Soviet Union today resumed the second round of their Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) aimed at restricting the race for increasingly destructive nuclear weapons.

Unlike the first round, which lasted two and one-half years, from November, 1969, to May, 1972, Salt II is intended to limit the quality rather than quantity of nuclear arsenals.

Salt I produced agreement on restricting each side to two antimissile bases with each site comprising not more than 100 rockets and placed a 5- year freeze on present numbers of offensive Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles.

The first session of Salt II, which ran from Nov. 21 to Dec. 21 last year, established a bilateral commission to supervise adherence to those agreements.

Gaullists Win

PARIS (UPI) — The Gaullist coalition which has ruled France for 15 years won another five-year lease on power by defeating a Communist-Socialist alliance in yesterday's runoff National Assembly election. But its majority was sharply reduced.

The leftwing Communist-Socialist union scored impressive gains, and the Gaullists won the contest only after promising sweeping social welfare reforms and after making an election pact with the moderate opposition to stop the Communists from coming to power.

Energy Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The presidents of five U.S. energy associations said today the energy problem is potentially at a point where "the nation is on a collision course with a major energy shorgage."

"The United States is faced with a growing energy problem which has the potential of developing into a major national crisis," they said. "Public awareness of this is vital to its resolution."

The joint statement of the five energy associations was signed by the presidents of the American Gas Association, American Petroleum Institute, Atomic Industrial Forum, Edison Electric Institute and National Coal Association.

Hospital Holds Earthquake Sale

SYLMAR, Calif. (UPI) -Olive View Hospital conducted a unique "earthquake sale" Sunday, slightly more than two years after Southern California was struck by the state's most devastating temblor in half a century.

Thousands of items, from surgical scalpels to emergency elevators, were priced for 30 cents on the dollar. But the hottest items were 200 disabled clocks, their hands frozen at the precise moment when the big quake struck at 6:01 a.m.

More than 1,000 souveniers hunters and commercial buying agents surged through the gates for the start of the 60-day sale Saturday.

Peronists Lead; Results Changed

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Followers of exiled former President Juan D. Peron won sweeping victories in the most important elections in a decade Sunday but the military government suspended the counting of votes for four hours early today with a Peron handpicked candidate for president near victory.

Onetime dentist Hector J. Campora, 63, who was chosen personally by Peron, swept to an overwhelming lead in a 9-man presidential race. It was the first presidential vote in 10 years.

With 98 per cent of the vote in, Campora polled 48.70 per cent of the ballots. His nearest rival trailed with 21.1 per cent.

But by law a presidential candidate must poll more than 50 per cent to win on the first ballot. Otherwise, he must run a second winner-take-all race against the runnerup.

Later Monday morning, however, the government changed the figure of returns counted to only 45,084 polling places, indicating that only 85 per cent of the vote had been tallied. No explanation was given for the discrepancy and no other changes made in the returns.

Peron workers, using their own statistics, predicted their man would gain 52 to 54 per cent of the vote, enough to ensure Campora of victory in the first round.

Peron supporters danced in the streets and chanted "Peron, Per-on" as results olled in showing his Justicialista Liberation Front scoring heavy gains. Peron himself is in exile in Madrid.

Aspirin Makers Hit On False Advertising

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission accused makers of leading aspirin products today of false and misleading advertising. It asked that they devote 25 per cent of future ads to admitting it.

Named in the complaint were the manufacturers of Bufferin, Excedrin, Excedrin PM, Anacin, Arthritis Pain Formula, Bayer, Cope, Vanquish and Midol.

Among the claims which the FTC said were false:

—That Bufferin works twice as fast as aspirin.

—That Excedrin relieves tension and anxiety.

—That Bayer is more effective for relief of minor pain than other aspirin.

—That Anacin is more effective for pain relief than plain aspirin.

The complaint was originally proposed by the FTC nearly a year ago. Negotiations since then between the agency and the drug companies failed to resolve the issue and the FTC moved formally today against them.

The companies were directed to show cause why they should not be ordered to stop the advertising practices called into question.

The FTC proposed that they not be allowed to advertise the products in question for a period of two years unless they devote 25 per cent of their advertising expenses, not including production, in each medium to corrective ads.

Those ads would have to be approved by the FTC and would consist exclusively of confessions that previous advertising was wrong, and what the truth is.

Any of the companies could get out of having to use further corrective commercials if they came to the FTC during the two-year period with surveys showing the public had become fully aware of the truth about their previous advertisements. The surveys would have to be made under FTC control.

Houston Oil Spill Location Swept

HOUSTON (UPI) — Coast Guardsmen walked beaches and swept over a five mile stretch of the Houston Ship Channel in skimmer barges today, recovering globs of sandy and floating oil that poured into the industrial waterway from a ruptured barge.

A Coast Guard spokesman said 168,000 gallons of industrial grade oil were lost in the accident last Friday.

INDIANS ASK INDEPENDENCE

Stan Holder, head of the American Indian Movement security force, carries two guns found on government officials identified as postal inspectors. The Indians, who warned that federal agents who come to Wounded Knee will be arrested, yesterday declared war on the United States after proclaiming their reservation an independent nation seeking recognition by the United Nations. More Communist Violations Of Truce Reported By Saigon

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Saigon military command reported more Communist truce violations today, and in neighboring Cambodia, Communists attacked government troops at Preah Prasay, only 12 miles northeast of Phnom Penh on the east bank of the Mekong River.

Cambodian high command spokesman Col. Am Rong said three government soldiers were killed and one wounded in the attack. Since the end of January, Cambodian Communists, led by North Vietnamese cadres, have threatened most government positions on the east bank of the Mekong, Phnom Qnh's main supply artery.

Communists also stepped up pressure along Highway 2, leading southeast from the capital, hitting government positions at Keang Moeung and Chambank, 18 and 24 miles from Phnom Penh.

The International Commission for Control and Supervision (ICCS) agreed today to investigate the oldest and newest cease-fire violation complaints.

Canadian Ambassador Michel Gauvin said the ICCS decided to investigate a South Vietnamese government complaint of shelling attacks immediately after the cease-fire at the old U.S. naval base at the mouth of the Cua Viet river.

It also agreed to investigate a Viet Cong complaint concerning shelling Saturday of a proposed prisoner of war release site near the Central Coast at Duc Pho, about 315 miles northeast of Saigon. The protest said the shelling came just a day before the scheduled exchange of Vietnamese prisoners of war.

The Cua Viet investigation, Gauvin said, also will include a recent Viet Cong Provisional Revolutionary Government (PRG) protest of air and sea attacks in the same area.

In weekend fighting, the South Vietnamese said 27 Communists were killed in two firefights Saturday near Bong Son on the central coast.

In Cambodia, B52 bombers pounded Communist positions Sunday in support of a two-day counteroffensive to save the isolated base at Khleang Moeung, 18 miles south of Phnom Penh. Field reports said the raids failed to break the Communist lines.

In Vietnam, U.S. military spokesmen said that Soviet-built SAM2 antiaircraft missiles, which American and South Vietnamese spokesmen said were installed by the Communists 16 miles below the ormer Demilitalrized Zone (DMZ) after the cease-fire, have been removed "or at least moved."

The missiles were not visible in the latest reconnaissance photos taken of the old U.S. Marine Corps air strip at Khe Sanh, the spokesman said.

Hospital Workers To Vote Thursday

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Some 200 non-professional employees at Marin General Hospital will vote Thursday on which labor organization, if any, should represent them at the collective bargaining table.

The election, called for earlier this year, will culminate a months-long David and Goliath struggle between the Marin County Employees Association and Teamsters Local 856 of San Francisco.

Both groups, unable to campaign inside the hospital, have flooded the mailboxes of hospital workers, seeking their vote.

The MCEA has pounded hard on the point that it is not a union but rather a locally organized and controlled association of public employees who share like interests and concerns.

The Teamsters local, meanwhile, points to its national affiliation (AFL-CIO) as providing greater strength, experience and power at the bargaining table.

Those at the hospital who must decide are nurses' aides, groundsmen, service technicians, storekeepers, surgical technicians and other nonprofessionals who have not been separately represented in the past.

The two labor groups fighting for control of the employees are as different in outlook as their initiation fees — $50 by the Teamsters and none by the MCEA. About the only thing they agree upon is that employees "do need representation", according to the MCEA.

The MCEA has capitalized on the difference in dues — $4 paid voluntarily to MCEA as opposed to $10.50 paid to Local 856.

Another difference is one of personalities, or more specifically, Local 856's secretary-treasurer Rudy Tham.

Tham was one of three persons indicted last August by a federal grand jury in New York on suspicion of conspiring to extort a $190,000 "labor consultant contract" from an air freight firm for a former union official. The case is still pending.

Hospital employees voting Thursday will have three choices: Local 856, MCEA or no representation at all. A runoff election will be held within a week if no choice gets a majority of the vote.

Californians Are Drinking, Smoking More

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Californians are drinking and smoking more, with a special preference for beer, statistics show.

The State Board of Equalization reported yesterday that Californians consumed 19.54 gallons of beer per person in fiscal 1971-72, up from 17.70 gallons in 1970-71.

Cigarette consumption increased from 130 packs per person to 133 packs. However, the board said the figure was still well below the all-time high of 147 packs recorded in 1964-65 about the time the U.S. surgeon General issued a report on the dangers of smoking to health.

Paragraphs Dropped From Saturday Story

Some paragraphs were dropped or garbled in Saturday's article in the Independent-Journal on the effects of federal cutbacks in spending on Marin County. The story's first four paragraphs were:

Proposed cutbacks in the federal budget will not affect Marin as adversely as previously expected, County Administrator John F. Barrows reported.

Barrows, in a report to be considered Tuesday by county supervisors, said his analysis of the multi-billion dollar federal budget indicated some programs will receive increased federal aid and some less.

While not citing specific figures, Barrows said a sharp reduction is expected in federal grants to the county for park lands. Also, cutbacks are expected in employment, environmental protection and antipoverty programs.

Federal funding should increase in the areas of law enforcement, drug abuse and alcoholism treatment, he added.

Haldeman Denies Access To Nixon

NEW YORK (UPI) — Presidential assistant H. R. Haldeman, reputed to be President Nixon's closest advisor, says he hasn't gone into Nixon's office on his own initiative "ten times in the past four years," reports Newsweek Magazine.

In its edition released Sunday, Newsweek says Haldeman asserts: "They say I'm the one guy with total access to the President, but he decides about the access ... I don't generally make the decision as to who sees the President."

According to Newsweek, Haldeman also denies there is a power struggle among presidential aides, and says: "None of us is a politician. We are not here because we had a burning desire to get to Washington and get pwer ... We have strong disagreements and heated arguments about what ought to be done, but we encourage that."

Car Stolen In Hub Is Found Stripped

A 1972 Volkswagen, reported stolen from the home of a San Anselmo planning commissioner Saturday, was found stripped in Woodacre on Sunday, San Anselmo police said today.

Commissioner Daniel H. Goltz told police his car was taken from his home at 4 Canyon Road late Friday or early Saturday, police said. The car, stripped of its engine, was found abandoned on Sylvestris Road in Woodacre yesterday.

There have been no brownouts or blackouts here because PG&E has built new electric facilities on schedule as needed. And there's plenty of electricity here today and plenty in construction or planned to meet growing public needs and consumer demand through 1979.

But if our construction program is slowed down unduly or stopped, there definitely could be brownouts or blackouts here. We build ahead to prevent such problems. And we must continue building, because nowadays it takes about 10 years to acquire a suitable site, obtain regulatory approvals, construct and get a major power plant "on the line."

Some claim growth and progress are at an end or should be, and that therefore more electric power capacity is not necessary.

The fact is that power demands are going to continue to increase. And PG&E must meet these demands reliably and on time or there will be power shortages. We are doing our job now and are ready, willing and able to keep on doing it. Moreover, qualified, competent and responsible public agencies assure that in doing so we serve the best public interests, including environmental and ecological considerations.

Hospital Workers To Vote Thursday

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Some 200 non-professional employees at Marin General Hospital will vote Thursday on which labor organization, if any, should represent them at the collective bargaining table.

The election, called for earlier this year, will culminate a months-long David and Goliath struggle between the Marin County Employees Association and Teamsters Local 856 of San Francisco.

Both groups, unable to campaign inside the hospital, have flooded the mailboxes of hospital workers, seeking their vote.

The MCEA has pounded hard on the point that it is not a union but rather a locally organized and controlled association of public employees who share like interests and concerns.

The Teamsters local, meanwhile, points to its national affiliation (AFL-CIO) as providing greater strength, experience and power at the bargaining table.

Those at the hospital who must decide are nurses' aides, groundsmen, service technicians, storekeepers, surgical technicians and other nonprofessionals who have not been separately represented in the past.

The two labor groups fighting for control of the employees are as different in outlook as their initiation fees — $50 by the Teamsters and none by the MCEA. About the only thing they agree upon is that employees "do need representation", according to the MCEA.

The MCEA has capitalized on the difference in dues — $4 paid voluntarily to MCEA as opposed to $10.50 paid to Local 856.

Another difference is one of personalities, or more specifically, Local 856's secretary-treasurer Rudy Tham.

Tham was one of three persons indicted last August by a federal grand jury in New York on suspicion of conspiring to extort a $190,000 "labor consultant contract" from an air freight firm for a former union official. The case is still pending.

Hospital employees voting Thursday will have three choices: Local 856, MCEA or no representation at all. A runoff election will be held within a week if no choice gets a majority of the vote.

Cycle Driver Hospitalized

A 19-year-old Mill Valley man was hospitalized after a collision between his motorcycle and a car at 2:55 p.m. yesterday on Panoramic Highway west of Mountain Home Inn, California Highway patrolmen reported.

Brant William Gregory of 401 Wellesley Court, was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital with a broken right ankle, hospital spokesmen reported.

Gregory was eastbound on Panoramic Highway when a car driven by John Rhodes Ashby, 46, of 102 Howard Drive, Tiburon, made a left turn in front of him, according to patrolmen.

Californians Are Drinking, Smoking More

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Californians are drinking and smoking more, with a special preference for beer, statistics show.

The State Board of Equalization reported yesterday that Californians consumed 19.54 gallons of beer per person in fiscal 1971-72, up from 17.70 gallons in 1970-71.

Cigarette consumption increased from 130 packs per person to 133 packs. However, the board said the figure was still well below the all-time high of 147 packs recorded in 1964-65 about the time the U.S. surgeon General issued a report on the dangers of smoking to health.

Events Slated For Candidate

Two receptions and two coffees have been scheduled for Dr. Thomas Spencer, candidate for the Mill Valley School District board.

Coffees will be at 10 a.m. Thursday at the Myrna Ober home, 35 Edgewood Avenue, Homestead Valley, and 8 p.m. March 19 at the Peter Empey home, 128 Harvard Avenue, Tamalpais Valley.

Receptions will be at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Don Richetts's home, 639 Northern Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, and 8 p.m. Friday at the Peter Gear home, 138 Peralta Avenue, Tamalpais Valley.

Paragraphs Dropped From Saturday Story

Some paragraphs were dropped or garbled in Saturday's article in the Independent-Journal on the effects of federal cutbacks in spending on Marin County. The story's first four paragraphs were:

Proposed cutbacks in the federal budget will not affect Marin as adversely as previously expected, County Administrator John F. Barrows reported.

Barrows, in a report to be considered Tuesday by county supervisors, said his analysis of the multi-billion dollar federal budget indicated some programs will receive increased federal aid and some less.

While not citing specific figures, Barrows said a sharp reduction is expected in federal grants to the county for park lands. Also, cutbacks are expected in employment, environmental protection and antipoverty programs.

Federal funding should increase in the areas of law enforcement, drug abuse and alcoholism treatment, he added.

FUNERALS

parishioners to plan their own funerals in advance.

"We have our block arrangements — when a death occurs, the neighbors try to be helpful," he said. "They take care of the children, feeding the family and other things. Their care and helpfulness can be a tremendous comfort" to the bereaved, the priest explained.

Rev. Karel F. Botermans, minister of the Unitarian Fellowship of Marin in San Rafael urges everyone to plan in advance for the inevitability of death.

"A will doesn't do anything as far as funeral arrangements are concerned," he warned. "By the time anyone gets around to the will, the funeral's usually all over. Therefore we encourage people to make arrangements in advance, and to let the next of kin and their church know."

"A lot of people just don't want to think about" their own death and the necessary arrangements, Botermans said.

His church has distributed hundreds of forms outlining questions that must be resolved in any death. These include instructions for the guardianship of minor children if both parents die, type of burial, funeral, and memorial donations preferred.

"The first time, we mailed out 650 forms and got only 17 back," Botermans reported. He said the program of keeping funeral plans in the church files, however, gradually is meeting wider acceptance.

Dr. William M. Lamers Jr. is a Kentfield psychiatrist who has lectured nationwide on the emotional aspects of death and funerals. He said it's natural for the living to avoid planning for their own death. "We're all creatures of denial — reluctant to admit it's going to happen to us," he said.

"We become immune" to ordinary deaths in the community at large. "What really gets to us is a disaster, or a death in the family," he said. "We begin to realize: 'Hey, that can happen to me.' "

Whether the living person plans his or her own treatment after death, or leaves it to the family there are many options available, and many questins to be answered.

Headline Gives Wrong Impression

A headline on Thursday's Independent-Journal report of the meeting of the Marin County Board of Education gave the impression that the board "wants to shelve" the Marin County Committee on School District Organization.

Asst. Supt. Robert E. Spain said the subject of the committee's continued existence was placed on the agenda for the board's April 2 meeting at the request of only one member, Lee C. Richardson Jr.

A request that permit teachers at the Development Center at Forest Meadows, Dominican College, should eventually be certificated teachers was referred to negotiators without recommendations, said Spain.

Countywide Plan Before Hub Council

The San Anselmo City Council will consider a recommendation from the planning commission that the city approve the goals of the countywide plan when it meets at 8 p.m. tomorrow in city hall.

The council will review nominatons for outstanding senior citizen, consider applying for federal flood insurance and flood damage funds, and hear a report from the city's general plan committee.

Stained Glass Windows Smashed

Three stained glass windows in the Cavalier Baptist Church, Baltimore and Holcomb avenues, Larkspur, were smashed at 9 o'clock Saturday evening, reported Larkspur police.

Pastor David Arthur Tucker told police he was working in his office when he heard a noise from the chapel. A rock was found on the chapel floor, said police.

Housing Element Plans Session

The Housing Element subcommittee of San Anselmo's Citizens' Committee on the General Plan will meet at 8 p.m. today in the Robson House, 237 Crescent Road.

The entire citizens' committee meets at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Carriage House to discuss the countywide general plan, according to a committee spokesman.

Wind Fells Two Trees

Strong wind Saturday blew two trees down on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, California Highway patrolmen reported.

A eucalyptus tree about three feet in diameter and 60 feet tall blew across the boulevard at 1:35 p.m. completely blocking the roadway. Traffic was detoured around the San Geronimo Valley Road for two and a half hours while Marin County road crews cleared away the tree.

A bay tree blew down partially blocking the boulevard at 7 p.m. at Samuel P. Taylor State Park, patrolmen reported. County crews cleared it away.

and return order to the world's monetary system. Top aides, including U.S. undersecretary of the Treasury Paul A. Volcker, met in secret to decide what Europe and the United States will contribute to the package.

The joint currency float will be part of the package, but the Common Market also sought U.S. contributions such as a promise to support the dollar on money markets and follow deflationary policies at home.

Volcker indicated the United States was pleased with the joint float. Asked if he though it would contribute to stability, he said: "One ingredient that we needed has been put into place."

Asked about the other ingredients, he replied: "That's what we are talking about here."

The Common Market float decision led to some uncertainty on London Foreign Exchange markets today as dealers awaited details of the proposed new parities, The pound sterling was lower from the start. After an hour of trading the pound was being sold a halfcent lower than Friday's close.

Gold on London's free market dropped $1.75 to $81.75.

The U.S. currency strengthened in Paris and firmed slightly in West Germany in moderate trading. In Zurich the dollar opened higher but in Brussels it slightly eased.

DOWNEY

him a medical examination and reported he was in good shape.

"He certainly feels and looks good," William Downey said.

Downey spoke briefly to newsmen when he arrived at Clark.

"I just wanted to say how grateful I was for being released. I appreciate the Chinese government for letting me go at this time and President Nixon for his efforts on my behalf and (presidential adviser) Dr. Henry A. Kissinger," he said.

"I'm very pleased to be out," he said. "At the same time, I'm very anxious to get home to see my mother."

Downey apparently was in fine shape, even a bit stocky. Tortoise shell glasses were perched on his nose and his slightly balding hair was cut short.

"He had a firm handshake and he was up to date, very well informed," one of the officers on the flight from Hong Kong said. "We were very surprised. He's got no problems at all."

Security around the two planes used for the evacuation of Downey was strict. The ambulance plane that flew him from Hong Kong parked on a remote section of the airport next to the C141 that took him to the United States, via Alaska.

Air Force officials said they hoped to have Downey in and out of Clark within 15 minutes. But his departure was delayed becuase of a 30-minute conference with his brother.

William Downey arrived at Clark only a few hours before Downey. When Downey's plane arrived, his brother went aboard for a private greeting. Officials did not comment on what the two talked about, but said that the condition of their mother was obviously a prime topic.

"As you know, we're all in a hurry to get home," Downey's brother said. "We're going to head on home."

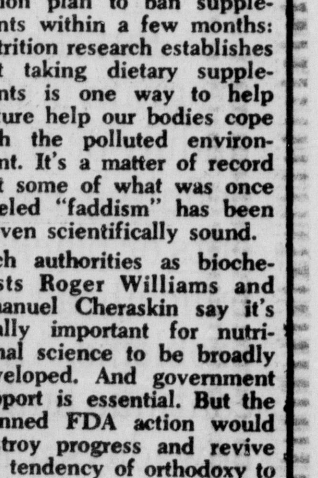
over 30 Years Experience In Nutrition
HERE'S HEALTH!
By JUNE EMBURY



Continuing our discussion of the Food and Drug Administration plan to ban supplements within a few months: Nutrition research establishes that taking dietary supplements is one way to help Nature help our bodies cope with the polluted environment. It's a matter of record that some of what was once labeled "faddism" has been proven scientifically sound.

Such authorities as biochemists Roger Williams and Emanuel Cheraskin say it's vitally important for nutritional science to be broadly developed. And government support is essential. But the planned FDA action would destroy progress and revive the tendency of orthodoxy to "pooh pooh" evidence that nutrition can prevent disease. Only if Congress is flooded with letters urging passage of House Resolution 643 will the ban be logically, reasonably amended. (William S. Mailliard is Marin County's representative in Washington, D.C. 2336 Rayburn Blvd., Washington D.C. 20515) parishioners to plan their own funerals in advance.

"We have our block arrangements — when a death occurs, the neighbors try to be helpful," he said. "They take care of the children, feeding the family and other things. Their care and helpfulness can be a tremendous comfort" to the bereaved, the priest explained.

Rev. Karel F. Botermans, minister of the Unitarian Fellowship of Marin in San Rafael urges everyone to plan in advance for the inevitability of death.

"A will doesn't do anything as far as funeral arrangements are concerned," he warned. "By the time anyone gets around to the will, the funeral's usually all over. Therefore we encourage people to make arrangements in advance, and to let the next of kin and their church know."

"A lot of people just don't want to think about" their own death and the necessary arrangements, Botermans said.

His church has distributed hundreds of forms outlining questions that must be resolved in any death. These include instructions for the guardianship of minor children if both parents die, type of burial, funeral, and memorial donations preferred.

"The first time, we mailed out 650 forms and got only 17 back," Botermans reported. He said the program of keeping funeral plans in the church files, however, gradually is meeting wider acceptance.

Dr. William M. Lamers Jr. is a Kentfield psychiatrist who has lectured nationwide on the emotional aspects of death and funerals. He said it's natural for the living to avoid planning for their own death. "We're all creatures of denial — reluctant to admit it's going to happen to us," he said.

"We become immune" to ordinary deaths in the community at large. "What really gets to us is a disaster, or a death in the family," he said. "We begin to realize: 'Hey, that can happen to me.' "

Whether the living person plans his or her own treatment after death, or leaves it to the family there are many options available, and many questins to be answered.

Headline Gives Wrong Impression

A headline on Thursday's Independent-Journal report of the meeting of the Marin County Board of Education gave the impression that the board "wants to shelve" the Marin County Committee on School District Organization.

A request that permit teachers at the Development Center at Forest Meadows, Dominican College, should eventually be certificated teachers was referred to negotiators without recommendations, said Spain.

MONEY

and return order to the world's monetary system. Top aides, including U.S. undersecretary of the Treasury Paul A. Volcker, met in secret to decide what Europe and the United States will contribute to the package.

The joint currency float will be part of the package, but the Common Market also sought U.S. contributions such as a promise to support the dollar on money markets and follow deflationary policies at home.

Volcker indicated the United States was pleased with the joint float. Asked if he though it would contribute to stability, he said: "One ingredient that we needed has been put into place."

Asked about the other ingredients, he replied: "That's what we are talking about here."

The Common Market float decision led to some uncertainty on London Foreign Exchange markets today as dealers awaited details of the proposed new parities, The pound sterling was lower from the start. After an hour of trading the pound was being sold a halfcent lower than Friday's close.

Gold on London's free market dropped $1.75 to $81.75.

The U.S. currency strengthened in Paris and firmed slightly in West Germany in moderate trading. In Zurich the dollar opened higher but in Brussels it slightly eased.

him a medical examination and reported he was in good shape.

"He certainly feels and looks good," William Downey said.

Downey spoke briefly to newsmen when he arrived at Clark.

"I just wanted to say how grateful I was for being released. I appreciate the Chinese government for letting me go at this time and President Nixon for his efforts on my behalf and (presidential adviser) Dr. Henry A. Kissinger," he said.

"I'm very pleased to be out," he said. "At the same time, I'm very anxious to get home to see my mother."

Downey apparently was in fine shape, even a bit stocky. Tortoise shell glasses were perched on his nose and his slightly balding hair was cut short.

"He had a firm handshake and he was up to date, very well informed," one of the officers on the flight from Hong Kong said. "We were very surprised. He's got no problems at all."

Security around the two planes used for the evacuation of Downey was strict. The ambulance plane that flew him from Hong Kong parked on a remote section of the airport next to the C141 that took him to the United States, via Alaska.

Air Force officials said they hoped to have Downey in and out of Clark within 15 minutes. But his departure was delayed becuase of a 30-minute conference with his brother.

William Downey arrived at Clark only a few hours before Downey. When Downey's plane arrived, his brother went aboard for a private greeting. Officials did not comment on what the two talked about, but said that the condition of their mother was obviously a prime topic.

"As you know, we're all in a hurry to get home," Downey's brother said. "We're going to head on home."

over 30 Years Experience In Nutrition
HERE'S HEALTH!
By JUNE EMBURY

Continuing our discussion of the Food and Drug Administration plan to ban supplements within a few months: Nutrition research establishes that taking dietary supplements is one way to help Nature help our bodies cope with the polluted environment. It's a matter of record that some of what was once labeled "faddism" has been proven scientifically sound.

Such authorities as biochemists Roger Williams and Emanuel Cheraskin say it's vitally important for nutritional science to be broadly developed. And government support is essential. But the planned FDA action would destroy progress and revive the tendency of orthodoxy to "pooh pooh" evidence that nutrition can prevent disease. Only if Congress is flooded with letters urging passage of House Resolution 643 will the ban be logically, reasonably amended. (William S. Mailliard is Marin County's representative in Washington, D.C. 2336 Rayburn Blvd., Washington D.C. 20515) parishioners to plan their own funerals in advance.

"We have our block arrangements — when a death occurs, the neighbors try to be helpful," he said. "They take care of the children, feeding the family and other things. Their care and helpfulness can be a tremendous comfort" to the bereaved, the priest explained.

Rev. Karel F. Botermans, minister of the Unitarian Fellowship of Marin in San Rafael urges everyone to plan in advance for the inevitability of death.

"A will doesn't do anything as far as funeral arrangements are concerned," he warned. "By the time anyone gets around to the will, the funeral's usually all over. Therefore we encourage people to make arrangements in advance, and to let the next of kin and their church know."

"A lot of people just don't want to think about" their own death and the necessary arrangements, Botermans said.

His church has distributed hundreds of forms outlining questions that must be resolved in any death. These include instructions for the guardianship of minor children if both parents die, type of burial, funeral, and memorial donations preferred.

"The first time, we mailed out 650 forms and got only 17 back," Botermans reported. He said the program of keeping funeral plans in the church files, however, gradually is meeting wider acceptance.

Dr. William M. Lamers Jr. is a Kentfield psychiatrist who has lectured nationwide on the emotional aspects of death and funerals. He said it's natural for the living to avoid planning for their own death. "We're all creatures of denial — reluctant to admit it's going to happen to us," he said.

"We become immune" to ordinary deaths in the community at large. "What really gets to us is a disaster, or a death in the family," he said. "We begin to realize: 'Hey, that can happen to me.' "

Whether the living person plans his or her own treatment after death, or leaves it to the family there are many options available, and many questins to be answered.

Headline Gives Wrong Impression

A headline on Thursday's Independent-Journal report of the meeting of the Marin County Board of Education gave the impression that the board "wants to shelve" the Marin County Committee on School District Organization.

Asst. Supt. Robert E. Spain said the subject of the committee's continued existence was placed on the agenda for the board's April 2 meeting at the request of only one member, Lee C. Richardson Jr.

A request that permit teachers at the Development Center at Forest Meadows, Dominican College, should eventually be certificated teachers was referred to negotiators without recommendations, said Spain.

and return order to the world's monetary system. Top aides, including U.S. undersecretary of the Treasury Paul A. Volcker, met in secret to decide what Europe and the United States will contribute to the package.

The joint currency float will be part of the package, but the Common Market also sought U.S. contributions such as a promise to support the dollar on money markets and follow deflationary policies at home.

Volcker indicated the United States was pleased with the joint float. Asked if he though it would contribute to stability, he said: "One ingredient that we needed has been put into place."

Asked about the other ingredients, he replied: "That's what we are talking about here."

The Common Market float decision led to some uncertainty on London Foreign Exchange markets today as dealers awaited details of the proposed new parities, The pound sterling was lower from the start. After an hour of trading the pound was being sold a halfcent lower than Friday's close.

Gold on London's free market dropped $1.75 to $81.75.

The U.S. currency strengthened in Paris and firmed slightly in West Germany in moderate trading. In Zurich the dollar opened higher but in Brussels it slightly eased.

"I just wanted to say how grateful I was for being released. I appreciate the Chinese government for letting me go at this time and President Nixon for his efforts on my behalf and (presidential adviser) Dr. Henry A. Kissinger," he said.

"I'm very pleased to be out," he said. "At the same time, I'm very anxious to get home to see my mother."

Downey apparently was in fine shape, even a bit stocky. Tortoise shell glasses were perched on his nose and his slightly balding hair was cut short.

over 30 Years Experience In Nutrition
HERE'S HEALTH!
By JUNE EMBURY

Continuing our discussion of the Food and Drug Administration plan to ban supplements within a few months: Nutrition research establishes that taking dietary supplements is one way to help Nature help our bodies cope with the polluted environment. It's a matter of record that some of what was once labeled "faddism" has been proven scientifically sound.

Such authorities as biochemists Roger Williams and Emanuel Cheraskin say it's vitally important for nutritional science to be broadly developed. And government support is essential. But the planned FDA action would destroy progress and revive the tendency of orthodoxy to "pooh pooh" evidence that nutrition can prevent disease. Only if Congress is flooded with letters urging passage of House Resolution 643 will the ban be logically, reasonably amended. (William S. Mailliard is Marin County's representative in Washington, D.C. 2336 Rayburn Blvd., Washington D.C. 20515)

Independent Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, MARCH 12, 1973

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Postal Bigwigs Don't Understand

Today is the day that the U.S. Postal Service was to start sending all Marin County mail to San Francisco's Rincon Annex Post Office for sorting. It didn't happen because a couple of automatic sorting machines were (like so much of the mail) late in arriving.

The plan is still on the books, though. The U.S. Postal Service bigwigs apparently are still unable to understand that sending mail from outlying points to San Francisco for sorting, then sending it back again, involves a delay of at least one day. Or else, the Postal Service brass doesn't care.

LAST WEEK, a Senate committee started hearings into the mail service foulup. It got admissions from Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen that postal service is worse now than it was when his semiautonomous corporation took over.

But it got no promise from Klassen to reverse the pattern of substituting automatic in central locations for mail sorting on the scene where it can be done most quickly and efficiently. The Postal Service, it seems, is wedded to its new methods, no matter how miserably they fail.

Up to this point, apparently, none of the senators has quizzed Postmaster General Klassen about the Postal Service's plan to cut out Saturday mail delivery and keep post offices closed on Saturdays.

Last month, in discussing the Postal Service's annual report, Klassen said there was no plan to cut out Saturday service. But last month's issue of the Postal Supervisor, official organ of the National Association of Postal Supervisors, reported: "The idea of no Saturday delivery has been tested in some areas and was given a much better than passing grade." And at the time Klassen made his promise, post offices in Sonoma County already were closed on Saturday — by USPS order. The only reason Marin post offices remain open Saturday morning is that our postmasters have refused to go along with the USPS shutdown plan.

INCIDENTALLY, a letter to the editor in that same issue of Postal Supervisor, written by a supervisor in Long Beach, suggested: "Is it possible that the manpower cutback is a tool to force those managers unwilling to mechanize to re-evaluate their positions?"

Being "willing to mechanize" includes going along with such nonsense as sending Marin mail to San Francisco for automatic sorting (of those letters the machines can handle, which is far from all of them), then sending it back again to be re-sorted by hand.

THE U.S. POSTAL Service operates as a government-subsidized semi-private organization. The idea was sold to Congress that such an organization would be "more efficient." Two years of its operation have proved the opposite.

A century ago, Sir William Harcourt, British member of parliament and of several cabinets, declared: "Political heads of departments are necessary to tell the civil service what the public will not stand."

Maybe lack of that is what's wrong with the U.S. Postal Service. A James A. Farley or a Lawrence F. O'Brien would be sensitive to what the public will stand. Not so, it seems, a "non-political" Elmer T. Klassen.

The Season Greets Us

A warm, sunny day. Acacia, daphne, forsythia, hyacinth and plum blossoms. A towhee scratches up a storm on the vinca bank, amid blue flowers. A mourning dove softly croons its tender song. A California jay with grass in its beak reminds us that it is nesting time. A cabbage butterfly flutters about aimlessly. A brick bug stares back at us from the warm porch rail.

In the midst of wet winter, Marin grudgingly gives promise of impending spring.

NON-RESIDENT LEGISLATOR

Democrats In Senate Flout State Constitution

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The California Senate, in an act exceptionally callous for even that grand body, has adopted the dnagerous precedent of ignoring the state consititution when expedient.

By a 26-10 vote, it refused to consider convincing evidence that its newest member failed to meet the constitutional requirement of residence in his distirct for one year before the special election he won last month.

Sen. Alan Robbins, Los Angeles Democrat, did not live in the 22nd District which he represents until about two months before his election, according to the evidence.

He belatedly moved into the district to make it appear that he met the constitutional requirement.

THE DEMOCRATIC leadership, in the majority when the Republicans challenged Robbins, was not interested in hearing the evidence. The issue was resolved by killing a motion to constitute the Senate as a committee of the whole to air the case.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, was among the minority of senators old-fashioned enough to take seriously the oath to uphold the constitution.

The Senate's action means the constitution applies only to the minority party, and that the majority can do what it pleases.

The outcome also suggests the theory that voters can expunge a misdemeanor by putting the culprit in office. Given the quality of many other incumbent senators, we doubt the voters deserve this much credit for wisdom.

WE CANNOT FIND anything in the constitution giving the Senate the authority to determine which constitutional provisions may be ignored.

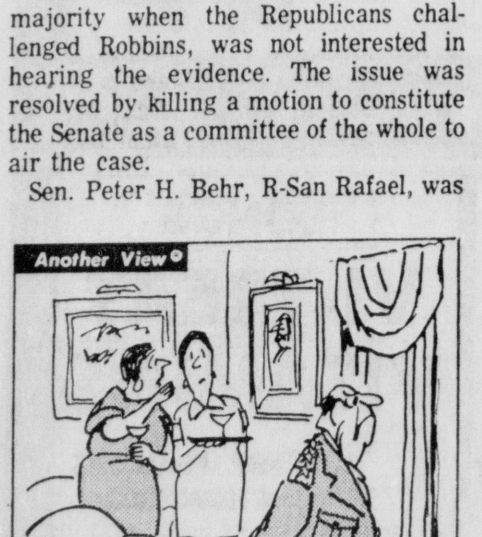
The evidence against Robbins was accumulated by Sen. John L. Harmer, R-Glendale. It showed Robbins lived in the 23rd, not the 22nd district. It included copies of escrow papers, voter registration forms, telephone company records, a homeowner's property tax exemption application, the birth certificate of Robbins' daughter, automobile registration form, post office forms, checking account, and an affidavit by a neighbor.

Best of all was an affidavit by a former housekeeper who worked for the Robbins family last month at their new apartment in the 22nd district. She noted that there were only two cooking utensils, no toys for the children, none of the furniture matched, and the walls weretotally bare.

When she became curious, she was fired, reportedly because she was suspected of being a spy for the Republicans.

AS HARMER PUT IT, the Senate's action means elections in any dstrict "will simply be determined by whatever group or individual in the state chooses to move in with sufficient money and resources to take control of the electoral process in the district."

Legislators who wonder why the public has such low esteem for them should take another look at the Senate.



"The general is not himself this evening. The Pentagon has suggested he join a carpool."

Loyalty Of Students Abused By Teacher

Our entire family will await Sir Francis Drake High School teacher Mrs. Johnson's explanation of her final examination.

Maybe the whole thing will blow over before she is made to explain why her responsibilities as a teacher were left to front-page pictures of five students accompanied by loyal statements defending their so-called teacher.

It is this loyalty that is my concern. To what extreme must a teacher abuse her students' loyalty? How much better if they had not been exposed to such a teacher and instead had been enlightened and educated by a real teacher.

Let us as parents, adults, and those part of a news media protect the children we love from those who would abuse their position as Mrs. Johnson apparently did. When young adults are admiring their teacher and are willing to call her "really good," an "excellent educator," let it be deserved praise. Stop Bulldozers, Not Motorcycles

In your Feb. 28 article you stated that the Marin County supervisors authorized the sheriff's department to buy motorcycles to chase the "Hell's Angels" of Marin County from the hills.

I personally know and have met several of these outlaws myself. My 6-year-old boy and I are also law breakers when it comes to trying to ride our motorcycles.

It would be better to use the money that they are spending for motorcycles and salaries for sheriffs on a motorcycle park to give these outlaws a place to ride legally.

Most of these outlaws are 14 to 17 years old and have parents to buy these motorcycles for them . . .

Most of these kids cannot and would not ride these motorcycles anywhere than off the roads. It is as much of a sport as football, baseball, golf and tennis and there is always a place and money for these sports.

Instead of calling us outlaws why not help us and the sheriff? There must be some open land in Marin County where we can have a motorcycle park where we would not bother anyone. The closest motorcycle park I know of is in Livermore, one and one-half hours' ride away.

Motorcycle parks are being operated on a profit basis on other counties. Why not Marin County?

Stop bulldozers, not motorcycles. They ruin more of Marin's picturesque slopes.

More Money Needed For Recreational Area

Although $5.9 million will begin the purchase of land for the Golden Gate National Recreation Area, it will buy only a small part of the private land included in the park boundary. It is less than 10 per cent of the $61,610,000 allocated in the legislation for purchase of the GGNRA. In spite of the President's desire for and obvious pride in the establishment of the GGNRA, the administration's budget for 1974 calls for new new monies for parkland purchase.

Delay of purchases could precipitate a price spiral disaster, similar to that which occurred when Point Reyes National Seashore was established. In that instance, the appropriations for the park had to be increased from $14 million to $58 million, as subdivisions appeared while speculators inflated land values.

Congress should appropriate $20 million of new money for purchase of lands for the GGNRA in the fiscal 1974 budget. Even if the money is not spent right away, because of impoundment of funds by the President, the appropriation can be used when funds are again released . . .

Ridgetop Cyclists Not Band Of Toughs

I am writing about the Independent-Journal article of Feb. 28 concerning the sheriff's department's acquiring a motorcycle to attempt to apprehend the cyclists on the hill behind Eagle Rock in Alto.

I am not saying whether or not the riding there is good, bad, or illegal, but only to say that the article is unfairly written concerning the bikers themselves.

To clarify where they are riding in the hills, I'd say more like 3/4 or 4/5 of all riding is done on the very top of the ridges, on already existing fire roads and trails. It is also the same hill that is currently being excavated by Highway 101 near Koch Luggage Co. So it's not really as if they're tearing up "Marin's picturesque slopes."

Mainly, though, I write about the section in the article quoting an irate citizen, saying he found "a gang of toughs who would make the Hell's Angels look like angels." I'm sure his being upset is justified to him and his neighbors but if he's so irate, and he must be quite irate to make a statement like that, then he's not going to be too competent to give an accurate or just and fair description of the riders . . .

Being a rider of sorts myself, I am acquainted with the riders who frequent the hilltops and I've yet to see one who even looks like a "Hell's Angel" much less act like one. Nearly all the riders there are in high school or lower. In addition to school and studies most of them have to hold part-time jobs in order to keep up their bikes. All in all they are good guys. They do what they can to keep overly loud riders away and things like that . . .

Busing Frenzy Dying As Blacks Put Emphasis On Quality Schools

Compulsory busing is on the way out. The push to defuse the issue comes from three directions:

1 — The most influential black leaders are no longer pressing for busing to bring about racial balance in schools.

2 — Democratic liberals are shying away from the pro-busing stance they took during the '72 campaign.

3 — More black leaders are putting a higher priority on quality and equality of education than upon busing.

THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION for the Advancement of Colored People has long contended that there could be no equality of education for black youth except through nearly total racial integration in all schools.

Now the organization is saying that quality is more important than integration.

NAACP's Roy Wilkins lays it on the line. Here is the way he puts it:

"If the school boards agree to the improvement in education and a program that leads to meaningful equalization of the educational process, black children will not suffer by attending all-black schools."

William Raspberry, Washington Post columnist who happens to be black, has been saying this for a long time. He writes: "It has long seemed insane to me for black people to pursue whites from this neighborhood to that and clear out of the county because of some unspoken belief that black children could not get a proper education in the absence of white children."

If blacks turn away from busing as a tactic to achieve better schools, they will rightly demand even more vigorously an equality of teaching and an equality of funding for schools in black districts.

SOVIETS EXPERIENCING economic slowdown. It is not just Russian agriculature which is in trouble. The whole economy is hurting because the Kremlin has had to spend foreign currency on food imports. Figures show that the past year witnessed the lowest peacetime growth in Russian industrial output in a decade.

The growth of the Soviet Union's national income was reduced to 4 per cent in 1972 — this in a year when the U.S. national income rose 7 per cent.

CHINA SEEMS LOVED farther from home. Peking's diplomatic successes are coming in nearly every part of the wrld except among its neighboring countries.

With the Americas, Europe, Africa, the Middle East and Australia, the People's Republic of China is winning friends and improving relations.

But this tidal wave of goodwill — and trust — is not yet touching the shores nearer at hand, either in India or Pakistan or Burma.

The Chinese hope to lure India away from leaning so visibly on Moscow and some detente between New Delhi and Peking seems to be in the making.

HATS OFF TO ELEANOR. Will a woman ever run for President? Inevitably. But one woman has already made it to the White House. Eleanor Roosevelt was one of the most influential persons in government — and in the country — for more than 12 years. She was eyes, ears, consultant and adviser to F.D.R.

She was bitterly denounced when she first entertained blacks as her guests at the White House. Now it hardly makes a headline — and rightly so — when Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Davis Jr. stay overnight with the Nixons.

Congress Protecting Big Business Against Administration Attack

WASHINGTON — You may have gotten the impression that most of Mr. Nixon's penny-pinching has been at the expense of poor people and average taxpayers, and that coupon-clippers and big industry have gone relatively unscathed by his economies. Your impression is correct. Herewith, the exception that confirms the rule.

In the continuing matter of DDT vs. the environment, the federal government vs. DDT, and the pesticide manufacturers vs. the federal government, the administration is taking what seems to be an unlikely position.

It is lining up with liberal Democratic senators like Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., and Philip Hart, D-Mich., among others, against the agribusiness combine of big farmers, chemical companies, and the congressional elders who have protected those interts so tenderly for so long.

UNLIKELY, YES, but the administration has its reasons — not particularly environmental, and certainly not ideological. They are purely fiscal, based on fear of setting a precedent that eventually could do even more to bankrupt the country than the Pentagon's forgiving nature toward Lockheed Aircraft.

As of Jan. 1, the large-scale use of DDT to kill insects on crops has been banned because the highly effective poison does not decompose, but accumulates on the land, in water, in birds, fish, animals and man. The Environmental Protection Agency ordered the ban under a law passed by Congress last October.

Passage of the law was a setback for the agribusiness interests, but their benefactors in Congress forced into it a section that would help soothe their feelings — at least those of the manufacturers. It allows the federal government to compensate the producers at up to retail prices for whatever financial losses they suffer as a result of their products being summarily ruled off the market.

NELSON, HART, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff and some Republicans, such as Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen, fought the section vigorously. As Nelson said, the public would be insuring manufacturers for offering inadequatey tested products for sale, and that would lead to repaying hundreds of companies for turning out unsafe products that come under federal control. He cited cyclamates, the artificial sweeteners that were banned from soft drinks and other uses after large doses were found to have caused cancer in rats. Food additives, detergent ingredients, cattle feeds and drugs were on his list.

Ribicoff pointed out that if that section went on the books, federal agencies might hesitate to ban harmful products for financial rather than health reasons because of the potential cost of repayments. Frelinghuysen noted that the precedent could provide a legal basis for government compensation to private enterprise any time a government action in the public interest resulted in a loss of business profits.

All of which is very true, and objectively intolerable. Yet last fall, even in the presence of pressure from the administration, the section was insisted on by House conferees and passed along with the bill.

NOW THE ADMINISTRATION has spoken up again against the indemnity provision. The EPA is backing Hart's amendment to delete it, and staff members of his environment subcommittee think the amendment's prospects on the Senate side are good. At the other end of the capitol, where the section originated, the situation is not so clear.

What is clear, however, is that by passing the section in the first place Congress made itself vulnerable to exactly the charge many of its members now lay against Mr. Nixon: that his priorities are out of order, stacked in favor of big business and against the taxpayer at large. For that charge to stand up in social welfare and similar fields, Congress is going to have to be consistent by approving this Hart amendment.

Otherwise, the gate is wide open to giving millions of public dollars to chemical and other companies — as a reward for turning out products that are found to endanger the public's health and safety.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
8 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, MARCH 12, 1973 EDITORIAL PAGE

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Postal Bigwigs Don't Understand

Today is the day that the U.S. Postal Service was to start sending all Marin County mail to San Francisco's Rincon Annex Post Office for sorting. It didn't happen because a couple of automatic sorting machines were (like so much of the mail) late in arriving.

The plan is still on the books, though. The U.S. Postal Service bigwigs apparently are still unable to understand that sending mail from outlying points to San Francisco for sorting, then sending it back again, involves a delay of at least one day. Or else, the Postal Service brass doesn't care.

LAST WEEK, a Senate committee started hearings into the mail service foulup. It got admissions from Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen that postal service is worse now than it was when his semi-autonomous corporation took over.

But it got no promise from Klassen to reverse the pattern of substituting automatic in central locations for mail sorting on the scene where it can be done most quickly and efficiently. The Postal Service, it seems, is wedded to its new methods, no matter how miserably they fail.

Up to this point, apparently, none of the senators has quizzed Postmaster General Klassen about the Postal Service's plan to cut out Saturday mail delivery and keep post offices closed on Saturdays.

Last month, in discussing the Postal Service's annual report, Klassen said there was no plan to cut out Saturday service. But last month's issue of the Postal Supervisor, official organ of the National Association of Postal Supervisors, reported: "The idea of no Saturday delivery has been tested in some areas and was given a much better than passing grade." And at the time Klassen made his promise, post offices in Sonoma County already were closed on Saturday — by USPS order. The only reason Marin post offices remain open Saturday morning is that our postmasters have refused to go along with the USPS shutdown plan.

INCIDENTALLY, a letter to the editor in that same issue of Postal Supervisor, written by a supervisor in Long Beach, suggested: "Is it possible that the manpower cutback is a tool to force those managers unwilling to mechanize to re-evaluate their positions?"

Being "willing to mechanize" includes going along with such nonsense as sending Marin mail to San Francisco for automatic sorting (of those letters the machines can handle, which is far from all of them), then sending it back again to be re-sorted by hand.

THE U.S. POSTAL Service operates as a government-subsidized semi-private organization. The idea was sold to Congress that such an organization would be "more efficient." Two years of its operation have proved the opposite.

A century ago, Sir William Harcourt, British member of parliament and of several cabinets, declared: "Political heads of departments are necessary to tell the civil service what the public will not stand."

Maybe lack of that is what's wrong with the U.S. Postal Service. A James A. Farley or a Lawrence F. O'Brien would be sensitive to what the public will stand. Not so, it seems, a "non-political" Elmer T. Klassen.

The Season Greets Us

A warm, sunny day. Acacia, daphne, forsythia, hyacinth and plum blossoms. A towhee scratches up a storm on the vinca bank, amid blue flowers. A mourning dove softly croons its tender song. A California jay with grass in its beak reminds us that it is nesting time. A cabbage butterfly flutters about aimlessly. A brick bug stares back at us from the warm porch rail.

In the midst of wet winter, Marin grudgingly gives promise of impending spring.

NON-RESIDENT LEGISLATOR

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The California Senate, in an act exceptionally callous for even that grand body, has adopted the dnagerous precedent of ignoring the state consititution when expedient.

By a 26-10 vote, it refused to consider convincing evidence that its newest member failed to meet the constitutional requirement of residence in his district for one year before the special election he won last month.

Sen. Alan Robbins, Los Angeles Democrat, did not live in the 22nd District which he represents until about two months before his election, according to the evidence.

The outcome also suggests the theory that voters can expunge a misdemeanor by putting the culprit in office. Given the quality of many other incumbent senators, we doubt the voters deserve this much credit for wisdom.

WE CANNOT FIND anything in the constitution giving the Senate the authority to determine which constitutional provisions may be ignored.

The evidence against Robbins was accumulated by Sen. John L. Harmer, R-Glendale. It showed Robbins lived in the 23rd, not the 22nd district. It included copies of escrow papers, voter registration forms, telephone company records, a homeowner's property tax exemption application, the birth certificate of Robbins' daughter, automobile registration form, post office forms, checking account, and an affidavit by a neighbor.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Brigitte Bardot's "men are beasts" appraisal is the nicest thing that's been said about guys recently.

You remember Brigitte, don't you? She's the sex kitten whose movie career was devoted to bringing out the beast in all us pussycats.

What deflates the male animal is being called "chauvinist pig" when he fancies himself as a tiger.

Many a husband has a reputation for beastly virility just because he's always growling about something.

If men are beasts, you'll have to admit that women have done a good job domesticating 'em.

When All Books Are Balanced What Happened To The Money?

The Office of Economic Opportunity in San Francisco, faced with long-overdue extermination by President Nixon, has finally remembered that someone in Marin County owes it some money.

That someone is W. Robert Lomax Jr., former executive director of the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council. Poor Bobby!

OEO's new-found interest in Lomax is because it claims he still owes the federal government about $5,000 which should have gone to poor people instead of to fancy restaurants, travel agencies, etc.

Unfortunately for OEO, Bobby is no longer in Marin. He split for points east about a year ago, with creditors in hot pursuit. Poor OEO!

THE FEDERAL AGENCY'S concern for Lomax is contained in a letter to his former employer, now called Community Action Marin. That agency, following time-honored tradition, decided to suppress the letter. poor Community Action Marin!

But word of the letter leaked out, despite agreement by agency directors that it should be kept under wraps.

You see, not only does the OEO want $5,000 from Lomax, it wants $19,000 from Community Action Marin, currently seeking "outside funding for the soon-to-come day when the federal trough is dry.

The laughter is that nobody really expects any real money to change hands. OEO will credit Community Action Marin with an extra $19,000 in its "phase-out grant" which Community Action Marin will credit to OEO. Thus, everyone's books are clean. Everyone's except the taxpayers'. Poor taxpayers!

AS FOR LOMAX, who knows?

He was last heard from in Washington, D.C., where he was using Community Action Marin as a job reference. To Community Action Marin's somewhat tarnished credit, it torpedoed that.

Meanwhile, the last heard from the Federal Bureau of Investigation about Lomax was that it had his case under study. That was six months ago.

The Marin County district attorney's office decided not to become involved. "No local money was involved," it said.

And Community Action Marin's decision last May to file civil action apparently has fallen by the wayside. Lucky Lomax!

Apologist For Boredom Nearly As Bad As Boredom Itself

A psychologist, noting the well-known, glassy-eyed boredom produced by habitual television watching, went on to make the rather astonishing observation that being bored isn't necessarily bad. Much of life, he argued, is, in fact, boring, and children especially should be trained to expect this.

Readers tempted to sputter "Big bore yourself!" ought to make sure the yawning psychologist is their true target. Isn't he voicing what a lot of other people are thinking? They may not discuss boredom so blatantly. But they pay their terrified respects by the ways they squirm to escape all their lives from the psychic country of the lotus-eaters.

ONE IS NO SOONER born, presumably, than the bogey starts closing in. Parents must fill the crib with the most stimulating playthings — as if a human being would lapse into terminal boredom at nine months without all this psychedelic catnip.

At five, the child enters the school system, where teachers convinced that education ought to be ecstasy — but fearful that it is dull, dull, dull — frantically stir actual and metaphorical strawberry syrup into the actual and metaphorical milk.

Sixteen or 17 — or, gulp, 20 — years later the perennial student lands a job described as "challenging" and "exciting." It doesn't quite "fulfill" him. That is to say, it bores him silly. By now he is highly educated in his standards of boredom if nothing else.

So he gets married.

Then, on an infrequent trip to the barbershop, he picks up a magazine with the latest, inevitable article on marriage. "Are Husbands and Wives Obsolete?" — things of that sort. He is told that the boredom of the nursery, the classroom, and the office are as nothing compared to the ennui of monogamy. Depending on whether the author is a radical or a liberal, the young married is given from two to seven years before total indifference sets in.

Well, so what? he asks bravely. Isn't there a whole anti-boredom industry working night and day to produce — what do you call it? — "entertainment?"

ALAS, EVEN THE ANTIDOTES to boredom can be boring. The master anxiety of popular films, plays, and novels seems to be that their audience will walk out or nod off in about five minutes or five pages if — quick! — there isn't another whomp of the old violence or a nude scene.

At this point, the first law of boredom may be defined: The harder one works at avoiding boredom, the more likely one is to be bored.

If, on the other hand, the arts are more fine than popular, they are all too likely in their war against boredom to choose boredom as their subject, like the plays of Samuel Beckett, the films of Michelangelo Antonioni, and the anti-novels of Nathalie Sarraute.

Our young anti-boredom fighter runs for his life. But where? After a brief, panting fling at activism —which ends, of course, in "political apathy" — he sinks down defeated before that television set where we first met him. Or so the psychologist's script dictates, supported by a silent, fearful myth in the hearts of many Americans that most people, as Thoreau put it, must lead lives of quiet desperation.

WHAT AN INSULT this whole scenario is to the resources of human curiosity! How utterly unacceptable its conclusions are!

Surely the supreme mistake is to accept boredom at all. As something to live with, like that psychologist. As something to panic from, in the fashion of the swinger. Or worst of all, as something to be proud of — a badge of elitism — in the spirit of the intellectual snob.

Boredom is a curse —a disastrous loss of appetite at the feast, a dulling of the heart, a glazing of the eyes, a shutting down of the psyche on the possibilities of life. Earlier Christians had a word for it: accidie. Meaning, listlessness as an absolute — the very opposite of the state of grace.

A lot of analysts-of-the-modern have tried, in effect, to find the name —the characteristic guise — for Mephistopheles in their time. It might be hard to discover a likelier culprit than that drooping, really intolerable coincidence of lack of energy and lack of purpose: boredom. Hereby nominated public enemy No. 2 for the '70's — second only, of course, to all boredom-loving psychologists.

Orchids Of Nepal To Be Discussed

David A. Welisch, former president of the San Francisco Orchid Society, will discuss orchid collecting in Nepal and show slides at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Caroline Livermore Room at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

Welisch, who has just returned from Venezuela, has traveled all over the world on orchid collecting expeditions.

San Anselmo Land Request Due Study

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, meeting tomorrow at 9:45 a.m. at Civic Center, will consider a request from the City of San Anselmo that a building moratorium be imposed on unincorporated lands bordering the city.

The city's letter comes one week before the board is to consider the controversial Max D. Schenk townhouse development which proposes 44 units on 15 acres at the end of Sacramento Avenue.

The city council and nearby residents are bitterly opposed to the project and argue the land should be annexed to San Anselmo before development plans are approved.

The board meeting will be preceded at 8:30 a.m. by a meeting of the new regional park district board of directors to consider open space land acquisition.

The supervisors' agenda also includes review of the county's multimillion dollar capital improvements program, discussion of the balanced transportation study and a resolution urging state purchase of Tom's Point on Tomales Bay.

Items scheduled, but which may be postponed, include the controversial consumer affairs program and a report on the children's treatment center at Juvenile Hall.

Library Poster Contest Is Set

The Friends of the Marin County Free Library are sponsoring a poster contest to draw attention to "National Library Week," April 8-14.

The competition is open to students in Marin public high schools. Art instructors at the schools have complete information, according to Laurine Bergin.

Entries must be submitted by April 2, she said.

The winning student from each school will receive a $5 cash prize and the school will be awarded $10 toward purchase of an art book.

Winning posters will be displayed at the Marin County Library at the Civic Center during "Library Week" and at the library's branches later in April.

Girl Scout Week

This is Girl Scout Week. Celebrated by Girl Scouts throughout the United States, it honors the founding of the first troop 61 years ago by Mrs. Juliette Gordon Low. The first troop, meeting in Mrs. Low's home in Savannah, Georgia, consisted of 12 scouts who wore homemade blue uniforms. Since that time the organization has expanded to include more than 3 million girls in all states of the union. Girl scouting is open to all girls 7 through 17 years of age who are willing to subscribe to the promise and laws of scouting. Since its beginnings, the uniform of the Girl Scouts has undergone several changes both in style and color. Today, many styles, including pantsuits, are available.

DO YOU KNOW — What product do the Girl Scouts traditionally sell to raise funds?

Sunset Week at The Emporium Downtown is in full swing now. With the theme "the livin' is leisurely," the Big E and Sunset have joined forces to present a week of events and demonstrations in three areas: recreational vehicles; the condominium or second home; and vacation travel and fashions. Two recreation vehicles will be on display in the Big E windows: a Glastron 1973 Sportster V-156 boat with an Evinrude 65-horsepower outboard motor. You'll also see a Chevrolet Contempo Spoiler camper, a city-country van with eating and sleeping facilities built in.

The Second Home

Today on the Third Floor from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. find ideas about decorating your second home or condominium. In the Decor-Aide display of furniture accessories and equipment, talk to Janet Alcorn about second home living and sign up for Decor-Aide classes.

TV Representatives

It's your week to ask the men-in-the-know about that television for your second (or first home, for that matter!) when representatives from MGA and Zenith will be on the Third Floor. Meet Mr. J. Bennison, MGA envoy, who will be happy to tell you all about MGA television and answer your questions. On Wednesday, Mr. Richard Owen, consultant for Zenith will be on the Third Floor from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. to discuss the Zenith television line.

A Week for Food

Because the cooking should be as leisurely as the living, you'll want to talk with houseware consultant about vacation cooking! Today meet the pros from Rival, Bundt, Oster and Farber from 11 to 4. On Tuesday, the ladies from Ekco, Bundt, Rubbermaid and GE will answer your questions and give helpful suggestions.

Many Others

From now until Saturday the 17th, there will be many more items on display and more experts to meet! Don't forget to register for a Sitmar cruise giveaway in the Travel Bureau. All this week at the Big E, the livin' is leisurely!

Postal Bigwigs Don't Understand

Today is the day that the U.S. Postal Service was to start sending all Marin County mail to San Francisco's Rincon Annex Post Office for sorting. It didn't happen because a couple of automatic sorting machines were (like so much of the mail) late in arriving.

The plan is still on the books, though. The U.S. Postal Service bigwigs apparently are still unable to understand that sending mail from outlying points to San Francisco for sorting, then sending it back again, involves a delay of at least one day. Or else, the Postal Service brass doesn't care.

LAST WEEK, a Senate committee started hearings into the mail service foulup. It got admissions from Postmaster General Elmer T. Klassen that postal service is worse now than it was when his semi-autonomous corporation took over.

But it got no promise from Klassen to reverse the pattern of substituting automatic in central locations for mail sorting on the scene where it can be done most quickly and efficiently. The Postal Service, it seems, is wedded to its new methods, no matter how miserably they fail.

Up to this point, apparently, none of the senators has quizzed Postmaster General Klassen about the Postal Service's plan to cut out Saturday mail delivery and keep post offices closed on Saturdays.

Last month, in discussing the Postal Service's annual report, Klassen said there was no plan to cut out Saturday service. But last month's issue of the Postal Supervisor, official organ of the National Association of Postal Supervisors, reported: "The idea of no Saturday delivery has been tested in some areas and was given a much better than passing grade." And at the time Klassen made his promise, post offices in Sonoma County already were closed on Saturday — by USPS order. The only reason Marin post offices remain open Saturday morning is that our postmasters have refused to go along with the USPS shutdown plan.

INCIDENTALLY, a letter to the editor in that same issue of Postal Supervisor, written by a supervisor in Long Beach, suggested: "Is it possible that the manpower cutback is a tool to force those managers unwilling to mechanize to re-evaluate their positions?"

Being "willing to mechanize" includes going along with such nonsense as sending Marin mail to San Francisco for automatic sorting (of those letters the machines can handle, which is far from all of them), then sending it back again to be re-sorted by hand.

THE U.S. POSTAL Service operates as a government-subsidized semi-private organization. The idea was sold to Congress that such an organization would be "more efficient." Two years of its operation have proved the opposite.

A century ago, Sir William Harcourt, British member of parliament and of several cabinets, declared: "Political heads of departments are necessary to tell the civil service what the public will not stand."

Maybe lack of that is what's wrong with the U.S. Postal Service. A James A. Farley or a Lawrence F. O'Brien would be sensitive to what the public will stand. Not so, it seems, a "non-political" Elmer T. Klassen.

The Season Greets Us

A warm, sunny day. Acacia, daphne, forsythia, hyacinth and plum blossoms. A towhee scratches up a storm on the vinca bank, amid blue flowers. A mourning dove softly croons its tender song. A California jay with grass in its beak reminds us that it is nesting time. A cabbage butterfly flutters about aimlessly. A brick bug stares back at us from the warm porch rail.

In the midst of wet winter, Marin grudgingly gives promise of impending spring.

NON-RESIDENT LEGISLATOR

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The California Senate, in an act exceptionally callous for even that grand body, has adopted the dnagerous precedent of ignoring the state consititution when expedient.

By a 26-10 vote, it refused to consider convincing evidence that its newest member failed to meet the constitutional requirement of residence in his distirct for one year before the special election he won last month.

Sen. Alan Robbins, Los Angeles Democrat, did not live in the 22nd District which he represents until about two months before his election, according to the evidence.

He belatedly moved into the district to make it appear that he met the constitutional requirement.

THE DEMOCRATIC leadership, in the majority when the Republicans challenged Robbins, was not interested in hearing the evidence. The issue was resolved by killing a motion to constitute the Senate as a committee of the whole to air the case.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, was among the minority of senators old-fashioned enough to take seriously the oath to uphold the constitution.

The Senate's action means the constitution applies only to the minority party, and that the majority can do what it pleases.

The outcome also suggests the theory that voters can expunge a misdemeanor by putting the culprit in office. Given the quality of many other incumbent senators, we doubt the voters deserve this much credit for wisdom.

WE CANNOT FIND anything in the constitution giving the Senate the authority to determine which constitutional provisions may be ignored.

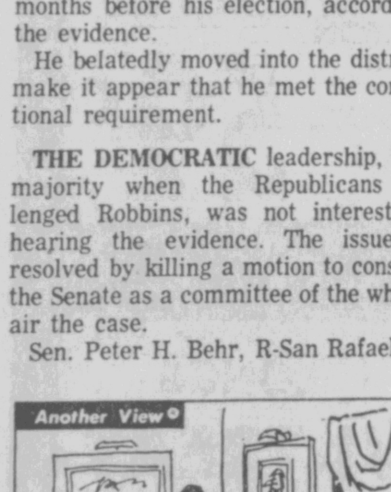
The evidence against Robbins was accumulated by Sen. John L. Harmer, R-Glendale. It showed Robbins lived in the 23rd, not the 22nd district. It included copies of escrow papers, voter registration forms, telephone company records, a homeowner's property tax exemption application, the birth certificate of Robbins' daughter, automobile registration form, post office forms, checking account, and an affidavit by a neighbor.

Best of all was an affidavit by a former housekeeper who worked for the Robbins family last month at their new apartment in the 22nd district. She noted that there were only two cooking utensils, no toys for the children, none of the furniture matched, and the walls weretotally bare.

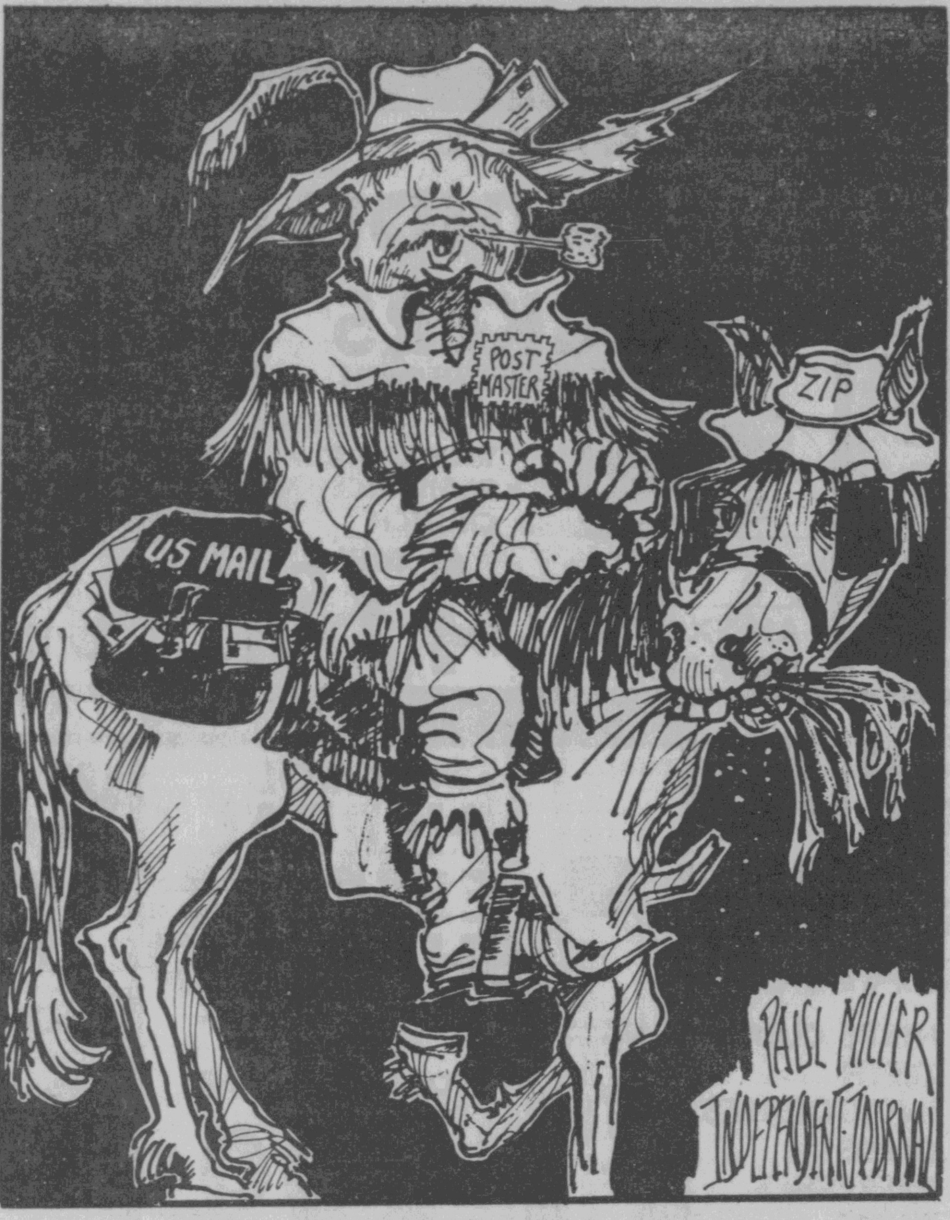
When she became curious, she was fired, reportedly because she was suspected of being a spy for the Republicans.

AS HARMER PUT IT, the Senate's action means elections in any dstrict "will simply be determined by whatever group or individual in the state chooses to move in with sufficient money and resources to take control of the electoral process in the district."

Legislators who wonder why the public has such low esteem for them should take another look at the Senate.



"The general is not himself this evening. The Pentagon has suggested he join a carpool."



"To save even more money, they decided to sort Marin's mail in Mexico City."

Loyalty Of Students Abused By Teacher

Our entire family will await Sir Francis Drake High School teacher Mrs. Johnson's explanation of her final examination.

Maybe the whole thing will blow over before she is made to explain why her responsibilities as a teacher were left to front-page pictures of five students accompanied by loyal statements defending their so-called teacher.

It is this loyalty that is my concern. To what extreme must a teacher abuse her students' loyalty? How much better if they had not been exposed to such a teacher and instead had been enlightened and educated by a real teacher.

Let us as parents, adults, and those part of a news media protect the children we love from those who would abuse their position as Mrs. Johnson apparently did. When young adults are admiring their teacher and are willing to call her "really good," an "excellent educator," let it be deserved praise. We receive love, understanding and compassion and in addition loyalty from our children. We cannot allow less to be given to them in return.

Stop Bulldozers, Not Motorcycles

In your Feb. 28 article you stated that the Marin County supervisors authorized the sheriff's department to buy motorcycles to chase the "Hell's Angels" of Marin County from the hills.

I personally know and have met several of these outlaws myself. My 6-year-old boy and I are also law breakers when it comes to trying to ride our motorcycles.

It would be better to use the money that they are spending for motorcycles and salaries for sheriffs on a motorcycle park to give these outlaws a place to ride legally.

Most of these outlaws are 14 to 17 years old and have parents to buy these motorcycles for them . . .

Most of these kids cannot and would not ride these motorcycles anywhere than off the roads. It is as much of a sport as football. baseball, golf and tennis and there is always a place and money for these sports.

Instead of calling us outlaws why not help us and the sheriff? There must be some open land in Marin County where we can have a motorcycle park where we would not bother anyone. The closest motorcycle park I know of is in Livermore, one and one-half hours' ride away.

Motorcycle parks are being operated on a profit basis on other counties. Why not Marin County?

Stop bulldozers, not motorcycles. They ruin more of Marin's picturesque slopes.

More Money Needed For Recreational Area

Although $5.9 million will begin the purchase of land for the Golden Gate National Recreation Area, it will buy only a small part of the private land included in the park boundary. It is less than 10 per cent of the $61,610,000 allocated in the legislation for purchase of the GGNRA. In spite of the President's desire for and obvious pride in the establishment of the GGNRA, the administration's budget for 1974 calls for new new monies for parkland purchase.

Delay of purchases could precipitate a price spiral disaster, similar to that which occurred when Point Reyes National Seashore was established. In that instance, the appropriations for the park had to be increased from $14 million to $58 million, as subdivisions appeared while speculators inflated land values.

Congress should appropriate $20 million of new money for purchase of lands for the GGNRA in the fiscal 1974 budget. Even if the money is not spent right away, because of impoundment of funds by the President, the appropriation can be used when funds are again released . . .

Ridgetop Cyclists Not Band Of Toughs

I am writing about the Independent-Journal article of Feb. 28 concerning the sheriff's department's acquiring a motorcycle to attempt to apprehend the cyclists on the hill behind Eagle Rock in Alto.

I am not saying whether or not the riding there is good, bad, or illegal, but only to say that the article is unfairly written concerning the bikers themselves.

To clarify where they are riding in the hills, I'd say more like 3/4 or 4/5 of all riding is done on the very top of the ridges, on already existing fire roads and trails. It is also the same hill that is currently being excavated by Highway 101 near Koch Luggage Co. So it's not really as if they're tearing up "Marin's picturesque slopes."

Mainly, though, I write about the section in the article quoting an irate citizen, saying he found "a gang of toughs who would make the Hell's Angels look like angels." I'm sure his being upset is justified to him and his neighbors but if he's so irate, and he must be quite irate to make a statement like that, then he's not going to be too competent to give an accurate or just and fair description of the riders . . .

Being a rider of sorts myself, I am acquainted with the riders who frequent the hilltops and I've yet to see one who even looks like a "Hell's Angel" much less act like one. Nearly all the riders there are in high school or lower. In addition to school and studies most of them have to hold part-time jobs in order to keep up their bikes. All in all they are good guys. They do what they can to keep overly loud riders away and things like that . . .

Busing Frenzy Dying As Blacks Put Emphasis On Quality Schools

Compulsory busing is on the way out. The push to defuse the issue comes from three directions:

1 — The most influential black leaders are no longer pressing for busing to bring about racial balance in schools.

2 — Democratic liberals are shying away from the pro-busing stance they took during the '72 campaign.

3 — More black leaders are putting a higher priority on quality and equality of education than upon busing.

THE NATIONAL ASSOCIATION for the Advancement of Colored People has long contended that there could be no equality of education for black youth except through nearly total racial integration in all schools.

Now the organization is saying that quality is more important than integration.

NAACP's Roy Wilkins lays it on the line. Here is the way he puts it:

"If the school boards agree to the improvement in education and a program that leads to meaningful equalization of the educational process, black children will not suffer by attending all-black schools."

William Raspberry, Washington Post columnist who happens to be black, has been saying this for a long time. He writes: "It has long seemed insane to me for black people to pursue whites from this neighborhood to that and clear out of the county because of some unspoken belief that black children could not get a proper education in the absence of white children."

If blacks turn away from busing as a tactic to achieve better schools, they will rightly demand even more vigorously an equality of teaching and an equality of funding for schools in black districts.

SOVIETS EXPERIENCING economic slowdown. It is not just Russian agriculature which is in trouble. The whole economy is hurting because the Kremlin has had to spend foreign currency on food imports. Figures show that the past year witnessed the lowest peacetime growth in Russian industrial output in a decade.

The growth of the Soviet Union's national income was reduced to 4 per cent in 1972 — this in a year when the U.S. national income rose 7 per cent.

CHINA SEEMS LOVED farther from home. Peking's diplomatic successes are coming in nearly every part of the wrld except among its neighboring countries.

With the Americas, Europe, Africa, the Middle East and Australia, the People's Republic of China is winning friends and improving relations.

But this tidal wave of goodwill — and trust — is not yet touching the shores nearer at hand, either in India or Pakistan or Burma.

The Chinese hope to lure India away from leaning so visibly on Moscow and some detente between New Delhi and Peking seems to be in the making.

HATS OFF TO ELEANOR. Will a woman ever run for President? Inevitably. But one woman has already made it to the White House. Eleanor Roosevelt was one of the most influential persons in government — and in the country — for more than 12 years. She was eyes, ears, consultant and adviser to F.D.R.

She was bitterly denounced when she first entertained blacks as her guests at the White House. Now it hardly makes a headline — and rightly so — when Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Davis Jr. stay overnight with the Nixons.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Congress Protecting Big Business Against Administration Attack

WASHINGTON — You may have gotten the impression that most of Mr. Nixon's penny-pinching has been at the expense of poor people and average taxpayers, and that coupon-clippers and big industry have gone relatively unscathed by his economies. Your impression is correct. Herewith, the exception that confirms the rule.

In the continuing matter of DDT vs. the environment, the federal government vs. DDT, and the pesticide manufacturers vs. the federal government, the administration is taking what seems to be an unlikely position.

It is lining up with liberal Democratic senators like Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., and Philip Hart, D-Mich., among others, against the agribusiness combine of big farmers, chemical companies, and the congressional elders who have protected those intersts so tenderly for so long.

UNLIKELY, YES, but the administration has its reasons — not particularly environmental, and certainly not ideological. They are purely fiscal, based on fear of setting a precedent that eventually could do even more to bankrupt the country than the Pentagon's forgiving nature toward Lockheed Aircraft.

As of Jan. 1, the large-scale use of DDT to kill insects on crops has been banned because the highly effective poison does not decompose, but accumulates on the land, in water, in birds, fish, animals and man. The Environmental Protection Agency ordered the ban under a law passed by Congress last October.

Passage of the law was a setback for the agribusiness interests, but their benefactors in Congress forced into it a section that would help soothe their feelings — at least those of the manufacturers. It allows the federal government to compensate the producers at up to retail prices for whatever financial losses they suffer as a result of their products being summarily ruled off the market.

NELSON, HART, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff and some Republicans, such as Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen, fought the section vigorously. As Nelson said, the public would be insuring manufacturers for offering inadequatey tested products for sale, and that would lead to repaying hundreds of companies for turning out unsafe products that come under federal control. He cited cyclamates, the artificial sweeteners that were banned from soft drinks and other uses after large doses were found to have caused cancer in rats. Food additives, detergent ingredients, cattle feeds and drugs were on his list.

Ribicoff pointed out that if that section went on the books, federal agencies might hesitate to ban harmful products for financial rather than health reasons because of the potential cost of repayments. Frelinghuysen noted that the precedent could provide a legal basis for government compensation to private enterprise any time a government action in the public interest resulted in a loss of business profits.

All of which is very true, and objectively intolerable. Yet last fall, even in the presence of pressure from the administration, the section was insisted on by House conferees and passed along with the bill.

NOW THE ADMINISTRATION has spoken up again against the indemnity provision. The EPA is backing Hart's amendment to delete it, and staff members of his environment subcommittee think the amendment's prospects on the Senate side are good. At the other end of the capitol, where the section originated, the situation is not so clear.

What is clear, however, is that by passing the section in the first place Congress made itself vulnerable to exactly the charge many of its members now lay against Mr. Nixon: that his priorities are out of order, stacked in favor of big business and against the taxpayer at large. For that charge to stand up in social welfare and similar fields, Congress is going to have to be consistent by approving this Hart amendment.

Otherwise, the gate is wide open to giving millions of public dollars to chemical and other companies — as a reward for turning out products that are found to endanger the public's health and safety.

Brigitte Bardot's "men are beasts" appraisal is the nicest thing that's been said about guys recently.

You remember Brigitte, don't you? She's the sex kitten whose movie career was devoted to bringing out the beast in all us pussycats.

What deflates the male animal is being called "chauvinist pig" when he fancies himself as a tiger.

Many a husband has a reputation for beastly virility just because he's always growling about something.

If men are beasts, you'll have to admit that women have done a good job domesticating 'em.

Bermuda Governor's Assassination Probed

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) — Police working with Scotland Yard detectives detained several persons for questioning today in the murder of Gov. Sir Richard Sharples and his aide Saturday night. Police sources said they were convinced two gunmen were involved in the assassination.

Sharples, 57, and Capt. Hugh Sayers, 25, were shot in the gardens of Government House, the governor's official mansion, as they walked Sharples' Great Dane Horsa after a dinner party Saturday night. The dog also was killed.

The murders came six months and a day after Bermuda Police Commissioner George Duckett was shot to death in his home and his daughter wounded. Duckett's killers have not been found, but police said they believed there was a definite link between his murder and the assassination of Sharples.

Two Scotland Yard detectives, who left Bermuda only two weeks ago after investigating without success Duckett's murder, returned Sunday and a six-man team of detectives and forensic science experts from Scotland Yard were en route today to supplement Bermuda's 359-member police force.

A spokesman for the Bermuda government, Colin Selley, said police had not disclosed how many persons were being detained under special powers granted under the State of Emergency declared Sunday morning, but Selley said the number could be counted "on two hands."

He said police began their investigation by questioning the more militant elements among Bermuda's black population, but police so far have declined to say the assassination was racially or poitically motivated.

One official said Sunday, however, that the shootings were "not the work of a nut."

Rites Scheduled Tomorrow For 'Bull' Connor

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Funeral services will be held here Tuesday for T. Eugene "Bull" Connor, the former police commissioner who ordered dogs and fire hoses used on civil rights demonstrators in 1963.

Connor, 75, died Saturday at a nursing home. The victim of a crippling stroke in 1966, he suffered another stroke Feb. 26 and remained under medical care until his death.

A former aide, city councilman Russell Yarbrough, said Connor died of pneumonia which developed while Connor was in a coma.

Seven Dead In Texas Twisters

HUBBARD, Tex. (UPI) — The worst of 10 tornadoes that struck central Texas last weekend killed six persons in Hubbard and left a third of the town in piles of bricks and splinters. The total death toll for the state rose to seven.

Harold Sims, 72, who was asleep with his wife in their mobile home in the Grape Creek Community six miles north of San Angelo in west Texas when the twister struck, died Sunday.

Mrs. Sims today was in serious condition and five other persons were in satisfactory condition at San Angelo hospitals from that tornado, the first one to strike the state.

From 1:40 a.m. to 6 a.m., a total of 10 tornadoes hit from the southern Texas Hill Country 500 miles north to the Oklahoma border.

Hubbard was hit the hardest, with the six deaths and at least 100 injuries. The most physical damage to a city occurred at Burnet, 150 miles south of Hubbard, where at least 200 homes were destroyed and 30 persons were injured. There were no fatalities at Burnet.

When All Books Are Balanced What Happened To The Money?

The Office of Economic Opportunity in San Francisco, faced with long-overdue extermination by President Nixon, has finally remembered that someone in Marin County owes it some money.

That someone is W. Robert Lomax Jr., former executive director of the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council. Poor Bobby!

OEO's new-found interest in Lomax is because it claims he still owes the federal government about $5,000 which should have gone to poor people instead of to fancy restaurants, travel agencies, etc.

Unfortunately for OEO, Bobby is no longer in Marin. He split for points east about a year ago, with creditors in hot pursuit. Poor OEO!

THE FEDERAL AGENCY'S concern for Lomax is contained in a letter to his former employer, now called Community Action Marin. That agency, following time-honored tradition, decided to suppress the letter. poor Community Action Marin!

But word of the letter leaked out, despite agreement by agency directors that it should be kept under wraps.

You see, not only does the OEO want $5,000 from Lomax, it wants $19,000 from Community Action Marin, currently seeking "outside funding for the soon-to-come day when the federal trough is dry.

The laughter is that nobody really expects any real money to change hands. OEO will credit Community Action Marin with an extra $19,000 in its "phase-out grant" which Community Action Marin will credit to OEO. Thus, everyone's books are clean. Everyone's except the taxpayers'. Poor taxpayers!

AS FOR LOMAX, who knows?

He was last heard from in Washington, D.C., where he was using Community Action Marin as a job reference. To Community Action Marin's somewhat tarnished credit, it torpedoed that.

Meanwhile, the last heard from the Federal Bureau of Investigation about Lomax was that it had his case under study. That was six months ago.

The Marin County district attorney's office decided not to become involved. "No local money was involved," it said.

Apologist For Boredom Nearly As Bad As Boredom Itself

A psychologist, noting the well-known, glassy-eyed boredom produced by habitual television watching, went on to make the rather astonishing observation that being bored isn't necessarily bad. Much of life, he argued, is, in fact, boring, and children especially should be trained to expect this.

Readers tempted to sputter "Big bore yourself!" ought to make sure the yawning psychologist is their true target. Isn't he voicing what a lot of other people are thinking? They may not discuss boredom so blatantly. But they pay their terrified respects by the ways they squirm to escape all their lives from the psychic country of the lotus-eaters.

ONE IS NO SOONER born, presumably, than the bogey starts closing in. Parents must fill the crib with the most stimulating playthings — as if a human being would lapse into terminal boredom at nine months without all this psychedelic catnip.

At five, the child enters the school system, where teachers convinced that education ought to be ecstasy — but fearful that it is dull, dull, dull — frantically stir actual and metaphorical strawberry syrup into the actual and metaphorical milk.

Sixteen or 17 — or, gulp, 20 — years later the perennial student lands a job described as "challenging" and "exciting." It doesn't quite "fulfill" him. That is to say, it bores him silly. By now he is highly educated in his standards of boredom if nothing else.

So he gets married.

Then, on an infrequent trip to the barbershop, he picks up a magazine with the latest, inevitable article on marriage. "Are Husbands and Wives Obsolete?" — things of that sort. He is told that the boredom of the nursery, the classroom, and the office are as nothing compared to the ennui of monogamy. Depending on whether the author is a radical or a liberal, the young married is given from two to seven years before total indifference sets in.

Well, so what? he asks bravely. Isn't there a whole anti-boredom industry working night and day to produce — what do you call it? — "entertainment?"

ALAS, EVEN THE ANTIDOTES to boredom can be boring. The master anxiety of popular films, plays, and novels seems to be that their audience will walk out or nod off in about five minutes or five pages if — quick! — there isn't another whomp of the old violence or a nude scene.

At this point, the first law of boredom may be defined: The harder one works at avoiding boredom, the more likely one is to be bored.

If, on the other hand, the arts are more fine than popular, they are all too likely in their war against boredom to choose boredom as their subject, like the plays of Samuel Beckett, the films of Michelangelo Antonioni, and the anti-novels of Nathalie Sarraute.

Our young anti-boredom fighter runs for his life. But where? After a brief, panting fling at activism —which ends, of course, in "political apathy" — he sinks down defeated before that television set where we first met him. Or so the psychologist's script dictates, supported by a silent, fearful myth in the hearts of many Americans that most people, as Thoreau put it, must lead lives of quiet desperation.

WHAT AN INSULT this whole scenario is to the resources of human curiosity! How utterly unacceptable its conclusions are!

Surely the supreme mistake is to accept boredom at all. As something to live with, like that psychologist. As something to panic from, in the fashion of the swinger. Or worst of all, as something to be proud of — a badge of elitism — in the spirit of the intellectual snob.

Boredom is a curse —a disastrous loss of appetite at the feast, a dulling of the heart, a glazing of the eyes, a shutting down of the psyche on the possibilities of life. Earlier Christians had a word for it: accidie. Meaning, listlessness as an absolute — the very opposite of the state of grace.

A lot of analysts-of-the-modern have tried, in effect, to find the name —the characteristic guise — for Mephistopheles in their time. It might be hard to discover a likelier culprit than that drooping, really intolerable coincidence of lack of energy and lack of purpose: boredom. Hereby nominated public enemy No. 2 for the '70's — second only, of course, to all boredom-loving psychologists.

San Anselmo Land Request Due Study

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, meeting tomorrow at 9:45 a.m. at Civic Center, will consider a request from the City of San Anselmo that a building moratorium be imposed on unincorporated lands bordering the city.

The city's letter comes one week before the board is to consider the controversial Max D. Schenk townhouse development which proposes 44 units on 15 acres at the end of Sacramento Avenue.

The city council and nearby residents are bitterly opposed to the project and argue the land should be annexed to San Anselmo before development plans are approved.

The board meeting will be preceded at 8:30 a.m. by a meeting of the new regional park district board of directors to consider open space land acquisition.

The supervisors' agenda also includes review of the county's multimillion dollar capital improvements program, discussion of the balanced transportation study and a resolution urging state purchase of Tom's Point on Tomales Bay.

Items scheduled, but which may be postponed, include the controversial consumer affairs program and a report on the children's treatment center at Juvenile Hall.

Library Poster Contest Is Set

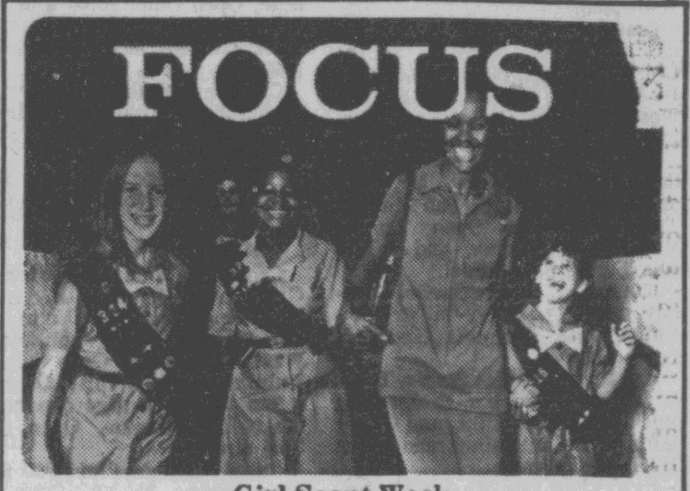
The Friends of the Marin County Free Library are sponsoring a poster contest to draw attention to "National Library Week," April 8-14.

The competition is open to students in Marin public high schools. Art instructors at the schools have complete information, according to Laurine Bergin.

Entries must be submitted by April 2, she said.

The winning student from each school will receive a $5 cash prize and the school will be awarded $10 toward purchase of an art book.

Winning posters will be displayed at the Marin County Library at the Civic Center during "Library Week" and at the library's branches later in April.



Girl Scout Week

This is Girl Scout Week. Celebrated by Girl Scouts throughout the United States, it honors the founding of the first troop 61 years ago by Mrs. Juliette Gordon Low. The first troop, meeting in Mrs. Low's home in Savannah, Georgia, consisted of 12 scouts who wore homemade blue uniforms. Since that time the organization has expanded to include more than 3 million girls in all states of the union. Girl scouting is open to all girls 7 through 17 years of age who are willing to subscribe to the promise and laws of scouting. Since its beginnings, the uniform of the Girl Scouts has undergone several changes both in style and color. Today, many styles, including pantsuits, are available.

DO YOU KNOW — What product do the Girl Scouts traditionally sell to raise funds?

Hearing Slated In Larkspur On Fill Permit

The Larkspur Planning Commission at its meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the town hall will hold a public hearing on an application by Alice Vincilione for a fill permit.

Town staff said Mrs. Vincilione wants to import 6,000 cubic yards of fill to place on the flatlands on Magnolia Avenue.

Public hearings also will be held on an application by Richard Greenwald to sell fresh fruits and vegetables in a C-2 district at 1115 Magnolia Avenue, and the landscaping and hard surface plans for the Larwin apartments on Bon Air Hill will come up for architectural supervision.

I LOST 600 POUNDS
THE SAME 10 POUNDS 60 TIMES.
DIETS? I'VE TRIED THEM ALL.

1. I lost weight so slowly, I got discouraged & quit.
2. I had weird cravings. I would have killed for a hot Fudge Sundae!
3. One slip and my will power disappeared. The result? An eating orgy until I gained back everything I lost.
4. Ten days on a diet, and I became too cranky and irritable to live with.
5. I became depressed, and after each failure, hated myself a little bit more.
6. I found I couldn't tolerate hunger, it was no fun to starve.

DOES THIS SOUND LIKE YOU?

Well I have solved all these problems. After 4 years of research, I developed a natural method of losing weight, and lost 55 lbs. in 2½ months. NO hunger! NO depression! NO cravings! ½ lb. to 1½ lbs. a day. I've shared this method with hundreds. I'll share it with you. If you're interested call us or write and we'll send you a tape cassette that tells the whole story. If you don't have a tape player or can't borrow one call for an appointment and come in and listen to it.

Inmate Stabbed Three Times

A 37-year-old San Quentin inmate was stabbed three times in the back at 1:55 p.m. yesterday in the lower recreation yard at the prison.

Jesse Ruiz was reported in serious condition today in the prison hospital, according to L. F. Shepherd, officer of the day.

Ruiz had been in San Quentin since March 20, 1959 serving two concurrent terms for unnatural sex acts and sex perversion by force, according to Shepherd.

Prison guards recovered a prison-made knife used in the stabbing.

Two men were to be questioned, Shepherd said.

Mont Marin Owners Elect Officers

The Mont Marin Homeowners Association has elected new officers for 1973, outgoing association president Jerry R. Russom announced today.

Elected Thursday were: Bruce Leeb, president; Charles Miller, vice president; Martin Vermeulen, treasurer and Mary Louise Matzen, secretary.

All Tickets Honored For Circus

After a somewhat stormy beginning, the firemen's circus at the Marin Veterans Memorial Auditorium ended happily with about 15,000 persons getting to see the show, a firemen's spokesman said today.

Michael Vonada, president of the new Association of Marin County Firemen, reported that three extra performances Friday and Saturday took care of all the ticket-holders.

Would-be spectators at the Thursday performances complained that the circus staff, which sold the tickets by telephone solicitation, had "grossly oversold" the auditorium capacity of 2,003 seats.

Vonada said he had not yet received a report on total receipts for the fund-raising circus.

A final report on the receipts will be made to the firemen's association at its meeting March 19, and the group will select a charity to receive part of the proceeds, Vonada said today.

Impact Hearing Slated Again

The Corte Madera Planning Commission will resume its public hearing on the environmental impact report for the Hidden Valley residential development on the Northridge at its meeting tonight at 7:30 in the town hall.

The hearing opened Feb. 13 and continued on Feb. 14, but commissioners asked for more information from the developers Roemer and Estes after neighbors objected to further building in the area.

Commissioners also will continue discussion on the suitability of property at 5604 Paradise Drive for a public park, acting on a request for recommendations from the town council.

Recital Slated At College Of Marin

Violinist Charles Meacham and pianist Robaline Meacham will perform "music for violin and keyboard" at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the College Of Marin's Fine Arts Building.

Proceeds will go to the college music department's scholarship fund.

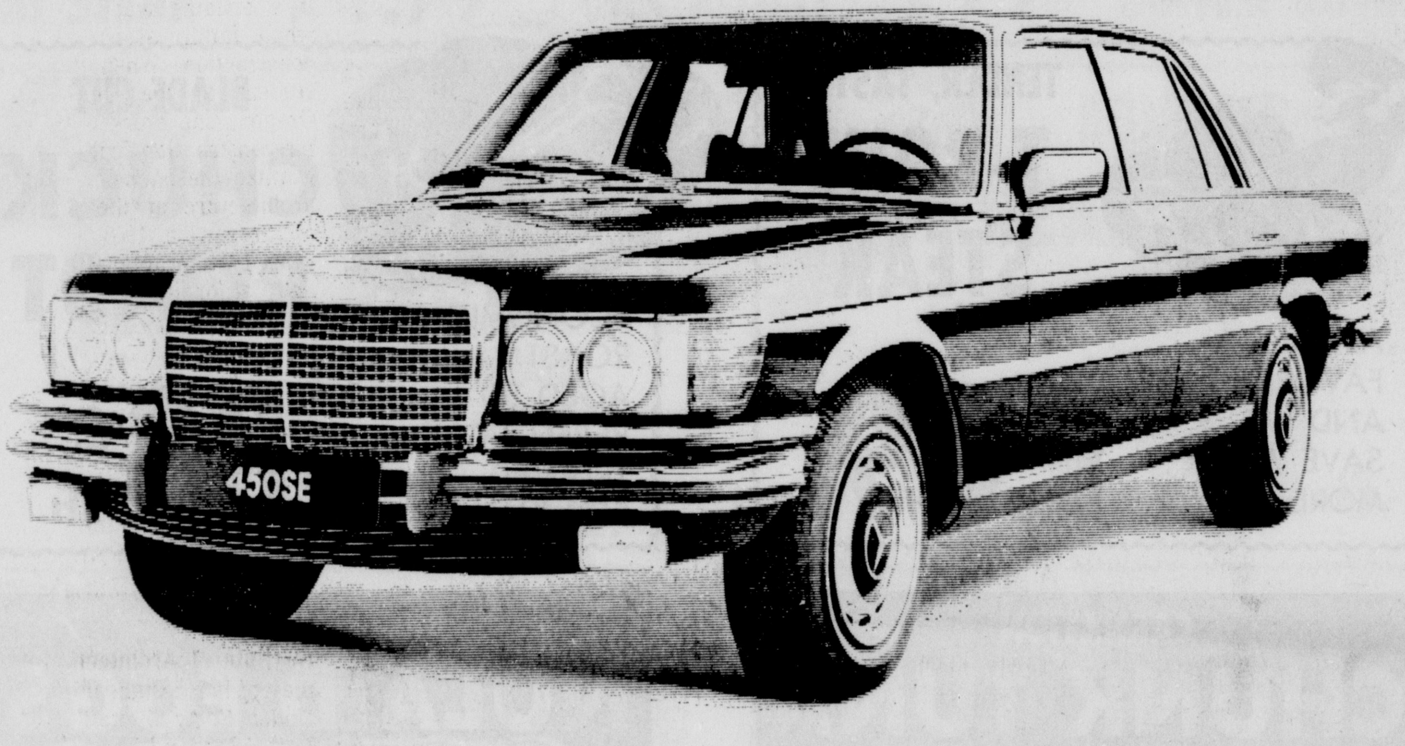
Introducing a $13,500 sedan that promises the most remarkable driving experience of your life: the new Mercedes-Benz 450SE



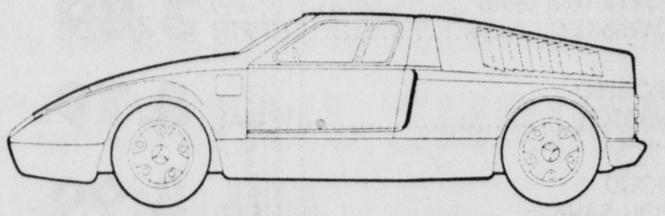
YEARS OF intense engineering effort were invested in the new Mercedes-Benz 450SE. Technical advances everywhere combine to produce handling response, security and stability that may well surpass any Mercedes-Benz sedan yet built, according to the engineers.

New front suspension

This car's sense of control is uncanny. The 450SE goes where you aim it—so precisely, that even veteran Mercedes-Benz drivers may find themselves astonished.

The reason: a zero steering offset front suspension system, adapted from the 180-mph C-111 experimental coupe.

Rear suspension design is the same fully independent system you will find on the 450SL. And radial-ply tires are standard equipment.



New front suspension adapted from C-111 experimental sports car.

The 450SE's designers wanted to keep the car as unruffled as possible—even in sudden, violent maneuvers.

2.7 turns lock-to-lock

An already superb power steering system was reworked for an even surer road feel. Consider that the 1973 Lincoln steers from full-left to full-right in 3.9 turns—the 450SE does it in 2.7 turns.

Under the hood is a 4.5 litre electronically fuel-injected V-8. And specifically designed to mate with this engine is a 3-speed automatic gearbox with a floor-mounted shift lever.

Front discs blasted with air

In the new Mercedes-Benz 450SE a ring of air scoops is built into the inside of each wheel. Purpose: to bathe all four disc brakes in a steady gust of air. No domestic luxury sedan even employs 4-wheel disc brakes. Mercedes-Benz has used this system in its sedans for nearly a decade. Of course, the 450SE carries on in this tradition.

Shaped in the wind tunnel

Its designers gave the 450SE a shape that owes much to aerodynamics.

Massive windshield wipers are meant to harness the car's airflow to stay flat on the glass, even at maximum speeds. Vanes on the forward pillars and catch gutters on the rear window are placed there to scoop rain over the roof and away from the side and rear windows. Ribbed taillight lenses were designed to use the car's own air turbulence as a constant "scrubber" in rain and slush—staying visible to following traffic.

Almost absurdly maneuverable

This spacious 5-passenger sedan whisks through a turning circle smaller than a Corvette sports car—only 37.9 feet.

The 450SE measures 3 feet shorter overall than any 1973 Lincoln, Cadillac or Imperial. It isn't quite as wide, either. And in most vital respects, it gives you equal interior room and a larger trunk.

Front doors that breathe

The 450SE's built-in air-conditioning system is designed to prevent jarring blasts of frigid air; instead, controls are infinitely adjustable for temperature. Cooling or warming air is channelled not just through separate instrument panel vents but also via hidden outlets in both front doors.

A vacuum-operated central locking system is also built into your 450SE. One twist of the key in the outside driver's door lock silently secures all 4 doors, the trunk lid and the gas port.

Besides that air-conditioning system, standard equipment includes power steering and brakes; automatic transmission; electric windows; AM/FM stereo receiver; tinted glass; twin front fog lights and front- and rear-seat armrests.

The brief option list includes: leather upholstery; electric sun roof and fitted luggage.

The final significance

The 450SE incorporates more safety thinking than any Mercedes-Benz in history.

Mercedes-Benz motor cars: from $16,594* to $6,761*

Mercedes-Benz offers a vast range of models. Here are suggested retail prices for 8 of the most popular types:

450SLC Coupe	$16,594
450SL Coupe/Roadster	$12,846
450SEL Sedan	$14,698
450SE Sedan	$13,491
280 Coupe	$10,094
280 Sedan	$ 9,416
220 Sedan	$ 6,999
220 Diesel Sedan	$ 6,761

*West Coast port of entry, exclusive of transportation, other options, state and local taxes, if any. Copyright 1973, Mercedes-Benz of North America, Inc.

Some of it you can see, like massive locks fitted at every door; sturdy windshield and door pillars; wraparound front and rear bumpers; lavishly padded interior. Some safety thinking is invisible, like the fuel tank mounted inboard over the rear axle as far from harm's way as the engineers could devise—then encased in steel bulkheads.

Invitation to a remarkable experience

A new Mercedes-Benz inevitably stirs wide interest. So call your authorized dealer soon and arrange a test drive.

A color brochure on the new 450SE and other models will be mailed to you upon sending the coupon below.

Please send me your full-color brochure of the Mercedes-Benz motor cars.

Hearing Slated In Larkspur On Fill Permit

The Larkspur Planning Commission at its meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the town hall will hold a public hearing on an application by Alice Vincilione for a fill permit.

Town staff said Mrs. Vincilione wants to import 6,000 cubic yards of fill to place on the flatlands on Magnolia Avenue.

Public hearings also will be held on an application by Richard Greenwald to sell fresh fruits and vegetables in a C-2 district at 1115 Magnolia Avenue, and the landscaping and hard surface plans for the Larwin apartments on Bon Air Hill will come up for architectural supervision.

I LOST 600 POUNDS

THE SAME 10 POUNDS 60 TIMES.
DIETS? I'VE TRIED THEM ALL.

1. I lost weight so slowly, I got discouraged & quit.
2. I had weird cravings. I would have killed for a hot Fudge Sundae!
3. One slip and my will power disappeared. The result? An eating orgy until I gained back everything I lost.
4. Ten days on a diet, and I became too cranky and irritable to live with.
5. I became depressed, and after each failure, hated myself a little bit more.
6. I found I couldn't tolerate hunger, it was no fun to starve.

DOES THIS SOUND LIKE YOU?

Well I have solved all these problems. After 4 years of research, I developed a natural method of losing weight, and lost 55 lbs. in 2½ months. NO hunger! NO depression! NO cravings! ½ lb. to 1½ lbs. a day. I've shared this method with hundreds. I'll share it with you. If you're interested call us or write and we'll send you a tape cassette that tells the whole story. If you don't have a tape player or can't borrow one call for an appointment and come in and listen to it.

Inmate Stabbed Three Times

A 37-year-old San Quentin inmate was stabbed three times in the back at 1:55 p.m. yesterday in the lower recreation yard at the prison.

Jesse Ruiz was reported in serious condition today in the prison hospital, according to L. F. Shepherd, officer of the day.

Ruiz had been in San Quentin since March 20, 1959 serving two concurrent terms for unnatural sex acts and sex perversion by force, according to Shepherd.

Prison guards recovered a prison-made knife used in the stabbing.

Two men were to be questioned, Shepherd said.

Mont Marin Owners Elect Officers

Elected Thursday were: Bruce Leeb, president; Charles Miller, vice president; Martin Vermeulen, treasurer and Mary Louise Matzen, secretary.

All Tickets Honored For Circus

After a somewhat stormy beginning, the firemen's circus at the Marin Veterans Memorial Auditorium ended happily with about 15,000 persons getting to see the show, a firemen's spokesman said today.

Michael Vonada, president of the new Association of Marin County Firemen, reported that three extra performances Friday and Saturday took care of all the ticket-holders.

Would-be spectators at the Thursday performances complained that the circus staff, which sold the tickets by telephone solicitation, had "grossly oversold" the auditorium capacity of 2,003 seats.

Vonada said he had not yet received a report on total receipts for the fund-raising circus.

A final report on the receipts will be made to the firemen's association at its meeting March 19, and the group will select a charity to receive part of the proceeds, Vonada said today.

Impact Hearing Slated Again

The Corte Madera Planning Commission will resume its public hearing on the environmental impact report for the Hidden Valley residential development on the Northridge at its meeting tonight at 7:30 in the town hall.

The hearing opened Feb. 13 and continued on Feb. 14, but commissioners asked for more information from the developers Roemer and Estes after neighbors objected to further building in the area.

Commissioners also will continue discussion on the suitability of property at 5604 Paradise Drive for a public park, acting on a request for recommendations from the town council.

Recital Slated At College Of Marin

Violinist Charles Meacham and pianist Robaline Meacham will perform "music for violin and keyboard" at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the College Of Marin's Fine Arts Building.

Proceeds will go to the college music department's scholarship fund.

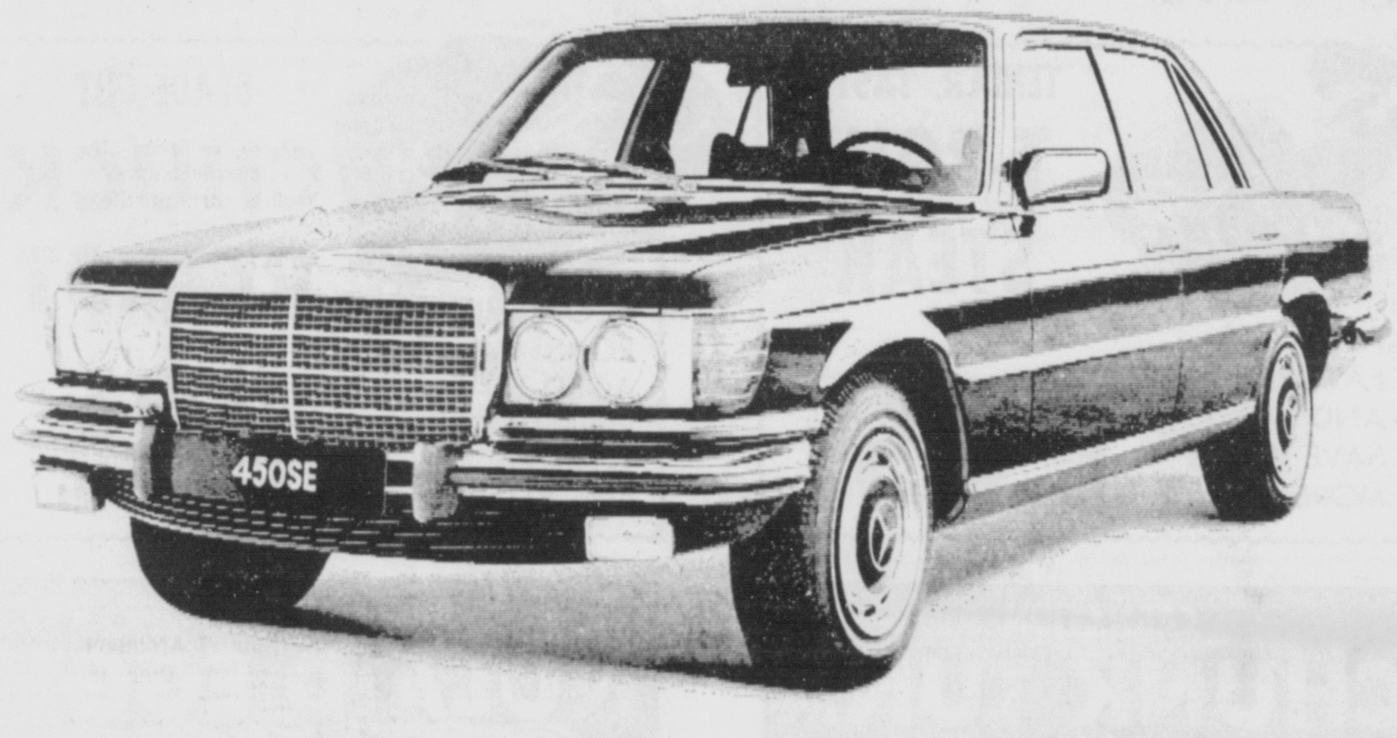
Introducing a $13,500 sedan that promises the most remarkable driving experience of your life: the new Mercedes-Benz 450SE



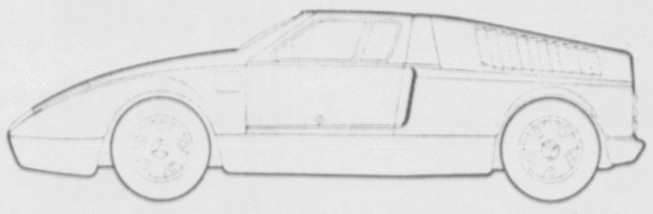
YEARS OF intense engineering effort were invested in the new Mercedes-Benz 450SE. Technical advances everywhere combine to produce handling response, security and stability that may well surpass any Mercedes-Benz sedan yet built, according to the engineers.

New front suspension

This car's sense of control is uncanny. The 450SE goes where you aim it—so precisely, that even veteran Mercedes-Benz drivers may find themselves astonished.

The reason: a zero steering offset front suspension system, adapted from the 180-mph C-111 experimental coupe.

Rear suspension design is the same fully independent system you will find on the 450SL. And radial-ply tires are standard equipment.



New front suspension adapted from C-111 experimental sports car.

The 450SE's designers wanted to keep the car as unruffled as possible—even in sudden, violent maneuvers.

2.7 turns lock-to-lock

An already superb power steering system was reworked for an even surer road feel. Consider that the 1973 Lincoln steers from full-left to full-right in 3.9 turns—the 450SE does it in 2.7 turns.

Under the hood is a 4.5 litre electronically fuel-injected V-8. And specifically designed to mate with this engine is a 3-speed automatic gearbox with a floor-mounted shift lever.

Front discs blasted with air

In the new Mercedes-Benz 450SE a ring of air scoops is built into the inside of each wheel. Purpose: to bathe all four disc brakes in a steady gust of air. No domestic luxury sedan even employs 4-wheel disc brakes. Mercedes-Benz has used this system in its sedans for nearly a decade. Of course, the 450SE carries on in this tradition.

Shaped in the wind tunnel

Its designers gave the 450SE a shape that owes much to aerodynamics.

Massive windshield wipers are meant to harness the car's airflow to stay flat on the glass, even at maximum speeds. Vanes on the forward pillars and catch gutters on the rear window are placed there to scoop rain over the roof and away from the side and rear windows. Ribbed taillight lenses were designed to use the car's own air turbulence as a constant "scrubber" in rain and slush—staying visible to following traffic.

Almost absurdly maneuverable

This spacious 5-passenger sedan whisks through a turning circle smaller than a Corvette sports car—only 37.9 feet.

The 450SE measures 3 feet shorter overall than any 1973 Lincoln, Cadillac or Imperial. It isn't quite as wide, either. And in most vital respects, it gives you equal interior room and a larger trunk.

Front doors that breathe

The 450SE's built-in air-conditioning system is designed to prevent jarring blasts of frigid air; instead, controls are infinitely adjustable for temperature. Cooling or warming air is channelled not just through separate instrument panel vents but also via hidden outlets in both front doors.

A vacuum-operated central locking system is also built into your 450SE. One twist of the key in the outside driver's door lock silently secures all 4 doors, the trunk lid and the gas port.

Besides that air-conditioning system, standard equipment includes power steering and brakes; automatic transmission; electric windows; AM/FM stereo receiver; tinted glass; twin front fog lights and front- and rear-seat armrests.

The brief option list includes: leather upholstery; electric sun roof and fitted luggage.

The final significance

The 450SE incorporates more safety thinking than any Mercedes-Benz in history.

Mercedes-Benz motor cars: from $16,594* to $6,761*

Mercedes-Benz offers a vast range of models. Here are suggested retail prices for 8 of the most popular types:

450SLC Coupe	$16,594
450SL Coupe/Roadster	$12,846
450SEL Sedan	$14,698
450SE Sedan	$13,491
280 Coupe	$10,094
280 Sedan	$ 9,416
220 Sedan	$ 6,999
220 Diesel Sedan	$ 6,761

*West Coast port of entry, exclusive of transportation, other options, state and local taxes, if any. Copyright 1973, Mercedes-Benz of North America, Inc.

Some of it you can see, like massive locks fitted at every door; sturdy windshield and door pillars; wraparound front and rear bumpers; lavishly padded interior. Some safety thinking is invisible, like the fuel tank mounted inboard over the rear axle as far from harm's way as the engineers could devise—then encased in steel bulkheads.

Invitation to a remarkable experience

A new Mercedes-Benz inevitably stirs wide interest. So call your authorized dealer soon and arrange a test drive.

A color brochure on the new 450SE and other models will be mailed to you upon sending the coupon below.

TIME PRECIOUS

Architect Emphasizes Her 'Wins'

By BETTY FROST

"Because my time is precious and limited, I focus my interest on design and construction," said architect Judith Crutcher of Mill Valley.

"I want to get the right answers to solve the problem," the architect said. "I concentrate on my wins. In the rare instances where I have met prejudice because of sex, I never take it personally."

Among her "wins" was acting as job captain for a million-dollar gymnasium and swimming pool complex in Oregon. She was out in the field in all kinds of weather, overseeing heavy construction and had an excellent working relationship with the contractor.

Her husband, Lewis, also is an architect. He is chief planner for the three-county East Bay Regional Park District and an authority on urban planning, which he taught at the University of Oregon and Reed College in Portland, Ore.

Mr. and Mrs. Crutcher and their two sons, Marshall, 10, and Christopher, 9, moved to Mill Valley four years ago.

SHE IS very much interested in good planning for the community and ran unsuccessfully for a vacancy on the Mill Valley Planning Commission in December. Whether in or out of public office, "I will always be interested in the city. I will be outspoken in campaigns for zoning and transit problems. You can't care about a place and never get outside your own front door," Mrs. Crutcher said.

She is concerned about what she calls the "frontier funk" style of central Mill Valley. This the architect calls "a fly-by-night style. It is like interior decorating brought outdoors for commercial purposes. It is a phony, hip style, not sound architecturally." She objects to "glued on bits and parts" used indiscriminately.

In contrast to "frontier funk" she greatly favors honest restoration. With her partner, Saul Wolf, she is involved in restoration of what she calls "fine old Victorian homes."

"I think the current economic climate in inflation will mean the Renaissance of remodeling," she remarked. However, she cautions, there is no point in keeping an old building as it is. The completed building should not be a mere museum, which will not carry its weight economically. The finished building should be useful and self-sustaining.

She cited a Victorian building which she and her associate are remodeling in the Western Addition of San Francisco, which will have offices on the lower floor and apartments on the upper levels. The building contains 10,000 square feet of space. It could be purchased for three dollars a square foot. Since $26 per square foot is the current rate for the light commercial market, it is feasible to do the improvements of heating, wiring and plumbing that old buildings usually need, and to revise the interior.

"IT IS good business to fix up such old buildings, because in today's market, you can't afford to duplicate the material used in the original, and it can be turned into elegant office space and apartments," Mrs. Crutcher said.

Within the partnership, Judith concentrates on the design and planning aspects of the job, and Wolfe deals with civic bodies, and is an expert on codes and costs.

Mrs. Crutcher said there are many women architects in the bay area, but that she is one of the few to own her own firm. Before her association with Wolf in 1971, the Crutchers had practiced architecture in Portland, Ore., as a husband and wife team for eight years.

The architect devotes some time to offering enrichment courses to students at the Old Mill School. She recently finished a course for fourth, fifth and sixth graders on village design, called "Where should Baske and Robbins Be?" The children investigated the core of Mill Valley, studying land values, the use and types of buildings. One of the things the children decided, according to their instructor, was to put the controversial bus depot back into a useful role, perhaps as a restuarant, although one creative youngster saw it as a center for a European-style market place, where home grown vegetables and home-crafted items would be offered for sale. On a walking tour of the down town area, the youngsters found the forgotten places, in the back of buildings where the garbage cans were kept, were often a delight, with exposed brick walls, and hidden creeks.

Mrs. Crutcher is currently offering a design class at the school.

IN HER own home, where remodeling is not completed, Mrs. Crutcher made drainboards extra high, because she and her husband are tall. There is also lots of storage space, which she calls "almost a status symbol." Unusual, too, is the spacious studio, fully equipped for the architect including a duplicating machine. The Crutcher boys are assisting with the finishing of the home's interior and are learning to paint, sand and spackle.

Sharing the family home are two Australian sheepdogs and four cats.

Judith always knew that she wanted to be an architect. A native of Salem, Ore., she grew up on her family's farm. There, if a building was needed, the whole family assisted with the construction. When she was a student at the University of Oregon, she worked part-time for construction firms. She was granted the bachelor degree of architecture at the University of Oregon in 1960. She is licensed to practice in Oregon and California.

Her experience has included work with schools, churches and commercial enterprises. She has been a planning consultant for a day care center, schools and churches.

Mrs. Crutcher's awards include a commendation from the Oregon Council of Architects, a commendation from the Portland Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and display of her designs in the Focus Under Forty Invitational Show at the Portland Museum of Art.

ARCHITECT JUDITH Crutcher develops plans for remodeling a home at the drawing board in the studio of her Mill Valley home. She has been a practicing architect for 12 years.

HEAVY EQUIPMENT is familiar to Mrs. Crutcher, who has been job captain on a large gymnasium, swimming pool complex, and has worked on large projects for schools, churches and commercial enterprises.

ARCHITECT JUDITH Crutcher develops plans for remodeling a home at the drawing board in the studio of her Mill Valley home. She has been a practicing architect for 12 years.

TIME PRECIOUS

Architect Emphasizes Her 'Wins'

By BETTY FROST

"Because my time is precious and limited, I focus my interest on design and construction," said architect Judith Crutcher of Mill Valley.

"I want to get the right answers to solve the problem," the architect said. "I concentrate on my wins. In the rare instances where I have met prejudice because of sex, I never take it personally."

Among her "wins" was acting as job captain for a million-dollar gymnasium and swimming pool complex in Oregon. She was out in the field in all kinds of weather, overseeing heavy construction and had an excellent working relationship with the contractor.

Her husband, Lewis, also is an architect. He is chief planner for the three-county East Bay Regional Park District and an authority on urban planning, which he taught at the University of Oregon and Reed College in Portland, Ore.

Mr. and Mrs. Crutcher and their two sons, Marshall, 10, and Christopher, 9, moved to Mill Valley four years ago.

SHE IS very much interested in good planning for the community and ran unsuccessfully for a vacancy on the Mill Valley Planning Commission in December. Whether in or out of public office, "I will always be interested in the city. I will be outspoken in campaigns for zoning and transit problems. You can't care about a place and never get outside your own front door," Mrs. Crutcher said.

She is concerned about what she calls the "frontier funk" style of central Mill Valley. This the architect calls "a fly-by-night style. It is like interior decorating brought outdoors for commercial purposes. It is a phony, hip style, not sound architecturally." She objects to "glued on bits and parts" used indiscriminately.

In contrast to "frontier funk" she greatly favors honest restoration. With her partner, Saul Wolf, she is involved in restoration of what she calls "fine old Victorian homes."

"I think the current economic climate in inflation will mean the Renaissance of remodeling," she remarked. However, she cautions, there is no point in keeping an old building as it is. The completed building should not be a mere museum, which will not carry its weight economically. The finished building should be useful and self-sustaining.

She cited a Victorian building which she and her associate are remodeling in the Western Addition of San Francisco, which will have offices on the lower floor and apartments on the upper levels. The building contains 10,000 square feet of space. It could be purchased for three dollars a square foot. Since $26 per square foot is the current rate for the light commercial market, it is feasible to do the improvements of heating, wiring and plumbing that old buildings usually need, and to revise the interior.

"IT IS good business to fix up such old buildings, because in today's market, you can't afford to duplicate the material used in the original, and it can be turned into elegant office space and apartments," Mrs. Crutcher said.

Within the partnership, Judith concentrates on the design and planning aspects of the job, and Wolfe deals with civic bodies, and is an expert on codes and costs.

Mrs. Crutcher said there are many women architects in the bay area, but that she is one of the few to own her own firm. Before her association with Wolf in 1971, the Crutchers had practiced architecture in Portland, Ore., as a husband and wife team for eight years.

The architect devotes some time to offering enrichment courses to students at the Old Mill School. She recently finished a course for fourth, fifth and sixth graders on village design, called "Where should Baske and Robbins Be?" The children investigated the core of Mill Valley, studying land values, the use and types of buildings. One of the things the children decided, according to their instructor, was to put the controversial bus depot back into a useful role, perhaps as a restuarant, although one creative youngster saw it as a center for a European-style market place, where home grown vegetables and home-crafted items would be offered for sale. On a walking tour of the down town area, the youngsters found the forgotten places, in the back of buildings where the garbage cans were kept, were often a delight, with exposed brick walls, and hidden creeks.

Mrs. Crutcher is currently offering a design class at the school.

IN HER own home, where remodeling is not completed, Mrs. Crutcher made drainboards extra high, because she and her husband are tall. There is also lots of storage space, which she calls "almost a status symbol." Unusual, too, is the spacious studio, fully equipped for the architect including a duplicating machine. The Crutcher boys are assisting with the finishing of the home's interior and are learning to paint, sand and spackle.

Sharing the family home are two Australian sheepdogs and four cats.

Judith always knew that she wanted to be an architect. A native of Salem, Ore., she grew up on her family's farm. There, if a building was needed, the whole family assisted with the construction. When she was a student at the University of Oregon, she worked part-time for construction firms. She was granted the bachelor degree of architecture at the University of Oregon in 1960. She is licensed to practice in Oregon and California.

Her experience has included work with schools, churches and commercial enterprises. She has been a planning consultant for a day care center, schools and churches.

Mrs. Crutcher's awards include a commendation from the Oregon Council of Architects, a commendation from the Portland Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and display of her designs in the Focus Under Forty Invitational Show at the Portland Museum of Art.

HEAVY EQUIPMENT is familiar to Mrs. Crutcher, who has been job captain on a large gymnasium, swimming pool complex, and has worked on large projects for schools, churches and commercial enterprises.

Bermuda Governor's Assassination Probed

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) — Police working with Scotland Yard detectives detained several persons for questioning today in the murder of Gov. Sir Richard Sharples and his aide Saturday night. Police sources said they were convinced two gunmen were involved in the assassination.

Sharples, 57, and Capt. Hugh Sayers, 25, were shot in the gardens of Government House, the governor's official mansion, as they walked Sharples' Great Dane Horsa after a dinner party Saturday night. The dog also was killed.

The murders came six months and a day after Bermuda Police Commissioner George Duckett was shot to death in his home and his daughter wounded. Duckett's killers have not been found, but police said they believed there was a definite link between his murder and the assassination of Sharples.

Two Scotland Yard detectives, who left Bermuda only two weeks ago after investigating without success Duckett's murder, returned Sunday and a six-man team of detectives and forensic science experts from Scotland Yard were en route today to supplement Bermuda's 359-member police force.

A spokesman for the Bermuda government, Colin Selley, said police had not disclosed how many persons were being detained under special powers granted under the State of Emergency declared Sunday morning, but Selley said the number could be counted "on two hands."

He said police began their investigation by questioning the more militant elements among Bermuda's black population, but police so far have declined to say the assassination was racially or poitically motivated.

One official said Sunday, however, that the shootings were "not the work of a nut."

Rites Scheduled Tomorrow For 'Bull' Connor

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Funeral services will be held here Tuesday for T. Eugene "Bull" Connor, the former police commissioner who ordered dogs and fire hoses used on civil rights demonstrators in 1963.

Connor, 75, died Saturday at a nursing home. The victim of a crippling stroke in 1966, he suffered another stroke Feb. 26 and remained under medical care until his death.

A former aide, city councilman Russell Yarbrough, said Connor died of pneumonia which developed while Connor was in a coma.

Seven Dead In Texas Twisters

HUBBARD, Tex. (UPI) — The worst of 10 tornadoes that struck central Texas last weekend killed six persons in Hubbard and left a third of the town in piles of bricks and splinters. The total death toll for the state rose to seven.

Harold Sims, 72, who was asleep with his wife in their mobile home in the Grape Creek Community six miles north of San Angelo in west Texas when the twister struck, died Sunday.

Mrs. Sims today was in serious condition and five other persons were in satisfactory condition at San Angelo hospitals from that tornado, the first one to strike the state.

From 1:40 a.m. to 6 a.m., a total of 10 tornadoes hit from the southern Texas Hill Country 500 miles north to the Oklahoma border.

Hubbard was hit the hardest, with the six deaths and at least 100 injuries. The most physical damage to a city occurred at Burnet, 150 miles south of Hubbard, where at least 200 homes were destroyed and 30 persons were injured. There were no fatalities at Burnet.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Husband Prefers Foul Family To Respectable Life Of Wife

DEAR HELEN:

I thought those old saws about "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear," and "A leopard never changes his spots" were sometimes wrong. Now I'm not so sure. Is there any hope for this situation?

I come from a fine family. I enjoy dressing well, acting pleasant and being fairly aggressive in my job and in life.

My husband comes from a large family with problems! One brother is an alcoholic, one brother has been married three times, both sisters have illegitimate black babies (they're white); one brother is on drugs, one beats the woman he sleeps with (she is 51, he is 22 and she has a husband and five children). These people all live together in what has got to be the dirtiest house ever. No one takes a bath, no one has any ambition. Most have no jobs. Nothing in the house is in working condition.

They always threw dirty digs about my "rich daddy" etc., so I didn't go there often before we were married. Besides, I hated what they'd done to my guy. He was introverted and insecure, but he began to change as he pulled away from them, with me. Recalling the beatings and misery he's had as a child, he told me he wasn't like them. I believed him and helped him. He finally got a good job, cleaned himself up, was beginning to be friendly to people.

When we got married (a year ago), it all fell apart. He turned sloppy and morose overnight almost. Then he told me to get out — I was "pushing" him.

We've been separated six months and he has gone back to his family. Said he couldn't give them up. He's right where he was before we met!

Helen, I still love him, but is he so weak that he'll never really change? How could he prefer filth and slovenliness to our clean home, respectability, industry — and all the good things we had together? — L.S.S.

DEAR L:

Some people are like "memory" plastic: no matter how you mold, maul and re-shape, it assumes its original shape when left to set.

Your husband tried a new life. Evidently the responsibilities and pressures were too much for him. Haven't you wasted enough time on what may be a hopeless project? And honest now, wasn't it more pity than love? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am a 25-year-old man who loves his wife and two children, though we are separated.

She wouldn't leave her mother and move into an apartment of our own. She insisted that I be like her father, who jumps when the women whisper.

I wouldn't budge and when she couldn't order me around, she'd go wild. I came home one day to find all my clothes sitting outside the door. So I struck her during a heated argument, for which I'm sorry.

She now says she doesn't love me or any man, and stop bothering her. How can I get her and my children back? — FUTURE SUICIDE CASE

DEAR F:

So stop bothering her! Your wife may change her tune when she realizes you've stopped dancing to it. When — and if — she comes to you, make sure she'll leave Mama behind. If — and when — she doesn't show, well, perhaps you are so much alike you'd never have made it together — H.

Major Bleeding Needs Fast Action

(First of a series of three weekly articles on what to do in emergencies with young children.)

"We're talking about major bleeding," said Bruce Dreier, Marin Red Cross safety programs chairman, "not just a small cut you can wash off with soap and water, and bandage. When it is something major, like going through a glass door — don't wait. You must stop the bleeding right away — with pressure over the wound, if possible."

If you have a clean cloth pad, Dreier advises, press it onto the cut. You could also use part of your clothes, a handkerchief, or a shirt, as a pad, or use your bare hand. Hold on tight!

If the cut is on an arm or leg, elevate the limb 6 to 12 inches. Keep pressing until the bleeding stops. If the bleeding continues, do not remove the pad, but add more cloth on top.

If the wound on a hand or arm still doesn't stop bleeding, locate the pressure point. This is on the inside of the arm between the elbow and the arm pit. Reach in from the back of the arm and squeeze the blood vessel against the bone with flat fingers. Don't use finger tips.

IF THE cut is on the leg, locate the pressure point in the middle of the crease where the front of the leg joins the body. Press in hard on the groin with the heel of your hand. If the cut is not on an arm or leg, pressure points do not help stop the bleeding.

Do not try to use a tourniquet unless you have been taught when and how to use one. A tourniquet can do more damage than good if used when it is not needed or is tied in the wrong way.

Once you have the bleeding under control, treat the child for shock. If the wound is not on the stomach or chest, have him lie down on his back and raise his feet about 12 inches from the floor. If this causes any breathing difficulty, put the feet down and raise the shoulders. Maintain his body temperature by covering him with a blanket, coat or sweater. If he is conscious, you may give sips of water — then call the doctor.

Each year 225,000 persons in the United States are injured or killed by going through glass doors, or tub or shower enclosures. Countless more are hurt in automobiles and other accidents.

According to Dreier, an ounce of prevention is the best cure for such accidents. If possible, have tempered or laminated glass doors installed in your home. Call attention to the existence of a sliding glass door by placing decorative decals on the surface.

SMALL CHILDREN should be seated when riding in an automobile, preferably in the back seat, with seat belts securely fastened.

Check the toys your children play with for sharp edges, breakability, loose buttons and knobs. Make sure that their play area is free of broken glass, open cans or wood with nails in it, and discourage bare feet.

Children under five years of age are very accident prone. Even with the best supervision they get around fast and are fearless, he said.

"Accidents cannot be predicted", Dreier concluded. "I would recommend that the mother of every pre-school child enroll in a Red Cross first aid course and be prepared for emergencies".

BLEEDING — 2 year old Allison Adams, daughter of Marin Red Cross volunteer Eileen Adams, demonstrates one of the most serious accidents that happen to pre-school children to cause major bleeding — the plate glass door or window accident.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Husband Prefers Foul Family To Respectable Life Of Wife

DEAR HELEN:

I thought those old saws about "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear," and "A leopard never changes his spots" were sometimes wrong. Now I'm not so sure. Is there any hope for this situation?

I come from a fine family. I enjoy dressing well, acting pleasant and being fairly aggressive in my job and in life.

My husband comes from a large family with problems! One brother is an alcoholic, one brother has been married three times, both sisters have illegitimate black babies (they're white); one brother is on drugs, one beats the woman he sleeps with (she is 51, he is 22 and she has a husband and five children). These people all live together in what has got to be the dirtiest house ever. No one takes a bath, no one has any ambition. Most have no jobs. Nothing in the house is in working condition.

They always threw dirty digs about my "rich daddy" etc., so I didn't go there often before we were married. Besides, I hated what they'd done to my guy. He was introverted and insecure, but he began to change as he pulled away from them, with me. Recalling the beatings and misery he's had as a child, he told me he wasn't like them. I believed him and helped him. He finally got a good job, cleaned himself up, was beginning to be friendly to people.

When we got married (a year ago), it all fell apart. He turned sloppy and morose overnight almost. Then he told me to get out — I was "pushing" him.

We've been separated six months and he has gone back to his family. Said he couldn't give them up. He's right where he was before we met!

Helen, I still love him, but is he so weak that he'll never really change? How could he prefer filth and slovenliness to our clean home, respectability, industry — and all the good things we had together? — L.S.S.

Hearing Slated In Larkspur On Fill Permit

The Larkspur Planning Commission at its meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the town hall will hold a public hearing on an application by Alice Vincilione for a fill permit.

Town staff said Mrs. Vincilione wants to import 6,000 cubic yards of fill to place on the flatlands on Magnolia Avenue.

Public hearings also will be held on an application by Richard Greenwald to sell fresh fruits and vegetables in a C-2 district at 1115 Magnolia Avenue, and the landscaping and hard surface plans for the Larwin apartments on Bon Air Hill will come up for architectural supervision.

I LOST 600 POUNDS

THE SAME 10 POUNDS 60 TIMES.
DIETS? I'VE TRIED THEM ALL.

1. I lost weight so slowly, I got discouraged & quit.
2. I had weird cravings. I would have killed for a hot Fudge Sundae!
3. One slip and my will power disappeared. The result? An eating orgy until I gained back everything I lost.
4. Ten days on a diet, and I became too cranky and irritable to live with.
5. I became depressed, and after each failure, hated myself a little bit more.
6. I found I couldn't tolerate hunger, it was no fun to starve.

DOES THIS SOUND LIKE YOU?

Well I have solved all these problems. After 4 years of research, I developed a natural method of losing weight, and lost 55 lbs. in 2½ months. NO hunger! NO depression! NO cravings! ½ lb. to 1½ lbs. a day. I've shared this method with hundreds. I'll share it with you. If you're interested call us or write and we'll send you a tape cassette that tells the whole story. If you don't have a tape player or can't borrow one call for an appointment and come in and listen to it.

Inmate Stabbed Three Times

A 37-year-old San Quentin inmate was stabbed three times in the back at 1:55 p.m. yesterday in the lower recreation yard at the prison.

Jesse Ruiz was reported in serious condition today in the prison hospital, according to L. F. Shepherd, officer of the day.

Ruiz had been in San Quentin since March 20, 1959 serving two concurrent terms for unnatural sex acts and sex perversion by force, according to Shepherd.

Prison guards recovered a prison-made knife used in the stabbing.

Two men were to be questioned, Shepherd said.

Mont Marin Owners Elect Officers

Elected Thursday were: Bruce Leeb, president; Charles Miller, vice president; Martin Vermeulen, treasurer and Mary Louise Matzen, secretary.

All Tickets Honored For Circus

After a somewhat stormy beginning, the firemen's circus at the Marin Veterans Memorial Auditorium ended happily with about 15,000 persons getting to see the show, a firemen's spokesman said today.

Michael Vonada, president of the new Association of Marin County Firemen, reported that three extra performances Friday and Saturday took care of all the ticket-holders.

Would-be spectators at the Thursday performances complained that the circus staff, which sold the tickets by telephone solicitation, had "grossly oversold" the auditorium capacity of 2,003 seats.

Vonada said he had not yet received a report on total receipts for the fund-raising circus.

A final report on the receipts will be made to the firemen's association at its meeting March 19, and the group will select a charity to receive part of the proceeds, Vonada said today.

Impact Hearing Slated Again

The Corte Madera Planning Commission will resume its public hearing on the environmental impact report for the Hidden Valley residential development on the Northridge at its meeting tonight at 7:30 in the town hall.

The hearing opened Feb. 13 and continued on Feb. 14, but commissioners asked for more information from the developers Roemer and Estes after neighbors objected to further building in the area.

Commissioners also will continue discussion on the suitability of property at 5604 Paradise Drive for a public park, acting on a request for recommendations from the town council.

Recital Slated At College Of Marin

Violinist Charles Meacham and pianist Robaline Meacham will perform "music for violin and keyboard" at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the College Of Marin's Fine Arts Building.

Proceeds will go to the college music department's scholarship fund.

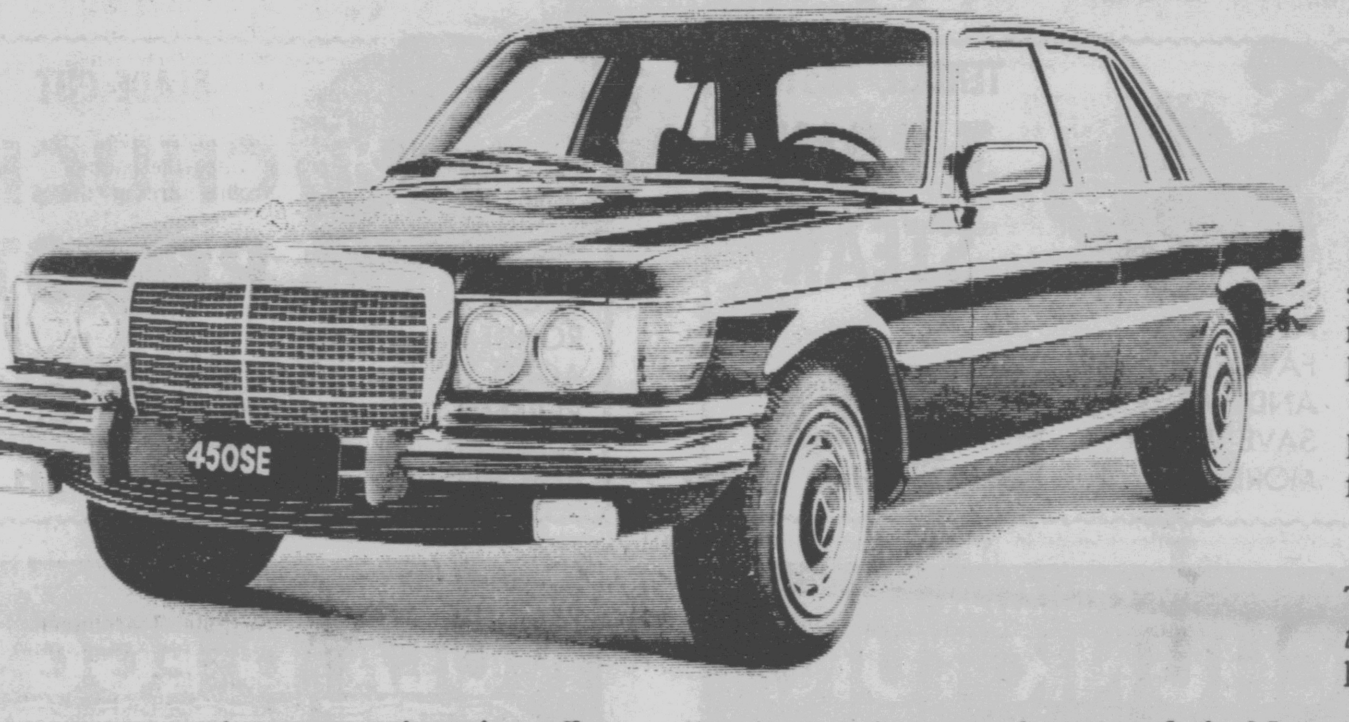
Introducing a $13,500 sedan that promises the most remarkable driving experience of your life: the new Mercedes-Benz 450SE



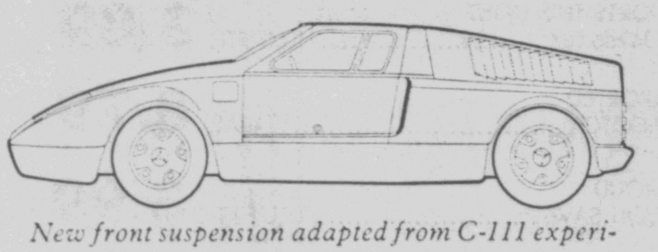
YEARS OF intense engineering effort were invested in the new Mercedes-Benz 450SE. Technical advances everywhere combine to produce handling response, security and stability that may well surpass any Mercedes-Benz sedan yet built, according to the engineers.

New front suspension

This car's sense of control is uncanny. The 450SE goes where you aim it—so precisely, that even veteran Mercedes-Benz drivers may find themselves astonished.

The reason: a zero steering offset front suspension system, adapted from the 180-mph C-111 experimental coupe.

Rear suspension design is the same fully independent system you will find on the 450SL. And radial-ply tires are standard equipment.



New front suspension adapted from C-111 experimental sports car.

The 450SE's designers wanted to keep the car as unruffled as possible—even in sudden, violent maneuvers.

2.7 turns lock-to-lock

An already superb power steering system was reworked for an even surer road feel. Consider that the 1973 Lincoln steers from full-left to full-right in 3.9 turns—the 450SE does it in 2.7 turns.

Under the hood is a 4.5 litre electronically fuel-injected V-8. And specifically designed to mate with this engine is a 3-speed automatic gearbox with a floor-mounted shift lever.

Front discs blasted with air

In the new Mercedes-Benz 450SE a ring of air scoops is built into the inside of each wheel. Purpose: to bathe all four disc brakes in a steady gust of air. No domestic luxury sedan even employs 4-wheel disc brakes. Mercedes-Benz has used this system in its sedans for nearly a decade. Of course, the 450SE carries on in this tradition.

Shaped in the wind tunnel

Its designers gave the 450SE a shape that owes much to aerodynamics.

Massive windshield wipers are meant to harness the car's airflow to stay flat on the glass, even at maximum speeds. Vanes on the forward pillars and catch gutters on the rear window are placed there to scoop rain over the roof and away from the side and rear windows. Ribbed taillight lenses were designed to use the car's own air turbulence as a constant "scrubber" in rain and slush—staying visible to following traffic.

Almost absurdly maneuverable

This spacious 5-passenger sedan whisks through a turning circle smaller than a Corvette sports car—only 37.9 feet.

The 450SE measures 3 feet shorter overall than any 1973 Lincoln, Cadillac or Imperial. It isn't quite as wide, either. And in most vital respects, it gives you equal interior room and a larger trunk.

Front doors that breathe

The 450SE's built-in air-conditioning system is designed to prevent jarring blasts of frigid air; instead, controls are infinitely adjustable for temperature. Cooling or warming air is channelled not just through separate instrument panel vents but also via hidden outlets in both front doors.

A vacuum-operated central locking system is also built into your 450SE. One twist of the key in the outside driver's door lock silently secures all 4 doors, the trunk lid and the gas port.

Besides that air-conditioning system, standard equipment includes power steering and brakes; automatic transmission; electric windows; AM/FM stereo receiver; tinted glass; twin front fog lights and front- and rear-seat armrests.

The brief option list includes: leather upholstery; electric sun roof and fitted luggage.

The final significance

The 450SE incorporates more safety thinking than any Mercedes-Benz in history.

Mercedes-Benz motor cars: from $16,594* to $6,761*

Mercedes-Benz offers a vast range of models. Here are suggested retail prices for 8 of the most popular types:

450SLC Coupe	$16,594
450SL Coupe/Roadster	$12,846
450SEL Sedan	$14,698
450SE Sedan	$13,491
280 Coupe	$10,094
280 Sedan	$ 9,416
220 Sedan	$ 6,999
220 Diesel Sedan	$ 6,761

*West Coast port of entry, exclusive of transportation, other options, state and local taxes, if any. Copyright 1973, Mercedes-Benz of North America, Inc.

Some of it you can see, like massive locks fitted at every door; sturdy windshield and door pillars; wraparound front and rear bumpers; lavishly padded interior. Some safety thinking is invisible, like the fuel tank mounted inboard over the rear axle as far from harm's way as the engineers could devise—then encased in steel bulkheads.

Invitation to a remarkable experience

A new Mercedes-Benz inevitably stirs wide interest. So call your authorized dealer soon and arrange a test drive.

A color brochure on the new 450SE and other models will be mailed to you upon sending the coupon below.

Please send me your full-color brochure of the Mercedes-Benz motor cars.

MONEY MATTERS

Clothing Care Labels Handy

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Look for the care label when you buy a garment. Care labels "can save you money and trouble," says the Federal Trade Commission.

This is the objective, to be sure. And it is without doubt an extremely promising consumer-protection program. But you can't stitch care labels into 27 billion garments overnight.

The program went into effect last July and manufacturers are still stitching.

Home sewers also are supposed to sew care labels into the garments they make for themselves and their families. But there are different reports on compliance with this measure. Care labels are dispensed free of charge at fabric counters, but, according to one report, many home sewers don't want the label.

"IN OUR STORE, hundreds of care labels are swept up every night," said one clerk. "All the home eamstress wants to know is whether the fabric is machine washable. If it isn't, she buys a fabric that is, and she doesn't feel she needs a care label reminder."

Other stores report that most fabric buyers take the care label with them, but there is no way of knowing how many stitch the label into the clothes they make.

The purpose of a care label is to advise the customer how a garment should be cleaned — whether it should be dry-cleaned, hand washed, or machine washed; the water temperature and cycle; how to bleach, dry, and iron that particular fabric.

Unfortunately, the program got off to an inauspicious start through a label which read: "Dry-clean only: do not use petroleum solvents or the coin-operated method of dry-cleaning."

All dry cleaning is done with petroleum solvents. Asked one confused consumer: "What am I supposed to do? Wear the dress once and throw it away?" This incorrect label has been withdrawn, but if you come across one, take the garment to your dry cleaner. If it is dry-cleanable (and he can tell you), it is cleanable in any of the petroleum solvents.

Also, don't assume that your care label assures spot removal. A care label relates to the regular care of a garment. If that kind of care removes the spot, fine. But don't count on it. Consult a dry cleaner about the spot. He may be able to remove it by special handling.

Don't remove the care label from your garment. A dry cleaner cannot be held responsible in that case. The label is for his information as much as for yours. If it is missing, he will make a note of this fact on the invoice.

The International Fabrcare Institute claimed that almost anything that can be washed can be dry-cleaned. So consumers now are advised that washable can be dry-cleaned unless the label advises to the contrary.

ANOTHER FTC revision was made when the coin-operated dry-cleaning establishments protested a label reading: "Professional dry-clean only." The label was amended to read "Dry-clean only." So you can still do it yourself.

In some cases the label may be tucked away in the seam of a pocket. If so, there should be a small card more conspicuously placed which will tell you where the hidden label may be found.

On some ensembles, there may be two labels; this occurs when the outfit includes several pieces, one of which is made of a different material. Be sure to check both labels.

Leather, suede, and fur products are among those not covered by labeling rule.

The dry-cleaning industry as a whole is not entirely happy about the labeling program as it now stands. It feels there has been insufficient fabric testing at this point on which to base the care labels. The industry points out that many fabrics, new ones in particular, have not been tested for performance —for color fastness on exposure to light, for stretching, or for shrinkage.

This kind of testing is under way but has not been completed. In the meantime there is a question as to who is responsible if a garment which has been dry-cleaned according to care label directions turns out badly.

The FTC, which has charge of the program, suggests that you obtain the name of the garment maker, in such a case, and write to him about the problem.

The FTC also welcomes any suggestions you may have for the improvement of the program. The commission's address: Washington, D. C. 20580.

A program of this magnitude, involving interlocking but separate industries, not to mention millions of consumers, may well encounter some turbulence along the way. It has been estimated that it may be five years before care labeling settles down to a reasonably trouble-free process.

David is the son of Fermin Gonzales of Roy, N.M., and Mrs. Dorene Gonzales of Redwood City. Robert Lee Gonzales of Las Cruces, N.M., is his brother.

The couple have planned their wedding Aug. 18 at Mission San Rafael Arcangel, San Rafael.

Polyester Still Success Story

The textile market has been deluged with synthetic fibers during the last 20 years, but polyester is the major success story.

Polyester is found in countless blends and numerous forms. Wovens and knits proliferate now, and the near future is expected to see such breakthroughs as flocked fabrics and nonwovens of polyester fibers. They are strong, resilient and resistant to wrinkles and abrasion.

Squares To Play A Big Spring Role

Squares, lines, dots and bisecting plaids add up to an exciting fashion equation for spring . . . and the fabric is the common denominator.

This season, designers have not only returned to their school books, but they are using geometrics and graphics in interesting, co-ordinated and eminently wearable combinations.

Navy and white, always a spring favorite, returns in dresses, reflecting the more feminine look in fashion.

But, this year it's navy and white "with a difference." Stripes, polka dots, checks, diamonds or abstract patterns frequently merge in a single ensemble, according to fashion experts.

Stripes may appear at the sleeves, polka dots at the collar and sash with the bodice diamond-printed. Or, the whole equation can be rearranged with the fashion answer remaining correct.

MONEY MATTERS

Clothing Care Labels Handy

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Look for the care label when you buy a garment. Care labels "can save you money and trouble," says the Federal Trade Commission.

This is the objective, to be sure. And it is without doubt an extremely promising consumer-protection program. But you can't stitch care labels into 27 billion garments overnight.

The program went into effect last July and manufacturers are still stitching.

Home sewers also are supposed to sew care labels into the garments they make for themselves and their families. But there are different reports on compliance with this measure. Care labels are dispensed free of charge at fabric counters, but, according to one report, many home sewers don't want the label.

"IN OUR STORE, hundreds of care labels are swept up every night," said one clerk. "All the home eamstress wants to know is whether the fabric is machine washable. If it isn't, she buys a fabric that is, and she doesn't feel she needs a care label reminder."

Other stores report that most fabric buyers take the care label with them, but there is no way of knowing how many stitch the label into the clothes they make.

The purpose of a care label is to advise the customer how a garment should be cleaned — whether it should be dry-cleaned, hand washed, or machine washed; the water temperature and cycle; how to bleach, dry, and iron that particular fabric.

Unfortunately, the program got off to an inauspicious start through a label which read: "Dry-clean only: do not use petroleum solvents or the coin-operated method of dry-cleaning."

All dry cleaning is done with petroleum solvents. Asked one confused consumer: "What am I supposed to do? Wear the dress once and throw it away?" This incorrect label has been withdrawn, but if you come across one, take the garment to your dry cleaner. If it is dry-cleanable (and he can tell you), it is cleanable in any of the petroleum solvents.

Also, don't assume that your care label assures spot removal. A care label relates to the regular care of a garment. If that kind of care removes the spot, fine. But don't count on it. Consult a dry cleaner about the spot. He may be able to remove it by special handling.

Don't remove the care label from your garment. A dry cleaner cannot be held responsible in that case. The label is for his information as much as for yours. If it is missing, he will make a note of this fact on the invoice.

The International Fabrcare Institute claimed that almost anything that can be washed can be dry-cleaned. So consumers now are advised that washable can be dry-cleaned unless the label advises to the contrary.

ANOTHER FTC revision was made when the coin-operated dry-cleaning establishments protested a label reading: "Professional dry-clean only." The label was amended to read "Dry-clean only." So you can still do it yourself.

In some cases the label may be tucked away in the seam of a pocket. If so, there should be a small card more conspicuously placed which will tell you where the hidden label may be found.

On some ensembles, there may be two labels; this occurs when the outfit includes several pieces, one of which is made of a different material. Be sure to check both labels.

Leather, suede, and fur products are among those not covered by labeling rule.

The dry-cleaning industry as a whole is not entirely happy about the labeling program as it now stands. It feels there has been insufficient fabric testing at this point on which to base the care labels. The industry points out that many fabrics, new ones in particular, have not been tested for performance —for color fastness on exposure to light, for stretching, or for shrinkage.

This kind of testing is under way but has not been completed. In the meantime there is a question as to who is responsible if a garment which has been dry-cleaned according to care label directions turns out badly.

The FTC, which has charge of the program, suggests that you obtain the name of the garment maker, in such a case, and write to him about the problem.

The FTC also welcomes any suggestions you may have for the improvement of the program. The commission's address: Washington, D. C. 20580.

A program of this magnitude, involving interlocking but separate industries, not to mention millions of consumers, may well encounter some turbulence along the way. It has been estimated that it may be five years before care labeling settles down to a reasonably trouble-free process.

Polyester Still Success Story

The textile market has been deluged with synthetic fibers during the last 20 years, but polyester is the major success story.

Polyester is found in countless blends and numerous forms. Wovens and knits proliferate now, and the near future is expected to see such breakthroughs as flocked fabrics and nonwovens of polyester fibers. They are strong, resilient and resistant to wrinkles and abrasion.

Squares To Play A Big Spring Role

Squares, lines, dots and bisecting plaids add up to an exciting fashion equation for spring . . . and the fabric is the common denominator.

This season, designers have not only returned to their school books, but they are using geometrics and graphics in interesting, co-ordinated and eminently wearable combinations.

Navy and white, always a spring favorite, returns in dresses, reflecting the more feminine look in fashion.

But, this year it's navy and white "with a difference." Stripes, polka dots, checks, diamonds or abstract patterns frequently merge in a single ensemble, according to fashion experts.

Stripes may appear at the sleeves, polka dots at the collar and sash with the bodice diamond-printed. Or, the whole equation can be rearranged with the fashion answer remaining correct.

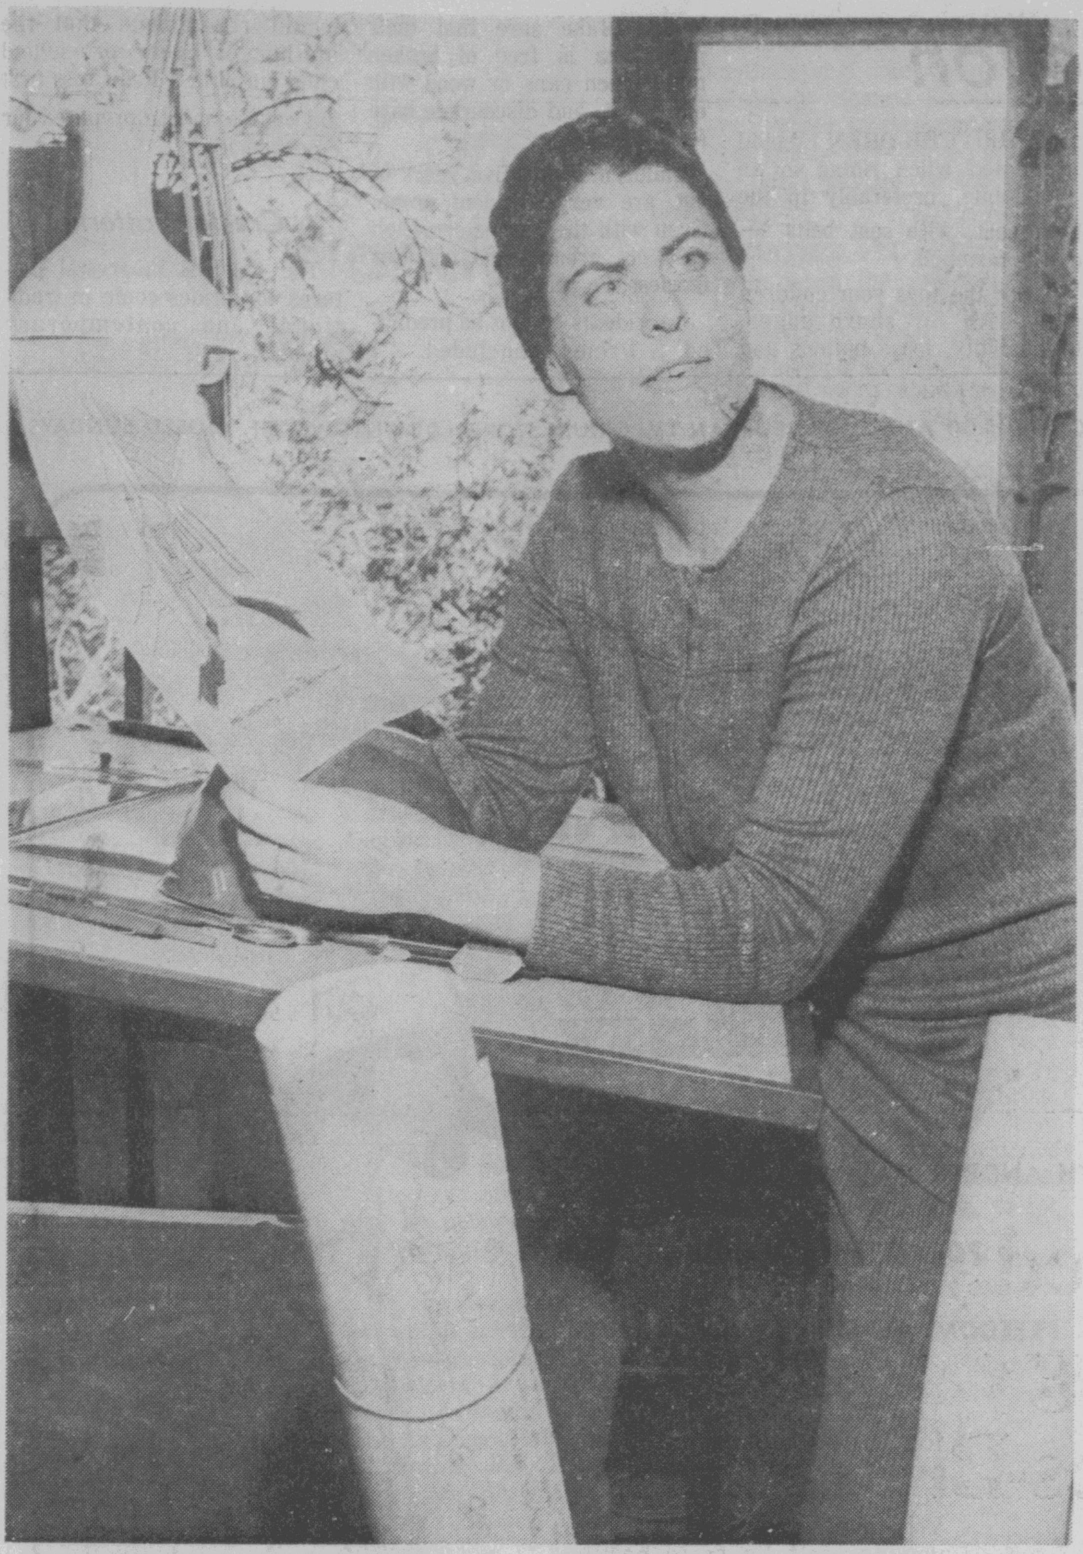
TIME PRECIOUS

Architect Emphasizes Her 'Wins'



ARCHITECT JUDITH Crutcher develops plans for remodeling a home at the drawing board in the studio of her Mill Valley home. She has been a practicing architect for 12 years.

(Independent-Journal photo by Bob Hax)

By BETTY FROST

"Because my time is precious and limited, I focus my interest on design and construction," said architect Judith Crutcher of Mill Valley.

"I want to get the right answers to solve the problem," the architect said. "I concentrate on my wins. In the rare instances where I have met prejudice because of sex, I never take it personally."

Among her "wins" was acting as job captain for a million-dollar gymnasium and swimming pool complex in Oregon. She was out in the field in all kinds of weather, overseeing heavy construction and had an excellent working relationship with the contractor.

Her husband, Lewis, also is an architect. He is chief planner for the three-county East Bay Regional Park District and an authority on urban planning, which he taught at the University of Oregon and Reed College in Portland, Ore.

Mr. and Mrs. Crutcher and their two sons, Marshall, 10, and Christopher, 9, moved to Mill Valley four years ago.

SHE IS very much interested in good planning for the community and ran unsuccessfully for a vacancy on the Mill Valley Planning Commission in December. Whether in or out of public office, "I will always be interested in the city. I will be outspoken in campaigns for zoning and transit problems. You can't care about a place and never get outside your own front door," Mrs. Crutcher said.

She is concerned about what she calls the "frontier funk" style of central Mill Valley. This the architect calls "a fly-by-night style. It is like interior decorating brought outdoors for commercial purposes. It is a phony, hip style, not sound architecturally." She objects to "glued on bits and parts" used indiscriminately.

In contrast to "frontier funk" she greatly favors honest restoration. With her partner, Saul Wolf, she is involved in restoration of what she calls "fine old Victorian homes."

"I think the current economic climate in inflation will mean the Renaissance of remodeling," she remarked. However, she cautions, there is no point in keeping an old building as it is. The completed building should not be a mere museum, which will not carry its weight economically. The finished building should be useful and self-sustaining.

She cited a Victorian building which she and her associate are remodeling in the Western Addition of San Francisco, which will have offices on the lower floor and apartments on the upper levels. The building contains 10,000 square feet of space. It could be purchased for three dollars a square foot. Since $26 per square foot is the current rate for the light commercial market, it is feasible to do the improvements of heating, wiring and plumbing that old buildings usually need, and to revise the interior.

"IT IS good business to fix up such old buildings, because in today's market, you can't afford to duplicate the material used in the original, and it can be turned into elegant office space and apartments," Mrs. Crutcher said.

Within the partnership, Judith concentrates on the design and planning aspects of the job, and Wolfe deals with civic bodies, and is an expert on codes and costs.

Mrs. Crutcher said there are many women architects in the bay area, but that she is one of the few to own her own firm. Before her association with Wolf in 1971, the Crutchers had practiced architecture in Portland, Ore., as a husband and wife team for eight years.

The architect devotes some time to offering enrichment courses to students at the Old Mill School. She recently finished a course for fourth, fifth and sixth graders on village design, called "Where should Baske and Robbins Be?" The children investigated the core of Mill Valley, studying land values, the use and types of buildings. One of the things the children decided, according to their instructor, was to put the controversial bus depot back into a useful role, perhaps as a restuarant, although one creative youngster saw it as a center for a European-style market place, where home grown vegetables and home-crafted items would be offered for sale. On a walking tour of the down town area, the youngsters found the forgotten places, in the back of buildings where the garbage cans were kept, were often a delight, with exposed brick walls, and hidden creeks.

Mrs. Crutcher is currently offering a design class at the school.

IN HER own home, where remodeling is not completed, Mrs. Crutcher made drainboards extra high, because she and her husband are tall. There is also lots of storage space, which she calls "almost a status symbol." Unusual, too, is the spacious studio, fully equipped for the architect including a duplicating machine. The Crutcher boys are assisting with the finishing of the home's interior and are learning to paint, sand and spackle.

Sharing the family home are two Australian sheepdogs and four cats.

Judith always knew that she wanted to be an architect. A native of Salem, Ore., she grew up on her family's farm. There, if a building was needed, the whole family assisted with the construction. When she was a student at the University of Oregon, she worked part-time for construction firms. She was granted the bachelor degree of architecture at the University of Oregon in 1960. She is licensed to practice in Oregon and California.

Her experience has included work with schools, churches and commercial enterprises. She has been a planning consultant for a day care center, schools and churches.

Mrs. Crutcher's awards include a commendation from the Oregon Council of Architects, a commendation from the Portland Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and display of her designs in the Focus Under Forty Invitational Show at the Portland Museum of Art.

HEAVY EQUIPMENT is familiar to Mrs. Crutcher, who has been job captain on a large gymnasium, swimming pool complex, and has worked on large projects for schools, churches and commercial enterprises.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Deceptive Play Makes Impossible Four-Spade Contract A Reality

You cannot make four spades in today's hand if the opponents defend properly. You must lose two hearts, a diamond and a club.

Now look for a way of persuading the opponents to defend improperly. After all, your opponents are only human. Can you find some reasonable sort of mistake for one of them?

TIES OPPONENTS

When the hand was played some years ago in a tournament, Charles J. Solomon, famous Philadelphia expert, found a way to hornswoggle his opponents.

Solomon won the first trick with the ace of clubs, drew two rounds of trumps and led a low diamond toward dummy's jack.

West stepped up with the queen of diamonds and led some more clubs. Solomon ruffed the third round of clubs and led another low diamond toward dummy!

WEST'S REASONING

This strange play gave West something to think about. From West's point of view, the missing diamonds could be exchanged, so that South held 10-x-x-x and East held A-x-x. If this were the case, it would be a mistake for West to put up the king of diamonds, for the ace would be ruffed out next, and the ten would thus be established.

NEVER OCCURRED

It never occurred to West that declarer had the ace of diamonds. West was sure he could lose nothing by ducking on this second round of the suit.

This natural error allowed dummy to win with the jack of diamonds. Now South could discard a heart loss to one trick.

DAILY QUESTION

You have opened the bidding with one spade, and partner responds one no-trump. Since the opponents pass, it is up to you again.

You hold:
♠- K Q J 8 4
♥- A 9 8
♦- A 8 4
♣- A 7.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two no-trump.

Since you have 18 points in high cards and a good suit, you expect partner to have a reasonable play for game if he has more than the bare minimum of 6 or 7 points for his response. Your raise invites partner to go on to game if he has 8 points or more.

Pictures Shown Of Wounded Knee

NEW YORK (UPI) — An exhibit of 25 photographs, 15 taken in 1890 and 10 during the current occupation of Wounded Knee, S.D., opened Sunday at the Museum of the American Indian in Manhattan.

The pictures from 1890 deal with the massacre of 300 men, women and children of the Hunkpappa Sioux at Wounded Knee by U.S. troopers. They were buried in a common trench at Wounded Knee Creek 83 years ago.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

Famous firsts! Did today's birthday celebrities really do this? Answer: True or False.

1. LIZA MINELLI, 27 today, is a star in her own right in nightclubs, movies, and TV. For years people called her Judy Garland's daughter but after "Cabaret" she's in contention for an Academy Award. Is she the first and only child of Garland to go into show business? True? False?

2. WALTER SCHIRRA achieved stardom the hard way, riding those early day space birds. Now 50, this veteran astronaut sits by Walter Cronkite like a retired ballplayer, offering expertise on the latest moon launch. Is it correct to list him among America's first seven space pioneers but one dropped from the Mercury program because of heart trouble?

3. RAY NEWBY, lively Stockton businessman, still chuckles over what he did to get radio started. He is 80 today, but in 1909 he was in San Jose, Calif., helping C. D. Herrold build the world's first radio station, which became KQW, now KCBS. Playing phonograph records and reading news from the San Jose "Mercury," he became broadcasting's first disc jockey. True? False?

4. ADOLPH S. OCHS spent the 77 years of his life (1858-1935) building the reputation of journalism. This son of German immigrants left school at age 11 to help support his family as a newspaper office boy,. By the time he was 38, he controlled the New York "Times" and several other dailies. Is it true he introduced the slogan, "All the News That's Fit to Print?"

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Husband Prefers Foul Family To Respectable Life Of Wife

DEAR HELEN:

I thought those old saws about "You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear," and "A leopard never changes his spots" were sometimes wrong. Now I'm not so sure. Is there any hope for this situation?

I come from a fine family. I enjoy dressing well, acting pleasant and being fairly aggressive in my job and in life.

My husband comes from a large family with problems! One brother is an alcoholic, one brother has been married three times, both sisters have illegitimate black babies (they're white); one brother is on drugs, one beats the woman he sleeps with (she is 51, he is 22 and she has a husband and five children). These people all live together in what has got to be the dirtiest house ever. No one takes a bath, no one has any ambition. Most have no jobs. Nothing in the house is in working condition.

They always threw dirty digs about my "rich daddy" etc., so I didn't go there often before we were married. Besides, I hated what they'd done to my guy. He was introverted and insecure, but he began to change as he pulled away from them, with me. Recalling the beatings and misery he's had as a child, he told me he wasn't like them. I believed him and helped him. He finally got a good job, cleaned himself up, was beginning to be friendly to people.

When we got married (a year ago), it all fell apart. He turned sloppy and morose overnight almost. Then he told me to get out — I was "pushing" him.

We've been separated six months and he has gone back to his family. Said he couldn't give them up. He's right where he was before we met!

Helen, I still love him, but is he so weak that he'll never really change? How could he prefer filth and slovenliness to our clean home, respectability, industry — and all the good things we had together? — L.S.S.

DEAR L:

Some people are like "memory" plastic: no matter how you mold, maul and re-shape, it assumes its original shape when left to set.

Your husband tried a new life. Evidently the responsibilities and pressures were too much for him. Haven't you wasted enough time on what may be a hopeless project? And honest now, wasn't it more pity than love? — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am a 25-year-old man who loves his wife and two children, though we are separated.

She wouldn't leave her mother and move into an apartment of our own. She insisted that I be like her father, who jumps when the women whisper.

I wouldn't budge and when she couldn't order me around, she'd go wild. I came home one day to find all my clothes sitting outside the door. So I struck her during a heated argument, for which I'm sorry.

She now says she doesn't love me or any man, and stop bothering her. How can I get her and my children back? — FUTURE SUICIDE CASE

DEAR F:

So stop bothering her! Your wife may change her tune when she realizes you've stopped dancing to it. When — and if — she comes to you, make sure she'll leave Mama behind. If — and when — she doesn't show, well, perhaps you are so much alike you'd never have made it together — H.

Got a problem? An adult subject for discussion. A fun idea? You can talk it over in her column if you write to Helen Bottel, care of the Independent-Journal.

Major Bleeding Needs Fast Action

(First of a series of three weekly articles on what to do in emergencies with young children.)

"We're talking about major bleeding," said Bruce Dreier, Marin Red Cross safety programs chairman, "not just a small cut you can wash off with soap and water, and bandage. When it is something major, like going through a glass door — don't wait. You must stop the bleeding right away — with pressure over the wound, if possible."

If you have a clean cloth pad, Dreier advises, press it onto the cut. You could also use part of your clothes, a handkerchief, or a shirt, as a pad, or use your bare hand. Hold on tight!

If the cut is on an arm or leg, elevate the limb 6 to 12 inches. Keep pressing until the bleeding stops. If the bleeding continues, do not remove the pad, but add more cloth on top.

If the wound on a hand or arm still doesn't stop bleeding, locate the pressure point. This is on the inside of the arm between the elbow and the arm pit. Reach in from the back of the arm and squeeze the blood vessel against the bone with flat fingers. Don't use finger tips.

IF THE cut is on the leg, locate the pressure point in the middle of the crease where the front of the leg joins the body. Press in hard on the groin with the heel of your hand. If the cut is not on an arm or leg, pressure points do not help stop the bleeding.

Do not try to use a tourniquet unless you have been taught when and how to use one. A tourniquet can do more damage than good if used when it is not needed or is tied in the wrong way.

Once you have the bleeding under control, treat the child for shock. If the wound is not on the stomach or chest, have him lie down on his back and raise his feet about 12 inches from the floor. If this causes any breathing difficulty, put the feet down and raise the shoulders. Maintain his body temperature by covering him with a blanket, coat or sweater. If he is conscious, you may give sips of water — then call the doctor.

Each year 225,000 persons in the United States are injured or killed by going through glass doors, or tub or shower enclosures. Countless more are hurt in automobiles and other accidents.

According to Dreier, an ounce of prevention is the best cure for such accidents. If possible, have tempered or laminated glass doors installed in your home. Call attention to the existence of a sliding glass door by placing decorative decals on the surface.

SMALL CHILDREN should be seated when riding in an automobile, preferably in the back seat, with seat belts securely fastened.

Check the toys your children play with for sharp edges, breakability, loose buttons and knobs. Make sure that their play area is free of broken glass, open cans or wood with nails in it, and discourage bare feet.

Children under five years of age are very accident prone. Even with the best supervision they get around fast and are fearless, he said.

"Accidents cannot be predicted", Dreier concluded. "I would recommend that the mother of every pre-school child enroll in a Red Cross first aid course and be prepared for emergencies".

BLEEDING — 2 year old Allison Adams, daughter of Marin Red Cross volunteer Eileen Adams, demonstrates one of the most serious accidents that happen to pre-school children to cause major bleeding — the plate glass door or window accident.

Exhibit 20 A Brief, Well-Mated Show

By ADA GARFINKEL

A well-mated, if brief, marriage of the arts occurred Saturday night at Congregation Rodef Sholom's Third Annual Exhibit 20.

Sponsored by the Art and Beautification Program Committee, this one-night, fun-and-art festival fully matched its previously lauded "museum-quality" standard.

Some of the artists have exhibited in the two previous annuals. For others it was their first. What characterized the show was the personal appearance of each artist, and the variety of medium, technique, perception and imagery.

What actually happened was that one became aware of 20 one-artist exhibits, since each artist was able to show his work in depth in the spacious Assembly hall. And, motivated by the reputation of the two previous annuals, each artist offered his or her newest and best work.

New to Exhibit 20 — and to the concept of art — was Espenet's sculptural furniture, and Robert Richard's functional and pop-art dual-purpose jugs, such as the satirical "Bun-and-Run" which can also serve as a lamp base.

Other first-timers include Dian Leach who showed paintings of colorful interiors and still-lifes with Victorian influences; Joe Leach with flowing abstract configurations in his paintings, and Houlgate Davenport, whose gem-like, deep-bite etchings pictured birds and tigers, butterflies and microscopic landscapes.

Dennis Beall's large figurative collographs and relief-etchings, (strikingly dramatic with their bold, simple colors and formal plasticity) were also seen for the first time in "Exhibit 20." And so were the candid photographs of Michael Bry.

Artists who have shown in previous shows at Rodef Sholom, showed new work. Alton Raible, for exmaple, presented ultra-tranquil winter landscape scenes, and June Lederman's seasonal and landscape variations were rendered in simple horizontal bars of color.

Moving from completely different points of view and presentation, one could contrast the on-location scenes of Spain by Othello Michetti with the highly abstract, glowing modular bars of Tony Williams.

Or Gayle Luchessa's basket-weave-and-tapestry standing sculptures with Gwen Stone's "Harlequin" series of acrylic paintings.

Phyllis Taplitz' woodcuts were as luminescent as ever, with several new variations on a theme, and Ralph O'Neill's handsome marble pieces were augmented by several new bronze and wood figures.

Other artists included in the exhibit were Glenn Cavalli, Carol Herschleb, Ada Garfinkel, Marty Stoelzel, and Arlene Whiting.

Proceeds from this affair are to be used to establish an acquisition program and a permanent collection of art for Congregation Rodef Sholom.

EXHIBIT 20 — "Virgin Spring," a dreamy, surrealistic painting by Marty Stoelzel, was one of the works included in Saturday night's third annual show at Congretation Rodef Sholom. Also included were sculpture, paintings, and other works of 20 invited Marin artists.

Morrison Puts It To A Packed House — An Audience Pleased

By PAUL LIBERATORE

There are artists and there are performers, and Van Morrison, Marin's most celebrated rocker, is an artist.

Before a soldout but subdued audience at Marin Veterans Memorial Building last night, Morrison mechanically cranked through his set, full of that earthy, growly, almost tortured sound that is his trademark.

Morrison's much-publicized disdain for live performance was evident from the start, when he did a nervous version of "St. Dominic's Preview," stalking off the stage after the first few lines.

"Uh, oh," everyone thought, another display of that Van Morrison petulance.

As it turned out, he was only asking the stage manager to dim the lights, but it's difficult to become involved in a song — even one as great as "St. Dominic's Preview," with its references to strife-torn Ireland, Morrison's birth place — when the singer leaves the stage after the first few bars.

But in the end it was the music that won out, soulful but precise, which included standards like "Bring Your Sweet Lovin' Home to Me," and classic "Come Runnin' to Me."

Morrison, who lives in Fairfax, also introduced a new song — apparently inspired by one of the bitterest winters in memory in Marin County, — "Snow in San Anselmo."

In it, a young man is sitting in one of those all-night pancake houses, and it begins to snow.

"It hasn't happened in 30 years, the waitress said, but there it was, layin' on the ground."

As were all the songs, it was performed tightly by Morrison's band, never missing a cue, delivering Morrison's halting, exploding style rock and roll.

The turning point song, during which everyone, even Morrison, appeared to relax, was "Bring Your Sweet Lovin' Home to Me," featuring Morrison and his female backup vocalist in a gutsy duet.

The song drew the strongest audience reaction, accented at the end when Morrison announced that his backup vocalist was none other than Jackie DeShnnon, hit record maker during the 60s.

Her bluesy voice fits well into Morrison's style, and seemed to loosen him up a bit in the song they sang together.

Morrison perfunctorily performed one encore, after marching through his set of songs, which he had listed on a card in his pocket and repeatedly referred to.

Seeing him perform makes one wonder if/Morrison wasn't in mind in the song by The Band, "Stage Fright," which goes: "See the man with the stage fright, standin' up there givin' all his might. He got caught in the spotlight, and when he gets to the end, he's got to start all over again."

Sharing the bill was Jesse Colin Young — another trnasplanted Marinite — who is beginning a solo career after splitting from the Youngbloods last year.

Young's set included songs from the Youngblood's days, including that anthem of the late 60s, "Time to Love One Another Right Now," rock standards such as "Heard it Through the Grapevine," and some new songs to be included in a forthcoming album.

He has a pleasant, controlled voice and a flowing, rolling style, lit by some spotlight-stealing piano playing by Scott Lawrence.

But Young's latest compositions were unmemorable, sounded unfinished, and included some endless jams that had no strong solo instrumentation to make them worthwhile.

One song, written about the free-feeling joys of riding motorcycles, would, indeed, have been an excellent song for one of those glossy, youth-oriented Yamaha television ads.

But while Young may not possess the talent of a Van Morrison, his set was enthusiastic, and musical enough to keep toes tapping and a packed house smiling.

Fairfax Council To Hear Plans For Recreation

The Fairfax Town Council will hear a report at its 8 p.m. meeting today on the Fairfax School District plans for developing recreational areas on land around Deer Park School.

According to Mayor Albert E. Gately, the council four years ago opposed a similar county proposal for that area on the grounds that it would generate too much traffic.

Police Chief Charles F. Thornton will also report to the council on the need for the Marin Municipal Water District to increase the size of water lines in parts of the city in order to upgrade the fire protection system.

Coffees Set For Mulryan

Four campaign coffees for Lawrence E. Mulryan, seeking his first full term on the San Rafael City Council on the April 17 election have been scheduled this week.

Mulryan will speak at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at the Susan Howard home, 159 Ridgewood Drive; 8 p.m. Thursday at the Milton Greenfield home, 41 San Mateo Court; 8 p.m. Friday at the Eric Eitreim home, 17 Bolanos Drive and 9:30 a.m. March 20 at the Joseph Turine home, 4 Dias Way.

Mulryan will appear at a candidates' night planned by the Peacock Gap Homeowners Association at 8 p.m. March 21 at the Peacock Gap Country Club.

Rock Groups Set At Sausalito Spot

Rock music by "The Jacks" and contemporary folk music by Doug Kennedy will be presented this week at the Latitude 38, 621 Bridgeway in Sausalito.

The Jacks will perform tomorrow and Wednesday, while Kennedy will sing Thursday through Sunday. All shows begin at 9:30 p.m.

One song, written about the free-feeling joys of riding motorcycles, would, indeed, have been an excellent song for one of those glossy, youth-oriented Yamaha television ads.

But while Young may not possess the talent of a Van Morrison, his set was enthusiastic, and musical enough to keep toes tapping and a packed house smiling.

Fairfax Council To Hear Plans For Recreation

The Fairfax Town Council will hear a report at its 8 p.m. meeting today on the Fairfax School District plans for developing recreational areas on land around Deer Park School.

According to Mayor Albert E. Gately, the council four years ago opposed a similar county proposal for that area on the grounds that it would generate too much traffic.

Police Chief Charles F. Thornton will also report to the council on the need for the Marin Municipal Water District to increase the size of water lines in parts of the city in order to upgrade the fire protection system.

Clothing Care Labels Handy

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Look for the care label when you buy a garment. Care labels "can save you money and trouble," says the Federal Trade Commission.

This is the objective, to be sure. And it is without doubt an extremely promising consumer-protection program. But you can't stitch care labels into 27 billion garments overnight.

The program went into effect last July and manufacturers are still stitching.

Home sewers also are supposed to sew care labels into the garments they make for themselves and their families. But there are different reports on compliance with this measure. Care labels are dispensed free of charge at fabric counters, but, according to one report, many home sewers don't want the label.

"IN OUR STORE, hundreds of care labels are swept up every night," said one clerk. "All the home eamstress wants to know is whether the fabric is machine washable. If it isn't, she buys a fabric that is, and she doesn't feel she needs a care label reminder."

Other stores report that most fabric buyers take the care label with them, but there is no way of knowing how many stitch the label into the clothes they make.

The purpose of a care label is to advise the customer how a garment should be cleaned — whether it should be dry-cleaned, hand washed, or machine washed; the water temperature and cycle; how to bleach, dry, and iron that particular fabric.

Unfortunately, the program got off to an inauspicious start through a label which read: "Dry-clean only: do not use petroleum solvents or the coin-operated method of dry-cleaning."

All dry cleaning is done with petroleum solvents. Asked one confused consumer: "What am I supposed to do? Wear the dress once and throw it away?" This incorrect label has been withdrawn, but if you come across one, take the garment to your dry cleaner. If it is dry-cleanable (and he can tell you), it is cleanable in any of the petroleum solvents.

Also, don't assume that your care label assures spot removal. A care label relates to the regular care of a garment. If that kind of care removes the spot, fine. But don't count on it. Consult a dry cleaner about the spot. He may be able to remove it by special handling.

Don't remove the care label from your garment. A dry cleaner cannot be held responsible in that case. The label is for his information as much as for yours. If it is missing, he will make a note of this fact on the invoice.

The International Fabrcare Institute claimed that almost anything that can be washed can be dry-cleaned. So consumers now are advised that washable can be dry-cleaned unless the label advises to the contrary.

ANOTHER FTC revision was made when the coin-operated dry-cleaning establishments protested a label reading: "Professional dry-clean only." The label was amended to read "Dry-clean only." So you can still do it yourself.

In some cases the label may be tucked away in the seam of a pocket. If so, there should be a small card more conspicuously placed which will tell you where the hidden label may be found.

On some ensembles, there may be two labels; this occurs when the outfit includes several pieces, one of which is made of a different material. Be sure to check both labels.

Leather, suede, and fur products are among those not covered by labeling rule.

The dry-cleaning industry as a whole is not entirely happy about the labeling program as it now stands. It feels there has been insufficient fabric testing at this point on which to base the care labels. The industry points out that many fabrics, new ones in particular, have not been tested for performance —for color fastness on exposure to light, for stretching, or for shrinkage.

This kind of testing is under way but has not been completed. In the meantime there is a question as to who is responsible if a garment which has been dry-cleaned according to care label directions turns out badly.

The FTC, which has charge of the program, suggests that you obtain the name of the garment maker, in such a case, and write to him about the problem.

The FTC also welcomes any suggestions you may have for the improvement of the program. The commission's address: Washington, D. C. 20580.

A program of this magnitude, involving interlocking but separate industries, not to mention millions of consumers, may well encounter some turbulence along the way. It has been estimated that it may be five years before care labeling settles down to a reasonably trouble-free process.

Polyester Still Success Story

The textile market has been deluged with synthetic fibers during the last 20 years, but polyester is the major success story.

Polyester is found in countless blends and numerous forms. Wovens and knits proliferate now, and the near future is expected to see such breakthroughs as flocked fabrics and nonwovens of polyester fibers. They are strong, resilient and resistant to wrinkles and abrasion.

Squares To Play A Big Spring Role

Squares, lines, dots and bisecting plaids add up to an exciting fashion equation for spring . . . and the fabric is the common denominator.

This season, designers have not only returned to their school books, but they are using geometrics and graphics in interesting, co-ordinated and eminently wearable combinations.

Navy and white, always a spring favorite, returns in dresses, reflecting the more feminine look in fashion.

But, this year it's navy and white "with a difference." Stripes, polka dots, checks, diamonds or abstract patterns frequently merge in a single ensemble, according to fashion experts.

Stripes may appear at the sleeves, polka dots at the collar and sash with the bodice diamond-printed. Or, the whole equation can be rearranged with the fashion answer remaining correct.

Young Man Arrested In Music Gear Theft

An 18-year-old musician was arrested Saturday on suspicion of grand theft in connection with the theft of music equipment from Terra Linda High School.

Kenneth Richard Garcia of Walnut Creek posted $1,000 bail to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court.

Garcia walked into San Rafael police station at 5:30 p.m. Saturday, carrying a pair of $250 cymbals officers said were stolen Thursday from the Terra Linda High School music room.

Also stolen were a drum stand, drum sticks and French horn case.

Police said Garcia told them he traded an unidentified student another pair of cymbals plus cash for the cymbals.

Witnesses at the school identified Garcia as being in the music room at about the time of the theft, police said. Garcia turned himself in after officers notified a San Rafael family the youth visited Thursday, informing them that they wanted to question him in connection with the theft.

Council To Eye Changes In Corte Madera's Plan

The Corte Madera Town Council will consider interim modifications to the town's general plan to pave the way for redevelopment at its meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall.

The council heard two hours of pro and con discussion on the changes at its meeting last week, during which town planning consultant Thomas Cooke suggested resiting Ernest W. Hahn's proposed regional shopping center to save wildlife habitat areas, moving the rapid transit route to the median of Highway 101, cutting out proposed housing, procuring some marshland as open space, and deleting the extension of San Clemente Drive.

Corte Madera's official public hearing on its redevelopment project to support the regional shopping center will be held Mar. 19 at San Clemente School at 7:30 p.m., but the modifications to the town's general plan are a key element in the redevelopment process, since any project must conform to the plan.

Novato Schools Budget Session Set

The Novato Unified School District board will have a budget study session at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Novato High School Lecture Hall.

Supt. James G. Bunker has estimated that the district's income for the 1973-74 school year will be $1,111,735 higher than the current year's income because of increased state aid.

Ridgeland Ban May Be Waived

The Tiburon City Council, meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at city hall, will consider waiving its moratorium on ridgeland development to permit housing to be built on two ridgeland parcels.

The McNaught family of Belvedere wants a use permit to build 160 condominiums on Vistazo West Street and Richard Ham wants to build single-family dwellings on five acres on Avenida Miraflores.

Use permits have been required on the property in question since last January when the council slapped a temporary moratorium on much of the city's remaining ridgeland open sapce.

Also on the agenda are two applications by Fred J. Zelinski, one for a master plan for an office building at 7-11 Main Street and the other for precise plan approval for the Bank of America building on Tiburon Boulevard.

Another item — a controversial rezoning of land owned by Neill Smith to allow him to build an environmental school there — will not be on the agenda as the council previously had announced.

City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer said Smith — whose rezoning was heard on first reading by the council Feb. 26 over the objections of some 20 neighbors — asked for a delay in order to discuss his plans with nearby residents. The matter now is slated for the April 9 council meeting, Balmer said.

Stop Signs On Novato Council List

The Novato City Council again will consider controversial stop signs along South Novato Boulevard at Sunset Parkway at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

Councilmen heard about 200 persons, opposing and supporting continuation of the signs, last week but took no action.

The signs were backed as protection for Lynwood School pupils crossing South Novato Boulevard and opposed by Cambridge Street residents who said cars were using Cambridge Street, parallel roadway, as a bypass around the stop signs.

The council also will consider prezoning of 66 acres on the north side of Olive Avenue, east of Rita Court. Woodlands Co. requested zoning which would permit 264 units, but the city planning commission recommended 73 units.

Items Stolen

A camera, binoculars, a citizen's band radio and two antennas, worth $360, were stolen from his car when it was parked outside his home Friday, reported Michael Edward Tachet of 2130 Redwood Highway, to Larkspur police.

President Rules Out Staffers' Testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon said Monday that no member or former member of his personal White House staff would be permitted to testify formally before committees of Congress.

In a written statement, the President outlined his policy for "executive privilege." He said it was the same as the policy followed by all Presidents dating back to George Washington.

"A member or former member of the President's personal staff normally shall follow the well established precedent and decline a request for a formal appearance before a committee of the Congress," Nixon said.

The policy apparently would rule out appearances by Nixon's former appointments secretary, Dwight Chapin, as well as his present legal counsel, John Dean, before Senate committees.

L. Patrick Gray, acting FBI director, submitted to the Senate Judiciary Committee last week a statement saying Chapin had recommended that Nixon's Re-election Committee hire Donald H. Segretti, a Los Angeles lawyer.

Segretti has been linked with alleged political sabotage activites against Democrats during last year's presidential campaign.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said he could cite no precedent for application of executive privilege to former White House employes. But he said the President's policy was consistent with "the whole doctrine of separation of powers."

Performance Of Dope Theft Is Repeated

In a repeat performance of an almost identical theft a month ago, a burglar stole a bottle of cocaine solution from the office of a San Rafael physician, police reported today.

Dr. Allan Beallo, whose office is at 706 D Street, discovered the theft at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Police said the burglar scraped putty from a side window and removed it, entered the office and took the bottle, containing about 10 per cent cocaine, from an examination room.

Beallo said the theft was a replay of another break-in about a month ago, in which a bottle of the same solution was stolen. The liquid is valued at $10.

Five Are Named Judges In Bank Awards Contest

Five business executives and city officials have been chosen to judge 39 Marin County high school student nominees for the annual Bank of America Achievement Awards in the zone finals March 20, according to R. E. Corrick, vice president and general manager of the bank's San Rafael office.

Judges who will select four students to compete in the San Francisco regional competition will be John Ashby, vice president of Norris Of California, Inc., Sausalito; Harold Alexander, executive of the Sonoma-Mendocino Council, Boy Scouts of America; Norwin S. Yoffie, general manager of the Independent-Journal; Novato City Councilman Dorothy Young and Mill Valley City Mgr. William H. Cunningham.

Virgil S. Hollis, Marin County superintendent of schools, will be moderator of the judges' panel.

Good Year Seen In House Starts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The chief economist for United California Bank says the nation's housing starts this year will reach at least 2.2 million.

"The more one looks at the many influences on housing in 1973, the more one realizes the overwhelming number are positive, a much lesser number than negative," said Dr. Raymond Jallow.

Jallow said Sunday an estimated 3.7 million persons will become 21 years old this year and the number will increase over the next five years.

He added that 64 per cent of all homes are owned by persons 30 years of age or younger.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Deceptive Play Makes Impossible Four-Spade Contract A Reality

You cannot make four spades in today's hand if the opponents defend properly. You must lose two hearts, a diamond and a club.

Now look for a way of persuading the opponents to defend improperly. After all, your opponents are only human. Can you find some reasonable sort of mistake for one of them?

TIES OPPONENTS

When the hand was played some years ago in a tournament, Charles J. Solomon, famous Philadelphia expert, found a way to hornswoggle his opponents.

Solomon won the first trick with the ace of clubs, drew two rounds of trumps and led a low diamond toward dummy's jack.

West stepped up with the queen of diamonds and led some more clubs. Solomon ruffed the third round of clubs and led another low diamond toward dummy!

WEST'S REASONING

This strange play gave West something to think about. From West's point of view, the missing diamonds could be exchanged, so that South held 10-x-x-x and East held A-x-x. If this were the case, it would be a mistake for West to put up the king of diamonds, for the ace would be ruffed out next, and the ten would thus be established.

NEVER OCCURRED

It never occurred to West that declarer had the ace of diamonds. West was sure he could lose nothing by ducking on this second round of the suit.

This natural error allowed dummy to win with the jack of diamonds. Now South could discard a heart loss to one trick.

DAILY QUESTION

You have opened the bidding with one spade, and partner responds one no-trump. Since the opponents pass, it is up to you again.

You hold:
♠- K Q J 8 4
♥- A 9 8
♦- A 8 4
♣- A 7.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two no-trump. Since you have 18 points in high cards and a good suit, you expect partner to have a reasonable play for game if he has more than the bare minimum of 6 or 7 points for his response. Your raise invites partner to go on to game if he has 8 points or more.

Pictures Shown Of Wounded Knee

NEW YORK (UPI) — An exhibit of 25 photographs, 15 taken in 1890 and 10 during the current occupation of Wounded Knee, S.D., opened Sunday at the Museum of the American Indian in Manhattan.

The pictures from 1890 deal with the massacre of 300 men, women and children of the Hunkpappa Sioux at Wounded Knee by U.S. troopers. They were buried in a common trench at Wounded Knee Creek 83 years ago.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

Famous firsts! Did today's birthday celebrities really do this? Answer: True or False.

1. LIZA MINELLI, 27 today, is a star in her own right in nightclubs, movies, and TV. For years people called her Judy Garland's daughter but after "Cabaret" she's in contention for an Academy Award. Is she the first and only child of Garland to go into show business? True? False?

2. WALTER SCHIRRA achieved stardom the hard way, riding those early day space birds. Now 50, this veteran astronaut sits by Walter Cronkite like a retired ballplayer, offering expertise on the latest moon launch. Is it correct to list him among America's first seven space pioneers but one dropped from the Mercury program because of heart trouble?

3. RAY NEWBY, lively Stockton businessman, still chuckles over what he did to get radio started. He is 80 today, but in 1909 he was in San Jose, Calif., helping C. D. Herrold build the world's first radio station, which became KQW, now KCBS. Playing phonograph records and reading news from the San Jose "Mercury," he became broadcasting's first disc jockey. True? False?

4. ADOLPH S. OCHS spent the 77 years of his life (1858-1935) building the reputation of journalism. This son of German immigrants left school at age 11 to help support his family as a newspaper office boy,. By the time he was 38, he controlled the New York "Times" and several other dailies. Is it true he introduced the slogan, "All the News That's Fit to Print?"

ANSWERS: 1 - False; 2 - False; 3 - True; 4 - True.

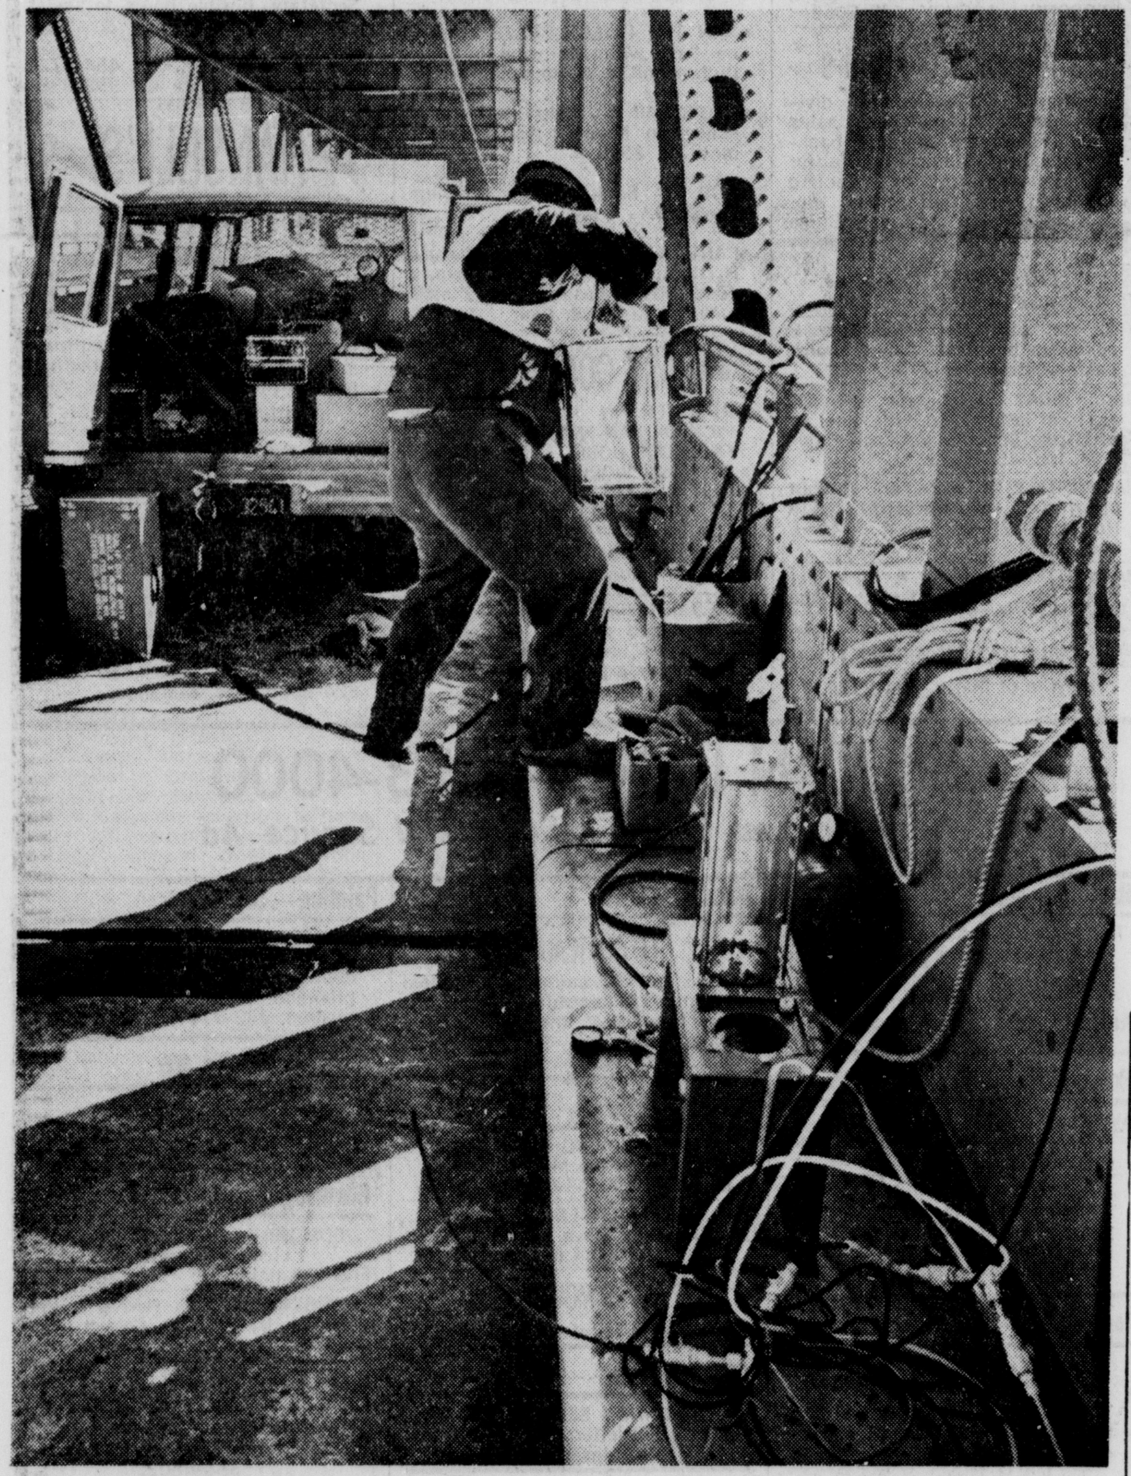
DIVER DESCENDS — Charles Vannuci, an employe of Smith Rice Co., a San Francisco construction firm, directs via radio a diver on his way to work, excavating holes around pilings at Richmond-San Rafael Bridge to install electronic devices that will pass on information on rust levels of the pilings to monitoring stations being installed on the deck of the 16-year-old span. The system is expected to provide a continuing watch on corrosion and to supply information to be applied to future bridge designs.



ELECTRONIC GEAR — Division of Highways worker Donald Lai works to install electronic monitoring equipment to deck of Richmond-San Rafael Bridge. The gear will monitor sounding devices attached to bridge pilings that will measure corrosion levels. The $129,275 project will be completed in about a month.

Bridge Condition To Be Checked

There has been a lot of water under the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge since it opened in September 1956.

And where there is water and metal, there also is rust.

How much rust has built up on metal pilings and how much will continue to build are questions expected to be answered by a $129,275 project under way on and below the murky waters beneath the 16-year-old bridge, which links Marin County to the East Bay.

Smith Rice Co. of San Francisco, lowest of five bidders for the job, is using divers to install ultrasonic devices and polarization tabs to pilings beneath 10 piers along the more than four-mile span.

These devices will transmit information about the condition of the H-shaped pilings, some of which have been driven more than 100 feet into the bay bottom, to monitoring stations being built on the bridge decks.

They will provide "a constant watch on corrosion," said Robert Hardgrove, public information officer for the Division of Bay Toll Crossings.

Divers excavate 10 to 12-foot holes at each selected pier, blowing them clean of silt and sand with jet hoses, before attaching the electronic equipment. They also are taking soil and water samples.

Divers work from a 112-foot-long derrick barge and are running into some problems.

"The diver gets down there and can't see a foot in front of his face," said project manager William Mueser of Smith Rice Co. "The water isn't clean enough."

Lack of water clarity and tide conditions prevent divers from working some days, said Mueser.

The project began two weeks ago and is expected to go on for about a month. It was the result of a recent preliminary study that showed a need for an ongoing monitoring system, said Hardgrove.

When completed, the system not only will provide an ongoing check on the pilings, but also is expected to make available information that can be applied to future bridge designs, according to the Division of Bay Toll Crossings.

22 Cars Are Called To Quell Cage Fans

An unruly mob of disappointed basketball fans at Sir Francis Drake High School drew 22 patrol cars from throughout Marin to help San Anselmo police quell the group.

Seven busloads of students — apparently disappointed that Drake's basketball team was defeated by Salesian of Richmond in the Tournament of Champions — refused police orders to disperse when they arrived back at Drake at 11 p.m. Saturday.

The students, chanting "we won't leave," taunted six San Anselmo policemen called to assist a fellow officer, whose patrol car was surrounded by a milling crowd, according to police. Several students kicked and hit the patrol car and threatened to overturn it.

The crowd, after declining repeated requests to leave, finally broke up after 22 patrol cars from surrounding cities began to arrive at the school parking lot, police reported. Eleven students were detained by San Anselmo police and later turned over to their parents. No arrest was made.

Joint Session

The Novato City Council and Novato Fire Protection District board will meet at 7:30 a.m. tomorrow at Sambo's Restaurant to discuss coordination between the city and the district.

Computers Use On Dixie List

Dixie School District trustees will hear a report at their 8 p.m. meeting Wednesday on ways to use computers in the classroom, which includes techniques which the district helped develop during a federally funded pioneer project from 1965 to 1967.

Dean Brown, senior research engineer at the Stanford Research Institute, will demonstrate how children from the elementary grades can do problem solving and other learning projects with computers. Several district students will participate in the demonstration.

The trustees will also hold a closed session before the meeting to discuss the final phase of the dismissal process of 15 teachers who must be laid off due to a drop in enrollment.

Cafe Worker Arrested Because Of Boot Prints

A pair of telltale boots — and an apparent attempt to change their markings — resulted in the arrest of a San Anselmo cafe employee Saturday on suspicion of stealing from his employer.

Lee Allan Bramson, 24, of 608 C Street, San Rafael, was arrested by San Anselmo police on suspicion of burglary and destroying evidence shortly after he arrived for work at the Cafe Ambrosia, 112 Spaulding Street. He was booked into Marin County Jail and held in lieu of $2,500 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said a burglar, who smashed a window and took $650 from the cafe's cash register sometime Saturday morning, left muddy "lug sole" boot prints on the roof of the building. Bramson, who reported for work while officers were investigating the burglary, wore a pair of muddy boots, according to police.

Bramson, who asked to call his lawyer, was allowed to go into a back room, police said, adding the man later appeared outside the shop and was captured two blocks away after a short chase.

Police said they found shavings of Bramson's boot soles in the bathroom of the cafe and pieces of black rubber in the toilet.

Coast Commission Due Bodega Bay Plan Test

A controversial Bodega Bay development may give the North Central Coast Regional Conservation Commission its first legal test on Thursday.

Transcentury Properties of Palo Alto, developer of Bodega Harbor, has applied for an exemption from the commission's jurisdiction on the ground it began work long before voters created the commission last November.

At issue Thursday will be a proposal by several commissioners that the developer be asked to halt further work until the application for an exemption is heard formally by the commission in May. The proposal was made at its last meeting, but postponed to give the developer a chance to react to it.

Some commissioners indicated they may favor court action to force the work to halt pending the May hearing. Legal precedents involved in the issue would affect similar developments along the entire coast.

The commission will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the supervisors chambers of the Marin Civic Center.

The developer has begun work on 10 of the 1,600 homes planned for the 823-acre site.

Exhibit 20 A Brief, Well-Mated Show

By ADA GARFINKEL

A well-mated, if brief, marriage of the arts occurred Saturday night at Congregation Rodef Sholom's Third Annual Exhibit 20.

Sponsored by the Art and Beautification Program Committee, this one-night, fun-and-art festival fully matched its previously lauded "museum-quality" standard.

Some of the artists have exhibited in the two previous annuals. For others it was their first. What characterized the show was the personal appearance of each artist, and the variety of medium, technique, perception and imagery.

What actually happened was that one became aware of 20 one-artist exhibits, since each artist was able to show his work in depth in the spacious Assembly hall. And, motivated by the reputation of the two previous annuals, each artist offered his or her newest and best work.

New to Exhibit 20 — and to the concept of art — was Espenet's sculptural furniture, and Robert Richard's functional and pop-art dual-purpose jugs, such as the satirical "Bun-and-Run" which can also serve as a lamp base.

Other first-timers include Dian Leach who showed paintings of colorful interiors and still-lifes with Victorian influences; Joe Leach with flowing abstract configurations in his paintings, and Houlgate Davenport, whose gem-like, deep-bite etchings pictured birds and tigers, butterflies and microscopic landscapes.

Dennis Beall's large figurative collographs and relief-etchings, (strikingly dramatic with their bold, simple colors and formal plasticity) were also seen for the first time in "Exhibit 20." And so were the candid photographs of Michael Bry.

Artists who have shown in previous shows at Rodef Sholom, showed new work. Alton Raible, for exmaple, presented ultra-tranquil winter landscape scenes, and June Lederman's seasonal and landscape variations were rendered in simple horizontal bars of color.

Moving from completely different points of view and presentation, one could contrast the on-location scenes of Spain by Othello Michetti with the highly abstract, glowing modular bars of Tony Williams.

Or Gayle Luchessa's basket-weave-and-tapestry standing sculptures with Gwen Stone's "Harlequin" series of acrylic paintings.

Phyllis Taplitz' woodcuts were as luminescent as ever, with several new variations on a theme, and Ralph O'Neill's handsome marble pieces were augmented by several new bronze and wood figures.

Other artists included in the exhibit were Glenn Cavalli, Carol Herschleb, Ada Garfinkel, Marty Stoelzel, and Arlene Whiting.

Proceeds from this affair are to be used to establish an acquisition program and a permanent collection of art for Congregation Rodef Sholom.

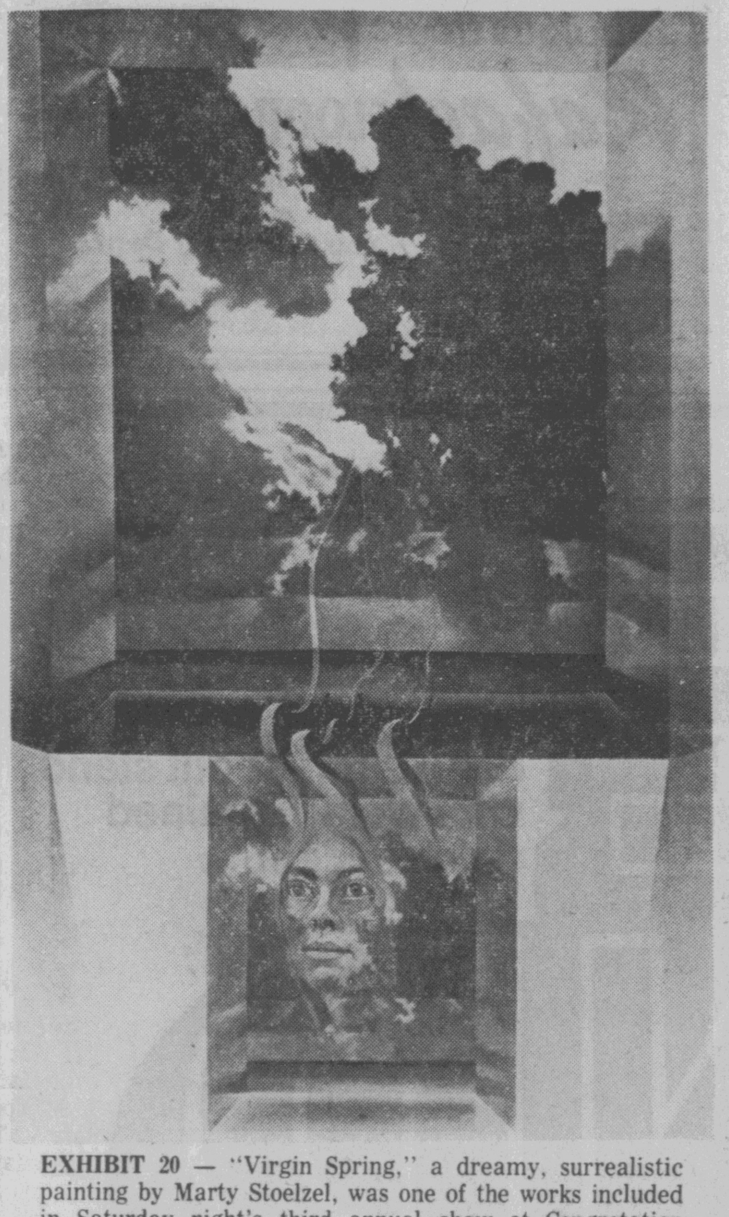

EXHIBIT 20 — "Virgin Spring," a dreamy, surrealistic painting by Marty Stoelzel, was one of the works included in Saturday night's third annual show at Congregation Rodef Sholom. Also included were sculpture, paintings, and other works of 20 invited Marin artists.

Morrison Puts It To A Packed House — An Audience Pleased

By PAUL LIBERATORE

There are artists and there are performers, and Van Morrison, Marin's most celebrated rocker, is an artist.

Before a soldout but subdued audience at Marin Veterans Memorial Building last night, Morrison mechanically cranked through his set, full of that earthy, growly, almost tortured sound that is his trademark.

Morrison's much-publicized disdain for live performance was evident from the start, when he did a nervous version of "St. Dominic's Preview," stalking off the stage after the first few lines.

"Uh, oh," everyone thought, another display of that Van Morrison petulance.

As it turned out, he was only asking the stage manager to dim the lights, but it's difficult to become involved in a song — even one as great as "St. Dominic's Preview," with its references to strife-torn Ireland, Morrison's birth place — when the singer leaves the stage after the first few bars.

But in the end it was the music that won out, soulful but precise, which included standards like "Bring Your Sweet Lovin' Home to Me," and classic "Come Runnin' to Me."

Morrison, who lives in Fairfax, also introduced a new song — apparently inspired by one of the bitterest winters in memory in Marin County, — "Snow in San Anselmo."

In it, a young man is sitting in one of those all-night pancake houses, and it begins to snow.

"It hasn't happened in 30 years, the waitress said, but there it was, layin' on the ground."

As were all the songs, it was performed tightly by Morrison's band, never missing a cue, delivering Morrison's halting, exploding style rock and roll.

The turning point song, during which everyone, even Morrison, appeared to relax, was "Bring Your Sweet Lovin' Home to Me," featuring Morrison and his female backup vocalist in a gutsy duet.

The song drew the strongest audience reaction, accented at the end when Morrison announced that his backup vocalist was none other than Jackie DeShnnon, hit record maker during the 60s.

Her bluesy voice fits well into Morrison's style, and seemed to loosen him up a bit in the song they sang together.

Morrison perfunctorily performed one encore, after marching through his set of songs, which he had listed on a card in his pocket and repeatedly referred to.

Seeing him perform makes one wonder if/Morrison wasn't in mind in the song by The Band, "Stage Fright," which goes: "See the man with the stage fright, standin' up there givin' all his might. He got caught in the spotlight, and when he gets to the end, he's got to start all over again."

Sharing the bill was Jesse Colin Young — another trnasplanted Marinite — who is beginning a solo career after splitting from the Youngbloods last year.

Young's set included songs from the Youngblood's days, including that anthem of the late 60s, "Time to Love One Another Right Now," rock standards such as "Heard it Through the Grapevine," and some new songs to be included in a forthcoming album.

He has a pleasant, controlled voice and a flowing, rolling style, lit by some spotlight-stealing piano playing by Scott Lawrence.

But Young's latest compositions were unmemorable, sounded unfinished, and included some endless jams that had no strong solo instrumentation to make them worthwhile.

One song, written about the free-feeling joys of riding motorcycles, would, indeed, have been an excellent song for one of those glossy, youth-oriented Yamaha television ads.

But while Young may not possess the talent of a Van Morrison, his set was enthusiastic, and musical enough to keep toes tapping and a packed house smiling.

Fairfax Council To Hear Plans For Recreation

The Fairfax Town Council will hear a report at its 8 p.m. meeting today on the Fairfax School District plans for developing recreational areas on land around Deer Park School.

According to Mayor Albert E. Gately, the council four years ago opposed a similar county proposal for that area on the grounds that it would generate too much traffic.

Police Chief Charles F. Thornton will also report to the council on the need for the Marin Municipal Water District to increase the size of water lines in parts of the city in order to upgrade the fire protection system.

Coffees Set For Mulryan

Four campaign coffees for Lawrence E. Mulryan, seeking his first full term on the San Rafael City Council on the April 17 election have been scheduled this week.

Mulryan will speak at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at the Susan Howard home, 159 Ridgewood Drive; 8 p.m. Thursday at the Milton Greenfield home, 41 San Mateo Court; 8 p.m. Friday at the Eric Eitreim home, 17 Bolanos Drive and 9:30 a.m. March 20 at the Joseph Turine home, 4 Dias Way.

Mulryan will appear at a candidates' night planned by the Peacock Gap Homeowners Association at 8 p.m. March 21 at the Peacock Gap Country Club.

Rock Groups Set At Sausalito Spot

Rock music by "The Jacks" and contemporary folk music by Doug Kennedy will be presented this week at the Latitude 38, 621 Bridgeway in Sausalito.

The Jacks will perform tomorrow and Wednesday, while Kennedy will sing Thursday through Sunday. All shows begin at 9:30 p.m.

20 YEARS A CAPTIVE

John T. Downey, an American spy freed from a Chinese prison after more than 20 years, gave the thumbs up sign today to indicate to newsmen he is all right following his arrival in the Philippines. Downey boarded a mercy jet almost immediately to rush to the bedside of his sick mother in Connecticut. (See storym page 1)

Young Man Arrested In Music Gear Theft

An 18-year-old musician was arrested Saturday on suspicion of grand theft in connection with the theft of music equipment from Terra Linda High School.

Kenneth Richard Garcia of Walnut Creek posted $1,000 bail to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court.

Garcia walked into San Rafael police station at 5:30 p.m. Saturday, carrying a pair of $250 cymbals officers said were stolen Thursday from the Terra Linda High School music room.

Also stolen were a drum stand, drum sticks and French horn case.

Police said Garcia told them he traded an unidentified student another pair of cymbals plus cash for the cymbals.

Witnesses at the school identified Garcia as being in the music room at about the time of the theft, police said. Garcia turned himself in after officers notified a San Rafael family the youth visited Thursday, informing them that they wanted to question him in connection with the theft.

Council To Eye Changes In Corte Madera's Plan

The Corte Madera Town Council will consider interim modifications to the town's general plan to pave the way for redevelopment at its meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall.

The council heard two hours of pro and con discussion on the changes at its meeting last week, during which town planning consultant Thomas Cooke suggested resiting Ernest W. Hahn's proposed regional shopping center to save wildlife habitat areas, moving the rapid transit route to the median of Highway 101, cutting out proposed housing, procuring some marshland as open space, and deleting the extension of San Clemente Drive.

Corte Madera's official public hearing on its redevelopment project to support the regional shopping center will be held Mar. 19 at San Clemente School at 7:30 p.m., but the modifications to the town's general plan are a key element in the redevelopment process, since any project must conform to the plan.

Novato Schools Budget Session Set

The Novato Unified School District board will have a budget study session at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Novato High School Lecture Hall.

Supt. James G. Bunker has estimated that the district's income for the 1973-74 school year will be $1,111,735 higher than the current year's income because of increased state aid.

Ridgeland Ban May Be Waived

The Tiburon City Council, meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at city hall, will consider waiving its moratorium on ridgeland development to permit housing to be built on two ridgeland parcels.

The McNaught family of Belvedere wants a use permit to build 160 condominiums on Vistazo West Street and Richard Ham wants to build single-family dwellings on five acres on Avenida Miraflores.

Use permits have been required on the property in question since last January when the council slapped a temporary moratorium on much of the city's remaining ridgeland open sapce.

Also on the agenda are two applications by Fred J. Zelinski, one for a master plan for an office building at 7-11 Main Street and the other for precise plan approval for the Bank of America building on Tiburon Boulevard.

Another item — a controversial rezoning of land owned by Neill Smith to allow him to build an environmental school there — will not be on the agenda as the council previously had announced.

City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer said Smith — whose rezoning was heard on first reading by the council Feb. 26 over the objections of some 20 neighbors — asked for a delay in order to discuss his plans with nearby residents. The matter now is slated for the April 9 council meeting, Balmer said.

Stop Signs On Novato Council List

The Novato City Council again will consider controversial stop signs along South Novato Boulevard at Sunset Parkway at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

Councilmen heard about 200 persons, opposing and supporting continuation of the signs, last week but took no action.

The signs were backed as protection for Lynwood School pupils crossing South Novato Boulevard and opposed by Cambridge Street residents who said cars were using Cambridge Street, parallel roadway, as a bypass around the stop signs.

The council also will consider prezoning of 66 acres on the north side of Olive Avenue, east of Rita Court. Woodlands Co. requested zoning which would permit 264 units, but the city planning commission recommended 73 units.

Items Stolen

A camera, binoculars, a citizen's band radio and two antennas, worth $360, were stolen from his car when it was parked outside his home Friday, reported Michael Edward Tachet of 2130 Redwood Highway, to Larkspur police.

President Rules Out Staffers' Testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon said Monday that no member or former member of his personal White House staff would be permitted to testify formally before committees of Congress.

In a written statement, the President outlined his policy for "executive privilege." He said it was the same as the policy followed by all Presidents dating back to George Washington.

"A member or former member of the President's personal staff normally shall follow the well established precedent and decline a request for a formal appearance before a committee of the Congress," Nixon said.

The policy apparently would rule out appearances by Nixon's former appointments secretary, Dwight Chapin, as well as his present legal counsel, John Dean, before Senate committees.

L. Patrick Gray, acting FBI director, submitted to the Senate Judiciary Committee last week a statement saying Chapin had recommended that Nixon's Re-election Committee hire Donald H. Segretti, a Los Angeles lawyer.

Segretti has been linked with alleged political sabotage activites against Democrats during last year's presidential campaign.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said he could cite no precedent for application of executive privilege to former White House employes. But he said the President's policy was consistent with "the whole doctrine of separation of powers."

Performance Of Dope Theft Is Repeated

In a repeat performance of an almost identical theft a month ago, a burglar stole a bottle of cocaine solution from the office of a San Rafael physician, police reported today.

Dr. Allan Beallo, whose office is at 706 D Street, discovered the theft at 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Police said the burglar scraped putty from a side window and removed it, entered the office and took the bottle, containing about 10 per cent cocaine, from an examination room.

Beallo said the theft was a replay of another break-in about a month ago, in which a bottle of the same solution was stolen. The liquid is valued at $10.

Five Are Named Judges In Bank Awards Contest

Five business executives and city officials have been chosen to judge 39 Marin County high school student nominees for the annual Bank of America Achievement Awards in the zone finals March 20, according to R. E. Corrick, vice president and general manager of the bank's San Rafael office.

Judges who will select four students to compete in the San Francisco regional competition will be John Ashby, vice president of Norris Of California, Inc., Sausalito; Harold Alexander, executive of the Sonoma-Mendocino Council, Boy Scouts of America; Norwin S. Yoffie, general manager of the Independent-Journal; Novato City Councilman Dorothy Young and Mill Valley City Mgr. William H. Cunningham.

Virgil S. Hollis, Marin County superintendent of schools, will be moderator of the judges' panel.

Good Year Seen In House Starts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The chief economist for United California Bank says the nation's housing starts this year will reach at least 2.2 million.

"The more one looks at the many influences on housing in 1973, the more one realizes the overwhelming number are positive, a much lesser number than negative," said Dr. Raymond Jallow.

Jallow said Sunday an estimated 3.7 million persons will become 21 years old this year and the number will increase over the next five years.

He added that 64 per cent of all homes are owned by persons 30 years of age or younger.

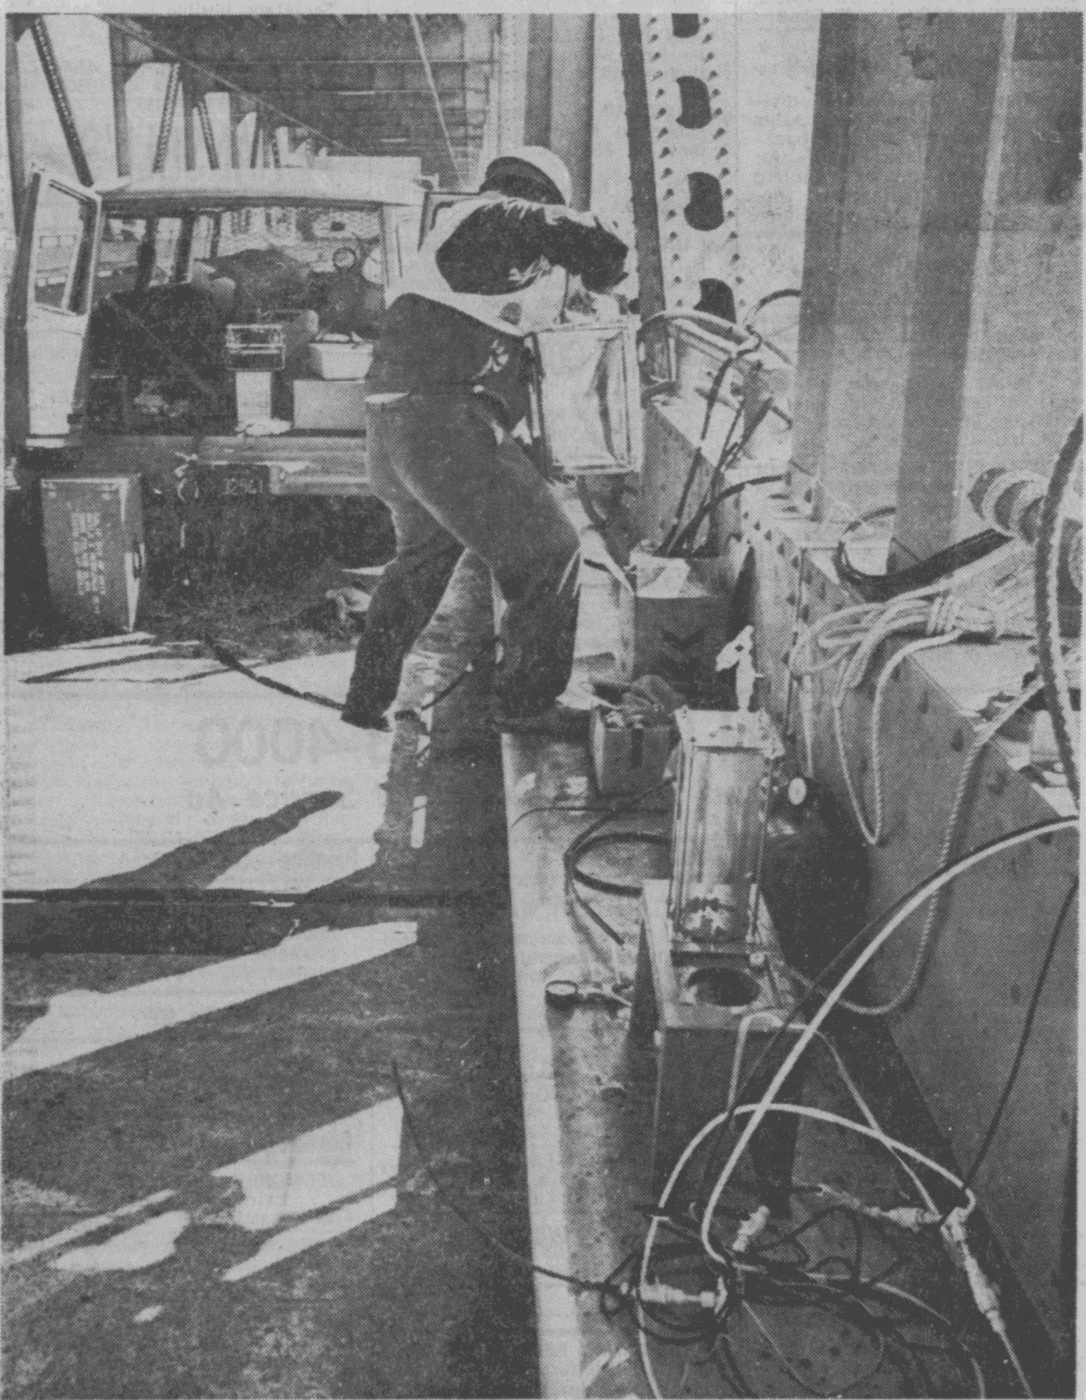
DIVER DESCENDS — Charles Vannuci, an employe of Smith Rice Co., a San Francisco construction firm, directs via radio a diver on his way to work, excavating holes around pilings at Richmond-San Rafael Bridge to install electronic devices that will pass on information on rust levels of the pilings to monitoring stations being installed on the deck of the 16-year-old span. The system is expected to provide a continuing watch on corrosion and to supply information to be applied to future bridge designs.



ELECTRONIC GEAR — Division of Highways worker Donald Lai works to install electronic monitoring equipment to deck of Richmond-San Rafael Bridge. The gear will monitor sounding devices attached to bridge pilings that will measure corrosion levels. The $129,275 project will be completed in about a month.

Coast Commission Due Bodega Bay Plan Test

A controversial Bodega Bay development may give the North Central Coast Regional Conservation Commission its first legal test on Thursday.

Transcentury Properties of Palo Alto, developer of Bodega Harbor, has applied for an exemption from the commission's jurisdiction on the ground it began work long before voters created the commission last November.

At issue Thursday will be a proposal by several commissioners that the developer be asked to halt further work until the application for an exemption is heard formally by the commission in May. The proposal was made at its last meeting, but postponed to give the developer a chance to react to it.

Some commissioners indicated they may favor court action to force the work to halt pending the May hearing. Legal precedents involved in the issue would affect similar developments along the entire coast.

The commission will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the supervisors chambers of the Marin Civic Center.

The developer has begun work on 10 of the 1,600 homes planned for the 823-acre site.

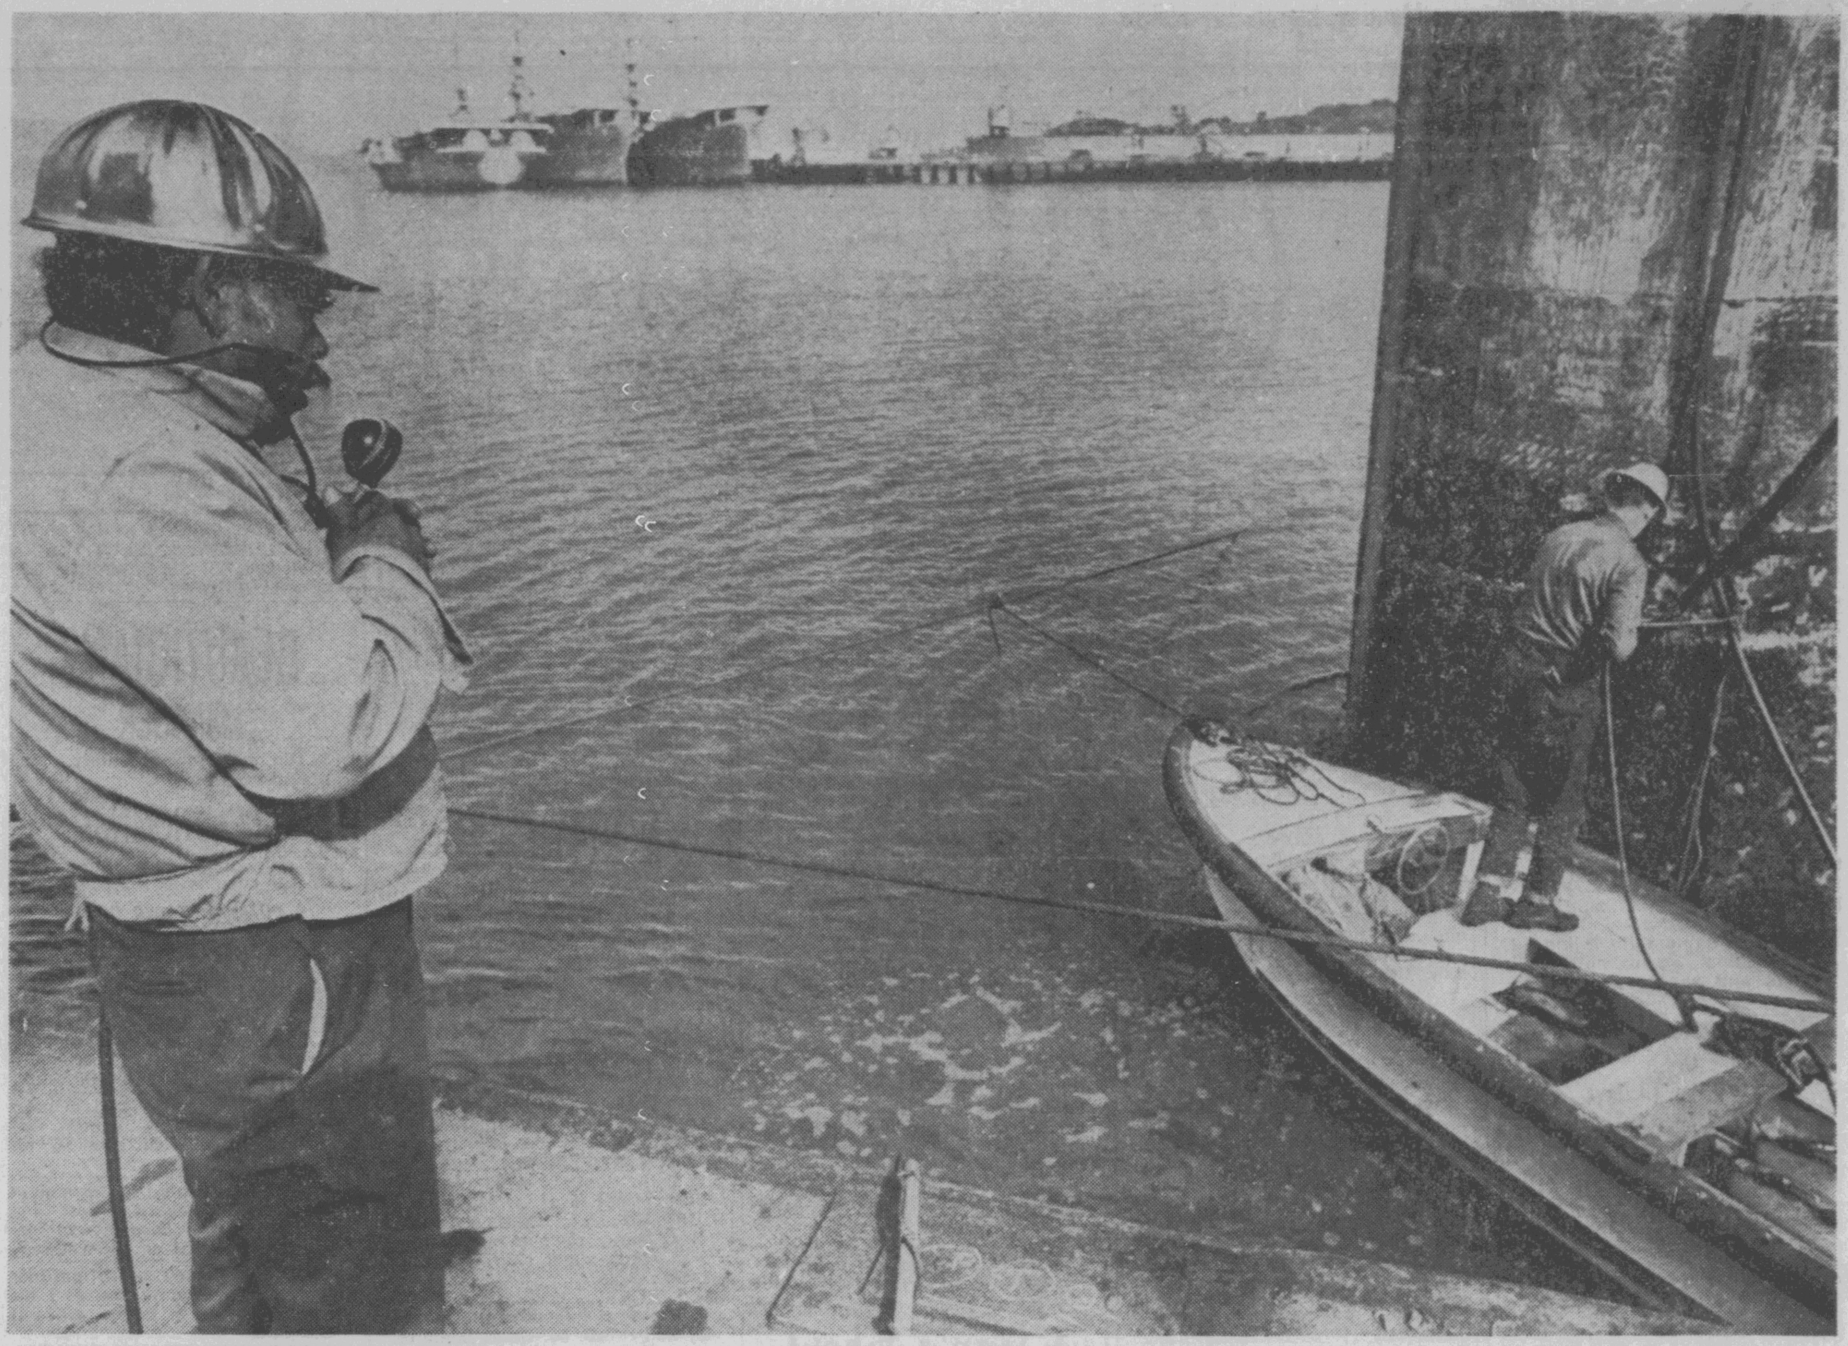
Americans View Cost Of Living As Top Problem

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — Three out of every five Americans believe rising prices are the most important problem facing the country today, according to the results of a Gallup poll released Sunday.

Drugs, crime, race relations, unemployment and pollution followed on the list of problems confronting the country according to the survey based on interviews with 1,517 persons aged 18 or older between Feb. 16 and 19.

When asked the most important problem facing the nation, here's how they answered:

High cost of living 59 per cent; drugs 20 per cent; crime 17 per cent; race relations 16 per cent; unemployment 16 per cent; and pollution 14 per cent.



DEEP CONVERSATION — Worker Charles Vannuci relays instructions over a radio to deep sea diver working in depths below Richardson-San Rafael bridge. The diver is excavating a 10-foot hole around bridge pier to attach electronic equipment to metal pilings.

(Independent-Journal photos by Alfred M. Arn)

Bridge Condition To Be Checked

There has been a lot of water under the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge since it opened in September 1956.

And where there is water and metal, there also is rust.

How much rust has built up on metal pilings and how much will continue to build are questions expected to be answered by a $129,275 project under way on and below the murky waters beneath the 16-year-old bridge, which links Marin County to the East Bay.

Smith Rice Co. of San Francisco, lowest of five bidders for the job, is using divers to install ultrasonic devices and polarization tabs to pilings beneath 10 piers along the more than four-mile span.

These devices will transmit information about the condition of the H-shaped pilings, some of which have been driven more than 100 feet into the bay bottom, to monitoring stations being built on the bridge decks.

They will provide "a constant watch on corrosion," said Robert Hardgrove, public information officer for the Division of Bay Toll Crossings.

Divers excavate 10 to 12-foot holes at each selected pier, blowing them clean of silt and sand with jet hoses, before attaching the electronic equipment. They also are taking soil and water samples.

Divers work from a 112-foot-long derrick barge and are running into some problems.

"The diver gets down there and can't see a foot in front of his face," said project manager William Mueser of Smith Rice Co. "The water isn't clean enough."

Lack of water clarity and tide conditions prevent divers from working some days, said Meuser.

The project began two weeks ago and is expected to go on for about a month. It was the result of a recent preliminary study that showed a need for an ongoing monitoring system, said Hardgrove.

When completed, the system not only will provide an ongoing check on the pilings, but also is expected to make available information that can be applied to future bridge designs, according to the Division of Bay Toll Crossings.

22 Cars Are Called To Quell Cage Fans

An unruly mob of disappointed basketball fans at Sir Francis Drake High School drew 22 patrol cars from throughout Marin to help San Anselmo police quell the group.

Seven busloads of students — apparently disappointed that Drake's basektball team was defeated by Salesian of Richmond in the Tournament of Champions — refused police orders to disperse when they arrived back at Drake at 11 p.m. Saturday.

The students, chanting "we won't leave," taunted six San Anselmo policemen called to assist a fellow officer, whose patrol car was surrounded by a milling crowd, according to police. Several students kicked and hit the patrol car and threatened to overturn it.

The crowd, after declining repeated requests to leave, finally broke up after 22 patrol cars from surrounding cities began to arrive at the school parking lot, police reported. Eleven students were detained by San Anselmo police and later turned over to their parents. No arrest was made.

Joint Session

The Novato City Council and Novato Fire Protection District board will meet at 7:30 a.m. tomorrow at Sambo's Restaurant to discuss coordination between the city and the district.

Computers Use On Dixie List

Dixie School District trustees will hear a report at their 8 p.m. meeting Wednesday on ways to use computers in the classroom, which includes techniques which the district helped develop during a federally funded pioneer project from 1965 to 1967.

Dean Brown, senior research engineer at the Stanford Research Institute, will demonstrate how children from the elementary grades can do problem solving and other learning projects with computers. Several district students will participate in the demonstration.

The trustees will also hold a closed session before the meeting to discuss the final phase of the dismissal process of 15 teachers who must be laid off due to a drop in enrollment.

Cafe Worker Arrested Because Of Boot Prints

A pair of telltale boots — and an apparent attempt to change their markings — resulted in the arrest of a San Anselmo cafe employee Saturday on suspicion of stealing from his employer.

Lee Allan Bramson, 24, of 608 C Street, San Rafael, was arrested by San Anselmo police on suspicion of burglary and destroying evidence shortly after he arrived for work at the Cafe Ambrosia, 112 Spaulding Street. He was booked into Marin County Jail and held in lieu of $2,500 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said a burglar, who smashed a window and took $650 from the cafe's cash register sometime Saturday morning, left muddy "lug sole" boot prints on the roof of the building. Bramson, who reported for work while officers were investigating the burglary, wore a pair of muddy boots, according to police.

Bramson, who asked to call his lawyer, was allowed to go into a back room, police said, adding the man later appeared outside the shop and was captured two blocks away after a short chase.

Police said they found shavings of Bramson's boot soles in the bathroom of the cafe and pieces of black rubber in the toilet.

You lose weight only where you want to. You can lose as much as three inches or more off your midriff and back without changing the size of your bust.

For thirteen years thousands have gained a new lease on life and a new figure at Ann Marie.

Today is Monday, March 12, the 71st day of 1973 with 294 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

American astronomer Simon Newcomb was born March 12, 1835.

On this day in history:

In 1912, the first Girl Scouts of America troop was organized in Savannah, Ga., by Mrs. Juliette Gordon Law.

In 1933, after only eight days in office, President Franklin D. Roosevelt addressed the nation in the first of his many radio "Fireside Chats."

In 1938, Germany invated Austria.

In 1963, the House of Representatives voted to grant Former British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill honorary U.S. citizenship.

A thought for the day: American writer John Marquand said, "It is worthwhile for anyone to have behind him a few generations of honest, hard-working ancestry."

Rohnert Park Man Faces Murder Charge

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A Rohnert Park man was arrested on suspicion of murder after a Santa Rosa woman was shot to death early today.

Walker L. Moore, 25, was booked into Sonoma County Jail on suspicion of killing Sue Elizabeth Dandida, 25.

Santa Rosa police said the woman was killed by two shotgun blasts outside a Santa Rosa apartment building. William C. Middlebrook told police there was an argument outside the building and as he was walking back inside he heard two shots and found the woman fatally wounded on the sidewalk.

Moore was arrested by Cotati police and charged with first degree murder.

Recent donors of more than $50 are: Joseph J. Garbarino, $200; Barney Norwitt, $100; Eleanor Eckles, $100; Frederick Drexler, Irving Shaprio, Patrick McLin and Douglas E. Stephenson, $50 each.

Mulryan said that more than 120 citizens have donated to his campaign effort to date.

Southern California Weather To Clear

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Weather forecasters predicted clearing and windy weather in Southern California today in the wake of an icy storm from the Pacific Northwest which pelted the Southland with rain, snow and hail on Sunday.

The National Weather Service said a new storm is approaching from the Gulf of Alaska and could arrive here by Wednesday.

Sunday's storm brought as much as 12 inches of new snow to Southern California mountain areas, and the rainfall in many foothill communities exceeded 1.25 inches. Most points in the coastal area reported over one-half inch of rain and occasional outbursts of hail, making driving conditions hazardous throughou the Southland.

Police had to block off a four-mile section of the Ventura Freeway for 30 minutes Sunday night after icy roads and hail caused a series of collisions involving a total of 30 cars. The California Highway Patrol reported that two persons were injured in the accidents.

In San Diego County, police patrol cars with flashing warning lights slowed down drivers on Interstate 8 and Interstate 15, where heavy afternoon rainfall produced dangerously slick roads.

Travelers warnings for heavy snowfall were issued on most mountain highways and small craft warnings were posted along the coast for winds of up to 30 miles per hour.

Hail and sleet coated streets in Orange Sunday afternoon, and the Los Angeles Police Department issued a traffic alert for icy roads due to hail and sleet in the Eagle Rock area.

Police attributed a total of nine traffic deaths during the weekend to the rain-slicked streets and freeways. In one incident, Robert L. Davis, 37, of Whittier, and Gerald E. Vona, 39, of Hunting Beach, were killed when they pulled out in front of another car on the Pacific Coast Highway Sunday. The other driver, Robert M. Doolittle, 30, Seal Beach, was in good condition.

Sunday's storm increased Southern California's rainfall total to 19.72 inches for the season, compared with an average of 11.91 for this date and last year's total of 7.04 inches.

Nuclear Power Called One Energy Need Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Division of Oil and Gas, declaring electricity and fuel needs are expected to double by 1985, has warned that California can't bank on nuclear power as a solution to demand problems.

In a report on California's energy picture, the division said nuclear power is one of several alternatives for meeting future demands but that it should not be considered as a primary source.

The 69-page report said that "technological and economic problems facing the successful development of (nuclear) fusion are so great" it would not be a practical energy source within the next 15 years.

The report also said "oil alone will still supply more than half our total energy needs in 1985," adding that a "complete substitution" of atomic fuel for oil and gas would satisfy only 25 per cent of the total demand in the next decade.

The Reagan administration's report comes at a time when the Assembly Subcommittee on State Electrical Energy Policy is conducting hearings on California's energy needs, particularly the potential for nuclear power.

Assemblyman Charles D. Warren, D-Los Angeles, subcommittee chairman, has said his panel will draft legislation that will, among other things, focus on a Rand Corp., report recommending the state slow down its energy growth rate.

The administration report, however, suggests that a change in the energy rate might have a negative affect on the economy.

"A very close relationship between energy consumption and the gross national product," the report said. "If steps to restrict energy consumption are based on measures which will make energy use too costly for certain segments of society, then there is a real risk the growth of the GNP will suffer." The report, prepared for the state Resources Agency, said California already is in the midst of an "energy crisis" but not because of a lack of resources.

"There is no shortage of energy resources in the nation," it said, "but there is a shortage of environmentally acceptable energy resources. And there is a shortage of inexpensive energy resources."

Preview Of Concert Set

The Marin Regional Council of the San Francisco Symphony Foundatin will present its second preview of the Marin concert season at 11 a.m. March 20 at the Tamalpais Retirement Residence in Greenbrae.

Harold Schmidt, director of choral music at Stanford University, will discuss the works to be performed at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building March 24.

The program to be previewed includes Haydn's "Sinfonia Concertante for Violin, Cell, Oboe, Bassoon and Orchestra," and Liszt's "A Faust Symphony."

Ceramics, Furniture Exhibit Scheduled

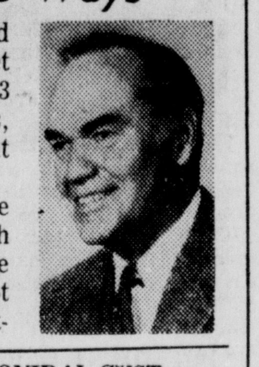
Contemporary ceramics and furniture by Bay Area artists will be exhibited at the College of Marin Art Gallery from March 20 through April 13.

The gallery is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 to 10 p.m.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Exposure To Rabies Infection Can Be Treated In Two Ways



A puppy bought as a mascot was imported into a United States Air Force base in Viet Nam. It was to be vaccinated at the age of 3 months, but before the owner could do this, the pup was scratched on the head in a fight with another animal.

Ten days later the dog began to make peculiar oral motions, rubbed his mouth with a paw, and jerked his head sharply to one side. These classic rabies symptoms were not recognized at first. Later, rabies was suspected and the animal was quarantined where he died the same day and the suspicion was confirmed.

WHAT DO YOU do next in such a situation? At least 31 people had been exposed to the infection at a party. Several of the veterinary staff also handled the dog. The problem of degree of exposure was evaluated by a board who concluded that 23 persons should be treated immediately.

Two types of rabies vaccine are available. The brain tissue serum (Pasteur) is used for definite exposure to a rabid animal and more so if a bite occurred.

Usage of the Pasteur serum is carefully weighed because there is a risk of severe reactions, including paralysis. The second and safer preventive is the anti-rabies duck-embryo vaccine. Its use is suggested whenever there is doubt about exposure such as being licked on abraded skin by a sick dog.

THE MEN who had been immunized with the duck-embryo antirabies vaccine needed only a booster shot. The others were given a full course of the same vaccine. All except one developed reactions varying from itching to serum sickness. Oddly, the military consequences were considerable. Eighteen pilots were grounded during the period the vaccine was given for fear of having a reaction while flying.

Rabid animals go into a state of excitation at which time they grow extremely restless, agitated, and tremulous. In the furious type of the disease they become erratic, aggressive, and growl and bark constantly. They grab viciously at any object or animal encountered and may wander great distances biting other animals and humans along the way. Convulsions and death follow.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

SUDDEN BOWING

A. W. B. writes: My 18-year-old son always had straight legs. But in the last few months, they have become bowed and he says they hurt. He grew 12 inches in one year. Could rapid growth be the cause?

REPLY

Possibly. There are several diseases of bones and joints that develop in growing children, especially boys. X-rays would be needed to determine whether the legs otherwise are normal.

ROQUEFORT CHEESE

R. V. writes: Is it healthy to eat blue or roquefort cheese? I am on a salt-free diet, but get so tired of cottage cheese.

REPLY

There is no harm in eating roquefort cheese.

HEAD LOWERING

F. L. G. writes: What is the purpose of putting the head lower than the body when a person faints?

REPLY

To bring blood to the brain via gravity.

BACKACHES

D. writes: Why would a perfectly straight neck and spine become painful?

REPLY

Because of fatigue, strain, arthritis, or a slipped disk. Our leaflet on backache can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

HEALED EARDRUM

L. M. writes: How long after a ruptured eardrum has been healed is swimming permissible?

REPLY

Immediately, but be sure healing has occurred.

NO AFTEREFFECTS

A. writes: Last month I was taken sick suddenly: I had abdominal pain and the doctor said it was a gallbladder attack and stomach ulcer. He gave me an injection which killed the pain at once. At 8 the next morning I woke up in the hospital and couldn't remember a thing, even though my husband says I told him what I needed to take with me and where to find it. Did this shot do anything to my mind? Since that time I've been so forgetful I'm ashamed of myself.

REPLY

No. The injection produced a temporary amnesia — a blessing when pain is severe.

PILONIDAL CYST

N. E. writes: Are pilonidal cysts at the base of the spine cancerous?

REPLY

No. These cysts are defects that form long before birth, when the two sides of the body are fusing along the back. Tissue cells that were destined to become skin have been misplaced and trapped under the surface. Later, when the cells are activated, they form a cyst near the base of the spine.

SIZE OF BOSOM

A reader writes: Could a deficiency of minerals or vitamins cause small breasts?

REPLY

The size of the bosom is an inherent characteristic varying with body build, glandular makeup, and weight. Calories — rather than vitamins and minerals — may influence the latter. Our leaflet on breast changes can be obtained by sending stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

PEPPER HARMFUL?

L.H.H. writes: My husband has high blood pressure and I have low blood sugar. Would you consider pepper harmful if it was used daily, or in large amounts?

REPLY

Pepper should not bother your husband's high blood pressure or your low blood sugar. He should not, however, use salt.

PLANTS AGAIN

J.L. writes: Do house plants cause people to have low resistance?

REPLY

No, there is no connection between the two. At one time many people thought that house plants robbed them of oxygen.

American astronomer Simon Newcomb was born March 12, 1835.

On this day in history:

In 1912, the first Girl Scouts of America troop was organized in Savannah, Ga., by Mrs. Juliette Gordon Law.

In 1933, after only eight days in office, President Franklin D. Roosevelt addressed the nation in the first of his many radio "Fireside Chats."

In 1938, Germany invated Austria.

In 1963, the House of Representatives voted to grant Former British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill honorary U.S. citizenship.

A thought for the day: American writer John Marquand said, "It is worthwhile for anyone to have behind him a few generations of honest, hard-working ancestry."

Santa Rosa police said the woman was killed by two shotgun blasts outside a Santa Rosa apartment building. William C. Middlebrook told police there was an argument outside the building and as he was walking back inside he heard two shots and found the woman fatally wounded on the sidewalk.

Moore was arrested by Cotati police and charged with first degree murder.

Southern California Weather To Clear

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Weather forecasters predicted clearing and windy weather in Southern California today in the wake of an icy storm from the Pacific Northwest which pelted the Southland with rain, snow and hail on Sunday.

The National Weather Service said a new storm is approaching from the Gulf of Alaska and could arrive here by Wednesday.

Sunday's storm brought as much as 12 inches of new snow to Southern California mountain areas, and the rainfall in many foothill communities exceeded 1.25 inches. Most points in the coastal area reported over one-half inch of rain and occasional outbursts of hail, making driving conditions hazardous throughou the Southland.

Police had to block off a four-mile section of the Ventura Freeway for 30 minutes Sunday night after icy roads and hail caused a series of collisions involving a total of 30 cars. The California Highway Patrol reported that two persons were injured in the accidents.

In San Diego County, police patrol cars with flashing warning lights slowed down drivers on Interstate 8 and Interstate 15, where heavy afternoon rainfall produced dangerously slick roads.

Travelers warnings for heavy snowfall were issued on most mountain highways and small craft warnings were posted along the coast for winds of up to 30 miles per hour.

Hail and sleet coated streets in Orange Sunday afternoon, and the Los Angeles Police Department issued a traffic alert for icy roads due to hail and sleet in the Eagle Rock area.

Police attributed a total of nine traffic deaths during the weekend to the rain-slicked streets and freeways. In one incident, Robert L. Davis, 37, of Whittier, and Gerald E. Vona, 39, of Hunting Beach, were killed when they pulled out in front of another car on the Pacific Coast Highway Sunday. The other driver, Robert M. Doolittle, 30, Seal Beach, was in good condition.

Sunday's storm increased Southern California's rainfall total to 19.72 inches for the season, compared with an average of 11.91 for this date and last year's total of 7.04 inches.

Nuclear Power Called One Energy Need Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Division of Oil and Gas, declaring electricity and fuel needs are expected to double by 1985, has warned that California can't bank on nuclear power as a solution to demand problems.

In a report on California's energy picture, the division said nuclear power is one of several alternatives for meeting future demands but that it should not be considered as a primary source.

The 69-page report said that "technological and economic problems facing the successful development of (nuclear) fusion are so great" it would not be a practical energy source within the next 15 years.

The report also said "oil alone will still supply more than half our total energy needs in 1985," adding that a "complete substitution" of atomic fuel for oil and gas would satisfy only 25 per cent of the total demand in the next decade.

The Reagan administration's report comes at a time when the Assembly Subcommittee on State Electrical Energy Policy is conducting hearings on California's energy needs, particularly the potential for nuclear power.

Assemblyman Charles D. Warren, D-Los Angeles, subcommittee chairman, has said his panel will draft legislation that will, among other things, focus on a Rand Corp., report recommending the state slow down its energy growth rate.

The administration report, however, suggests that a change in the energy rate might have a negative affect on the economy.

"A very close relationship between energy consumption and the gross national product," the report said. "If steps to restrict energy consumption are based on measures which will make energy use too costly for certain segments of society, then there is a real risk the growth of the GNP will suffer." The report, prepared for the state Resources Agency, said California already is in the midst of an "energy crisis" but not because of a lack of resources.

"There is no shortage of energy resources in the nation," it said, "but there is a shortage of environmentally acceptable energy resources. And there is a shortage of inexpensive energy resources."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Exposure To Rabies Infection Can Be Treated In Two Ways

A puppy bought as a mascot was imported into a United States Air Force base in Viet Nam. It was to be vaccinated at the age of 3 months, but before the owner could do this, the pup was scratched on the head in a fight with another animal.

Ten days later the dog began to make peculiar oral motions, rubbed his mouth with a paw, and jerked his head sharply to one side. These classic rabies symptoms were not recognized at first. Later, rabies was suspected and the animal was quarantined where he died the same day and the suspicion was confirmed.

WHAT DO YOU do next in such a situation? At least 31 people had been exposed to the infection at a party. Several of the veterinary staff also handled the dog. The problem of degree of exposure was evaluated by a board who concluded that 23 persons should be treated immediately.

Two types of rabies vaccine are available. The brain tissue serum (Pasteur) is used for definite exposure to a rabid animal and more so if a bite occurred.

Usage of the Pasteur serum is carefully weighed because there is a risk of severe reactions, including paralysis. The second and safer preventive is the anti-rabies duck-embryo vaccine. Its use is suggested whenever there is doubt about exposure such as being licked on abraded skin by a sick dog.

THE MEN who had been immunized with the duck-embryo antirabies vaccine needed only a booster shot. The others were given a full course of the same vaccine. All except one developed reactions varying from itching to serum sickness. Oddly, the military consequences were considerable. Eighteen pilots were grounded during the period the vaccine was given for fear of having a reaction while flying.

Rabid animals go into a state of excitation at which time they grow extremely restless, agitated, and tremulous. In the furious type of the disease they become erratic, aggressive, and growl and bark constantly. They grab viciously at any object or animal encountered and may wander great distances biting other animals and humans along the way. Convulsions and death follow.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

SUDDEN BOWING

A. W. B. writes: My 18-year-old son always had straight legs. But in the last few months, they have become bowed and he says they hurt. He grew 12 inches in one year. Could rapid growth be the cause?

REPLY

Possibly. There are several diseases of bones and joints that develop in growing children, especially boys. X-rays would be needed to determine whether the legs otherwise are normal.

ROQUEFORT CHEESE

R. V. writes: Is it healthy to eat blue or roquefort cheese? I am on a salt-free diet, but get so tired of cottage cheese.

REPLY

There is no harm in eating roquefort cheese.

HEAD LOWERING

F. L. G. writes: What is the purpose of putting the head lower than the body when a person faints?

REPLY

To bring blood to the brain via gravity.

BACKACHES

D. writes: Why would a perfectly straight neck and spine become painful?

REPLY

Because of fatigue, strain, arthritis, or a slipped disk. Our leaflet on backache can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

HEALED EARDRUM

L. M. writes: How long after a ruptured eardrum has been healed is swimming permissible?

REPLY

Immediately, but be sure healing has occurred.

NO AFTEREFFECTS

A. writes: Last month I was taken sick suddenly: I had abdominal pain and the doctor said it was a gallbladder attack and stomach ulcer. He gave me an injection which killed the pain at once. At 8 the next morning I woke up in the hospital and couldn't remember a thing, even though my husband says I told him what I needed to take with me and where to find it. Did this shot do anything to my mind? Since that time I've been so forgetful I'm ashamed of myself.

REPLY

No. The injection produced a temporary amnesia — a blessing when pain is severe.

PILONIDAL CYST

N. E. writes: Are pilonidal cysts at the base of the spine cancerous?

REPLY

No. These cysts are defects that form long before birth, when the two sides of the body are fusing along the back. Tissue cells that were destined to become skin have been misplaced and trapped under the surface. Later, when the cells are activated, they form a cyst near the base of the spine.

SIZE OF BOSOM

A reader writes: Could a deficiency of minerals or vitamins cause small breasts?

REPLY

The size of the bosom is an inherent characteristic varying with body build, glandular makeup, and weight. Calories — rather than vitamins and minerals — may influence the latter. Our leaflet on breast changes can be obtained by sending stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

PEPPER HARMFUL?

L.H.H. writes: My husband has high blood pressure and I have low blood sugar. Would you consider pepper harmful if it was used daily, or in large amounts?

REPLY

Pepper should not bother your husband's high blood pressure or your low blood sugar. He should not, however, use salt.

PLANTS AGAIN

J.L. writes: Do house plants cause people to have low resistance?

REPLY

No, there is no connection between the two. At one time many people thought that house plants robbed them of oxygen.

Workshop On Alcohol Abuse Set

"Getting It Together," a community workshop on alcohol abuse, sponsored by the Alcohol Information Committee, will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. April 7 at Olney Hall, College of Marin, Kentfield.

The public workshop will present theories on cause and treatment of alcoholism and "enable concerned citizens and professionals to join in scrutinizing local services," committee chairman Thomas F. Dore, reported.

During the morning session, Donald Cahalan, professor of behaviorial sciences, University of California, Berkeley, will speak at 9:40 a.m., members of Alcoholics Anonymous will talk about "Alcohol and the Family," at 10:10 a.m., Dr. Gil Ayotte, San Francisco physician, will speak at 11 a.m. and Dr. Stephen B. Karpman, psychiatrist with San Francisco's Center for Special Problems, will speak at 11:30 a.m.

During the afternoon session, starting at 1:30 p.m., workshops will be held approaching alcohol abuse from the viewpoints of schools, law enforcement, medicine-psychiatry, industry, family and social services-counseing.

Marion Kelley, executive director of the Volunteer Bureau, and Lloyd Churgin, Marin County alcohol coordinator, will lead the closing session at 3 p.m.

"The 'Getting It Together' message is all treatment methads are good for some people; it's do nothingness that harms everybody Dore said.

Couple Arrested On Drug Charge, Bench Warrant

A 25-year-old San Rafael woman was arrested yesterday on suspicion of possession of marijuana and her husband was arrested on a bench warrant, San Rafael police reported.

Beverly Ann Gardner of 727 Francisco Boulevard was held in lieu of $500 bail and Steven Curtis Gardner was held without bail for San Francisco police.

According to police reports, they saw the woman staggering around at 3 a.m. They followed her to her room and she let them search it. Inside they found her husband. Police also found some capsules, hypodermic needles and syringes and a plastic bag with vegetable matter.

Petaluma Driver Hurt In Accident

Paul S. Willett, 19, of 532 Howard Street, Petaluma, was reported in good condition at Hillcrest Hospital with a broken jaw suffered in an accident at 9:45 p.m. Saturday on North McDowell Boulevard at Corona Road, Petaluma.

The California Highway Patrol said Willett failed to stop for the stop sign at the intersection, struck a wooden pole and rolled into a drainage ditch.

Law Enforcement Agencies Vary In Public Disclosure Practice

Law enforcement agencies in Marin and Southern Sonoma practice varying degrees of public disclosure of crime in their communities, with most making all the facts of crime available to the public, according to a survey by the Independent-Journal.

Ten of the 16 agencies favor reporting all crime and its circumstances as in the public interest, or for the sake of leaving it to the press to decide what is newsworthy and proper to publish.

Five practice some degree of censorship at the police level, four saying that they limit the practice to residential burglaries and then only when victims of the crime request suppression.

Of those limiting nondisclosure to residential burglaries, one, the Mill Valley Police Department, has been ordered by the city council to withold the names and addresses of all such burglaries.

One department, Corte Madera's, witholds a wide range of criminal activity, a fact that first came to light when the department attempted to suppress reports of an armed robbery Feb. 5 at a restaurant, during which an employée was beaten, $500 stolen and the escape made by stealing the employee's car.

Knowledge of the crime was denied by a member of the force until the I-J pointed out it had some of the information from other sources.

Last Friday, the Corte Madera department's report on the death of a famous rock musician and recording star in his Corte Madera home was marked: "No press release." Knowledge of the death, however, obtained from other sources was already being carried by the wire services and radio, and the I-J reporter was allowed to read the report.

Sausalito's practice of not reporting residential burglaries came to light when John Medarious of Buchanan Drive wrote to the I-J demanding suppression of any report of a burglary at his home Feb. 14.

Police Chief James D. Wright, subsequently acknowledged that his department had suppressed the report at Medarious's request and acknowledged that this was in fact, the department's custom.

City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr, who in the past had said all reports were available to the press, expressed surprise at the department's practice but later approved it.

In Belvedere, Fairfax and Ross, the chiefs of police said they would honor burglary victims' requests for nondisclosure of the crime. But Belvedere's chief, John W. Jaeger, added thathe would inform residents seeking secrecy that he believes disclosure is an effective way of informing and alerting the community as to the crime activity.

The reason given for withholding burglary information, was that publication alerts other criminals to the existence of a potential future victim and invites repetition of the crime at that address.

Agencies reporting they practice full disclosure of criminal activity are the Marin and Sonoma County sheriffs' and the police chiefs of the cities of Cotati, Larkspur, Novato, Petaluma, Rohnert Park, San Anselmo, San Rafael and Tiburon.

They say the only exceptions to that practice are the withholding of the names of women assaulted or raped (something newspapers would not publish, in any case) juveniles by court order and details of evidence that might hinder investigation or violate court requirements (again something responsible papers avoid doing.)

The chiefs gave various reasons for full disclosure, among them that requests for censorship should be taken to the press and not performed by the police, that the people have the right to know about crime, that suppression is self defeating, ultimately drawing far greater attention to the matter for which secrecy is sought.

The practice of the Marin County Sheriff's Department is to note on reports: "Withholding of publication requested," leaving it to the press to be thus alerted but nevertheless informed.

Chief Joseph J. Brusatori said the San Rafael department advises a citizen seeking to avoid publication to take the request to the press.

Chief Raymond R. Buchignani of San Anselmo noted the possibility for unfairness if police were left to solve the knotty question of what should and what should not be reported. He said, "It's not fair to honor one request and ignore others."

Other typical comments by chiefs believing in full disclosure were:

Tiburon's Maurice D. Lafferty: "We have an open press policy. We indicate to people that the press has access to reports.

Larkspur's Howard Clark: "This department is not the arbiter of what type of news to publish."

Ghiringelli Estate Is $290,000

Joseph Ghiringhelli, late owner of the Deer Park Villa in Fairfax, left an estate of $290,000 with an annual income of $20,000, but no will to dispose of the property, according to papers filed in Marin Superior Court.

Since the 76-year-old restaurateur left no will, the courts will decide how his property is divided, but codes specify it should go to his wife, according to a court attace.

The papers were filed by Antoinette Ghiringhelli, wife of the restaurant owner who died Jan. 14 of a heart attack.

Born in Italy, Ghiringhelli began working in restaurants in San Francisco to pay his fare from Italy, then opened his first Marin restaurant in 1921. The Deer Park Villa, which is still run by his family, was founded in 1937.

Art Center Director Leaves Post

Shelagh Considine has resigned as director of the Sausalito Art Center, saying it is time for her "to seek a new challenge."

Miss Considine, who has held the post for two years, announced her intention to leave at the end of the month to the Art Center board last week.

"I think the center is on its way to being an institution," she told the Independent-Journal. "It's really gotten rolling and the time has come for someone else to take over."

Miss Considine, a goldsmith, said she hopes to move into the public relations field.

The center's assistant director, Elizabeth Douglas, will serve temporarily in the job until a successor is named.

The center board indicated it will accept applications for the post until April 1.

During Miss Considine's tenure as director, the center received its first federal grant, $7,500 from the National Endowment for the Arts.

An extensive educational program, offering a variety of classes, was developed under her direction.

Law Enforcement Agencies Vary In Public Disclosure Practice

Law enforcement agencies in Marin and Southern Sonoma practice varying degrees of public disclosure of crime in their communities, with most making all the facts of crime available to the public, according to a survey by the Independent-Journal.

Ten of the 16 agencies favor reporting all crime and its circumstances as in the public interest, or for the sake of leaving it to the press to decide what is newsworthy and proper to publish.

Five practice some degree of censorship at the police level, four saying that they limit the practice to residential burglaries and then only when victims of the crime request suppression.

Of those limiting nondisclosure to residential burglaries, one, the Mill Valley Police Department, has been ordered by the city council to withold the names and addresses of all such burglaries.

One department, Corte Madera's, witholds a wide range of criminal activity, a fact that first came to light when the department attempted to suppress reports of an armed robbery Feb. 5 at a restaurant, during which an employee was beaten, $500 stolen and the escape made by stealing the employee's car.

Knowledge of the crime was denied by a member of the force until the I-J pointed out it had some of the information from other sources.

Last Friday, the Corte Madera department's report on the death of a famous rock musician and recording star in his Corte Madera home was marked: "No press release." Knowledge of the death, however, obtained from other sources was already being carried by the wire services and radio, and the I-J reporter was allowed to read the report.

The practice of the Marin County Sheriff's Department is to note on reports: "Withholding of publication requested," leaving it to the press to be thus alerted but nevertheless informed.

Ventura: No Place For The Little Guy

Back from the Land of the Giants.

After spending the last few days in Ventura surrounded by basketball players and coaches who went anywhere from six to seven feet I was starting to feel like a midget. My neck is stiff from looking up.

With most of the players from 12 tournament junior college teams and perhaps 100 basketball coaches milling around Ventura's Holiday Inn when the action wasn't going on in the Ventura College gymnasium, the lobby at times looked like a forest of tall trees with eyes.

In addition to the tournament Thursday through Saturday, the California Community College Basketball Coaches Association held its annual meeting so when that many cage coaches get together you know there is going to be a lot of neck craning by we 5-foot-9ers.

WHEN THE TOURNAMENT was all over, after Compton College had narrowly decisioned Long Beach City College in the Championship game, 73-72, it came time for picking the all-tournament team and it turned out that the only way to get on it would be to play in that final game. The most valuable player and two members of the all-tourney team came from Compton and the other three players from Long Beach.

Most valuable player was Compton's Ike Whitfield, 6-foot-8 forward, who was joined on the allstar team by teammates Al Forney, 6-5 guard, and Dean Bowser, 6-8 forward. Long Beach players named were John Sagehorn, 6-3 guard; Floyd Heaton, 6-6 forward, and Dave Hillman, 6-5 forward.

Forney had the MVP prize all locked up before slumping in the final game when he hit a cold spell. He had scored 40 points in Compton's 125-95 win over East Los Angeles and 21 points against Marin in the semi-finals, both times leading his team. Then in the final game he scored only 12 while Whitfield was the key man in that one, scoring 21 points and grabbing 19 rebounds. Word around the press table was that Forney is headed for UCLA next year. I can believe it.

MARIN COACH John Panagakis was one of four coaches on a committee with Fred Baer, director of the JC Athletic Bureau, to pick the all-tournament team.

Also winning quite an honor was City College of San Francisco's veteran coach Sid Phelan, inducted into the California Junior College Basketball Hall of Fame prior to the start of the championship game. Sid, in 18 years of coaching basketball at S.F. City College, has taken teams to the state tournament 13 times. That's quite a record.

WHEN MARIN'S freshman guard Len Smith was matched against little brother Dave in the consolation game against City College of S.F., it was the first time they had ever played against each other in a school game.

"But we've played recreation basketball against each other," said Len, displaying that wide smile of his. Len, Dave, older brother Willie, and Jim Watkins, a brother-in-law, will all be playing in the same San Francisco recreation league this summer.

How did 21-year-old Len feel about playing against his 19-year-old brother Saturday? "When Dave and I were playing against each other

Fond Memories For Marin Tar Cagers

By RALPH CHATOIAN
I-J Sports Editor

The 1973 basketball season is all over for College of Marin's Tars but they'll have some fond memories of a great year for the rest of their lives. It was a season in which they won 27 of 32 games and went all the way to the state tournament, first time since 1961.

Marin missed by an eyelash of becoming the best junior college team in Northern California Saturday when it lost to City College of San Francisco in overtime, 69-61, in the consolation finals of the 22nd annual California State Community College Basketball Championships at Ventura College.

Compton took home the state title after a thrilling 73-72 victory over stubborn Long Beach City College before 2,900 fans in Saturday night's feature game. In the small school division Barstow won the championships with a 74-68 triumph over Menlo and Merced won the consolation crown with a 78-69 verdict over Shasta College of Redding.

"These kids really worked hard," said Marin coach John Panagakis in the dressing room as Tar players were pulling off their uniforms, for most of them, the last time they would be tugging on those white and gold jerseys. "It's really a fine group of kids."

It was the first time Panagakis had a chance to coach a team against his old coach at San Francisco's Washington High, Sid Phelan, head coach for CCSF the last 18 years. Panagakis played for Phelan when John was a high school senior in 1954.

"We've scrimmaged against each other but this is the first time we've been against each other in a regular game," said Panagakis. "Sid told me before the game if it ends in a tie we could both go home happy." It's too bad John couldn't have taken Phelan up on that bargain, but rules are rules and that five-minute overtime period had to be played.

"Yeh, I did kid with John about a tie," said Phelan. "I told him it would be great if we could both go home with the title."

In a more serious vein, Phelan said he felt his players were too tense in the first two games, a win and a loss, "but they played more relaxed against Marin. They probably only took two bad shots all game."

For Marin in that final game, it was simply a story of running out of gas. While most teams in the tourney were substituting freely for the three games, Panagakis, as he has done all seaon in tight situations, went with his front liners practically throughout. It was a gutty comeback for Marin to fight from a nine-point deficit early in the second half to finally tie the CCSF game at 55-55 on a shot by center Neil Traub with six minutes left. With both teams trying to control the ball and work for good percentage shots, the scoring came to a slowdown.

It was a tip-in shot by Marin freshman forward Wil Garner with one minute remaining which knotted the score at 59-all. Guard Joe DeMaestri tried to win it all on a drive to the

ALL-TOURNAMENT — Eddie Joe Chavez (22) of Drake High School fired one of his long-range jump shots Saturday night against Salesian of Richmond in the third-place game of the basketball Tournament of Champions at the Oakland Coliseum Arena. No. 41 is teammate John Channell. The crowd-pleasing Chavez became the first Marin player in four years to make the all-tournament team, but Salesian won the game, 70-62.

Drake's Cinderella Team Has An Untimely Ending

By LEW CODDINGTON

OAKLAND — Due to scheduling difficulties and other mundane considerations, midnight came for Cinderella at the unpoetic hour of 7:42 p.m. Saturday.

At that time, the final buzzer sounded to make official Drake High School's 70-62 loss to Salesian of Richmond in the game for third place in the basketball Tournament of Champions at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

Despite an outstanding performance by center John Channell, who scored 26 points and grabbed 18 rebounds, Drake (25-7) trailed ever since Salesian (24-8) erased an early 6-3 Pirate lead.

Pirate forward Eddie Joe Chavez scored 14 points in the game and clinched a berth on the all-tournament team, the first Marin player to be so honored since Jerry Piro of Redwood in 1969, and the first Pirate since Jerry Sprout in 1967.

Chavez, a 6-foot junior, scored 62 points and hauled down 22 rebounds in three games, and made 27 of 62 shots. Most of them came at times when other Pirates were not hitting and many of them were spectacular improvisations which drew cheers from the crowd.

And a good number of the cheers came from the Drake fans, who won one of three awards given out for the best cheering sections. The others went to Dublin and Oakland's Castlemont. Drake has never failed to win a cheering section award in five tournament appearances.

The tournament championship was won for the second straight year by San Joaquin Memorial of Fresno, which beat back a furious rally by lightning-quick Berkeley for a 70-65 victory before 12,500 fans just after Drake's game Saturday night.

Drake's fourth-place finish equaled the highest placing in TOC history by a Marin County Athletic League team, as Drake also was fourth in 1967. The only Marin team ever to do better was the 1957 Pirate aggregation, representing the North Bay League, which finished third.

"It was a great season, and they're a super team," said coach Pete Hayward of his Pirates, who won the MCAL by three games, twice beat North Bay League champion Vallejo, and became the favorite of the TOC crowds by stunning once-beaten Castlemont and nearly beating Memorial.

"The ball just wouldn't go in the hoop," Hayward said. "We couldn't move the ball the way we did in league. We were shooting with the defenses set, so we couldn't penetrate for rebounds the last two games, either."

Drake shot just 35 per cent against Salesian, making 26 of 74 shots, while the Chiefs hit a hot 57 per cent on 29 of 51.

After Drake took its early lead, Salesian went ahead by as much as 31-19, but the Pirates chipped away and got as close as 42-41 with 3:15 left in the third quarter. They came down the floor twice with chances to go ahead, but missed the shots,

Baseball Hall Of Famer Frisch Dies In Delaware

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — Baseball Hall of Famer Frankie Frisch died today at the Delaware Medical Center almost five weeks after he was injured in an automobile accident.

The 75-year-old Frisch was driving alone on Interstate 95 near Elkton, Md., on Feb. 8, when his car swerved off the road and crashed.

Frisch was listed in critical condition every day during his hospitalization. He was pronounced dead at 7:25 a.m. this morning.

Frisch was moved to the hospital's coronory unit at 6:14 a.m. and was pronounced dead about an hour later.

A hospital spokesman Andy Stern said the official cause of death was cardiac arrest.

Frisch had been in the hospital's intensive care unit until late last week, when he was moved to a private room. His condition continued to remain critical.

He is survived by his wife and a brother.

Born Sept. 9, 1898, Frisch was a product of the streets of New York City. He became famous as the "Fordham Flash" when he captained Fordham University's football, baseball and basketball teams and, after being graduated, went directly to the Giants in 1919.

He was a star second and third baseman on the 1921-22-23-24 Giants, who set a National League record of four consecutive pennants. In succession, Frisch batted .341, .327, .348 and .328 in those seasons and he hit at least .300 in each of the four world series.

A 5-foot-10, 185-pound switch-hitter, Frisch compiled a .316 lifetime batting averae in the major leagues and between 1921 and 1934 failed to hit .300 in only one season. A swift and aggressive base runner, Frisch led the league in stolen bases in 1921, 1927 and 1931.

Trevino Showing His Serious Side

MIAMI (UPI) — The myth of the "Merry Mexican" is slowly evaporating.

Lee Trevino, winner of two Professional Golfers Association tournaments in the last three weeks, is turning out to be a very serious guy when it comes to golf. He runs two miles a day, he hits 300 practice balls daily, he hasn't had a drink since July and now he says he's a nervous golfer.

"I know everybody calls me 'happy-go-lucky' and things like that, but I'm a nervous player —I think I'm just as nervous as anyone on the tour," said Trevino after firing a 1-under-par 71 Sunday for a one-stroke win in the $150,000 Doral Eastern golf tournament with 276.

The stocky Mexican-American, who won the Jackie Gleason Inverrary Classic two weeks ago, had plenty of reason to be nervous Sunday.

He had to fight off late challenges from Australian Bruce Crampton and Tom Weiskopf, who tied for second.

Trevino's $30,000 first prize nudged him ahead in the money winning race over Crampton, who dropped to second.

Trevino, who led by four strokes at the end of the first three rounds of the Doral event, looked up at the scoreboard after the 14th hole and discovered Crampton had tied him.

Crampton, birdying four of the first five holes, shot a 65—the day's best round. He had a shot at the title right up until the final hole.

But Trevino put him away with birdies on the 15th and 16th holes-on charging birdie putts of 20 and 15 feet, both of which hit the cup, bounced up and dropped in.

"I seem to play better when I'm tied or a shot ahead or a shot behind —when the chips are down," he said. "I'm not a good front-runner."

Nobody argued with him. His two birdies put him two strokes up on Crampton and Weiskopf and he promptly bogeyed the next hole—the par four 17th.

Coming up to the 18th with a one-shot lead, he said: "I kept telling myself I wasn't going to give this tournament away."

He didn't. Trevino hit the green, but 80 feet short of the cup. He putted to two feet, sank it and collected the $30,000 first prize.

The win moves Trevino's 1973 earnings to $98,275 against $91,436 for Crampton, who has held onto the money-winning lead tenaciously for the last several weeks.

The $30,000 also pushed Trevino closer to the $1 million mark he says he wants by August. Trevino, who would become the first to hit $1 million within six years, now has a career total of $957,965.

Weiskopf helped Crampton put the pressure on Trevino. As the rangy Ohioan came into the 72nd hole, he was down two to the leader. But he sank a 25-foot putt and would have set the stage for a three-way playoff, if Trevino had "given the turnament away."

Finishing tied for fourth at 280 — four strokes back — were Ralph Johnston of Marietta, Ga., and Californian Rod Curl. Napa's Ron Cerrudo had a 286, good for $1,410.

Mrs. Bailey Advances In City Golf

Melinda Bailey of Novato, who "just started to sink a few putts" at the moments when they were most needed, has moved into the second round in her annual quest for the San Francisco City Golf Championship.

Mrs. Bailey defeated 19-year-old San Francisco College freshman Barbara Vetrano, 3 and 1, yesterday to earn the right to confront Alice Miller, who defeated Mary Lowell on the 20th hole.

The field, now pared to eight, will play quarter-finals and semi-finals next weekend and finals the weekend after.

Mrs. Bailey, who has been runner-up five times, including last year, trailed Miss Vetrano until tying up the match on the 13th hole.

"What turned the match around was on 14, when I sank about a 50-foot par putt for a win," she said. The fire went out of Miss Vetrano's game, and Mrs. Bailey went on to clinch the victory with a par on 17.

If Mrs. Bailey makes the finals, she will not have to worry about Pam Palmieri, who defeated her last year for the title. Miss Palmieri was ousted yesterday by Sally Dodge, 1-up.

First-round results:

Upper Bracket — Melinda Bailey d. Barbara Vetrano, 3 and 1; Alice Miller d. Mary Lowell, 20th hole; Liana Zambresky d. Pat Cornett, 5 and 4; Cheryl Pastore d. Imogene Egner, 4 and 2.

Lower Bracket — Sally Dodge d. Pam Palmieri, 1-up; Marilyn Martinyiak d. Joanne McKissen, 5 and 4; Lauren Howe d. Sally Tomlinson, 6 and 4; Irene Gotta d. Carol Ley, 4 and 3.

FUENTES, MARICHAL

Giants' Fox Happy For Two Reasons

PHOENIX (UPI) — San Francisco Giants manager Charlie Fox has two reasons to be happy today—Tito Fuentes and Juan Marichal.

Marichal, a perennial 20-game winner who dropped to 6-16 last season because of a bad back, was impressive Sunday in his first competitive outing since undergoing spine surgery last October.

The right-hander was at his high-kicking best in working three shutout innings against Cleveland. He struck out three, including Ray Fosse on a screwball, walked none and allowed three hits.

"My back gave me no trouble," he said. "It felt the best it has been since 1971."

Fuentes, the final Giants holdout, signed his 1973 contract for a reported $45,000 in the morning and then destroyed the Indians in the afternoon with a single, double and three runs batted in as the Giants won 9-5 in the Cactus League.

The veteran second baseman received a raise of approximately $5,500. After entering the game in the middle innings, he singled home the tying run and scored the go-ahead tally in the fourth inning to snap a 3-3 tie.

Fuentes drove home two more runs in a five-run fifth with a double that hugged the third-base line.

Garry Maddox, Chris Speier, Alan Gallagher and Bobby Bonds also chipped in with two hits as San Francisco improved its Cactus record to -1. The Indians nipped the Giants 4-3 Saturday.

Gallagher, battling Dave Kingman for the Giants' third-base job, continued his hot hitting with two singles to rise his average to .751. Fosse hit a home run off Giants pitcher Don Carrithers.

Conigliaro Making Bat Noises For A's

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — Billy Conigliaro is making his presence felt with a loud bang in the training camp of the world champion Oakland Athletics.

Trying to latch onto the roster as a free agent, the former Boston Red Sox and Milwaukee Brewer outfielder showed he still has some of his old power by blasting a three-run homer Sunday as the Cleveland Indians B team nipped the A's 5-4 in the Cactus League. It was Conigliaro's second circuit swipe of the spring.

Ventura: No Place For The Little Guy

Back from the Land of the Giants.

After spending the last few days in Ventura surrounded by basketball players and coaches who went anywhere from six to seven feet I was starting to feel like a midget. My neck is stiff from looking up.

With most of the players from 12 tournament junior college teams and perhaps 100 basketball coaches milling around Ventura's Holiday Inn when the action wasn't going on in the Ventura College gymnasium, the lobby at times looked like a forest of tall trees with eyes.

In addition to the tournament Thursday through Saturday, the California Community College Basketball Coaches Association held its annual meeting so when that many cage coaches get together you know there is going to be a lot of neck craning by we 5-foot-9ers.

WHEN THE TOURNAMENT was all over, after Compton College had narrowly decisioned Long Beach City College in the Championship game, 73-72, it came time for picking the all-tournament team and it turned out that the only way to get on it would be to play in that final game. The most valuable player and two members of the all-tourney team came from Compton and the other three players from Long Beach.

Most valuable player was Compton's Ike Whitfield, 6-foot-8 forward, who was joined on the allstar team by teammates Al Forney, 6-5 guard, and Dean Bowser, 6-8 forward. Long Beach players named were John Sagehorn, 6-3 guard; Floyd Heaton, 6-6 forward, and Dave Hillman, 6-5 forward.

Forney had the MVP prize all locked up before slumping in the final game when he hit a cold spell. He had scored 40 points in Compton's 125-95 win over East Los Angeles and 21 points against Marin in the semi-finals, both times leading his team. Then in the final game he scored only 12 while Whitfield was the key man in that one, scoring 21 points and grabbing 19 rebounds. Word around the press table was that Forney is headed for UCLA next year. I can believe it.

MARIN COACH John Panagakis was one of four coaches on a committee with Fred Baer, director of the JC Athletic Bureau, to pick the all-tournament team.

Also winning quite an honor was City College of San Francisco's veteran coach Sid Phelan, inducted into the California Junior College Basketball Hall of Fame prior to the start of the championship game. Sid, in 18 years of coaching basketball at S.F. City College, has taken teams to the state tournament 13 times. That's quite a record.

WHEN MARIN'S freshman guard Len Smith was matched against little brother Dave in the consolation game against City College of S.F., it was the first time they had ever played against each other in a school game.

"But we've played recreation basketball against each other," said Len, displaying that wide smile of his. Len, Dave, older brother Willie, and Jim Watkins, a brother-in-law, will all be playing in the same San Francisco recreation league this summer.

How did 21-year-old Len feel about playing against his 19-year-old brother Saturday? "When Dave and I were playing against each other

Fond Memories For Marin Tar Cagers

Sports

Monday, March 12, 1973 Independent-Journal, 31

I-J Sports Editor

The 1973 basketball season is all over for College of Marin's Tars but they'll have some fond memories of a great year for the rest of their lives. It was a season in which they won 27 of 32 games and went all the way to the state tournament, first time since 1961.

Marin missed by an eyelash of becoming the best junior college team in Northern California Saturday when it lost to City College of San Francisco in overtime, 69-61, in the consolation finals of the 22nd annual California State Community College Basketball Championships at Ventura College.

Compton took home the state title after a thrilling 73-72 victory over stubborn Long Beach City College before 2,900 fans in Saturday night's feature game. In the small school division Barstow won the championships with a 74-68 triumph over Menlo and Merced won the consolation crown with a 78-69 verdict over Shasta College of Redding.

"These kids really worked hard," said Marin coach John Panagakis in the dressing room as Tar players were pulling off their uniforms, for most of them, the last time they would be tugging on those white and gold jerseys. "It's really a fine group of kids."

It was the first time Panagakis had a chance to coach a team against his old coach at San Francisco's Washington High, Sid Phelan, head coach for CCSF the last 18 years. Panagakis played for Phelan when John was a high school senior in 1954.

"We've scrimmaged against each other but this is the first time we've been against each other in a regular game," said Panagakis. "Sid told me before the game if it ends in a tie we could both go home happy." It's too bad John couldn't have taken Phelan up on that bargain, but rules are rules and that five-minute overtime period had to be played.

"Yeh, I did kid with John about a tie," said Phelan. "I told him it would be great if we could both go home with the title."

In a more serious vein, Phelan said he felt his players were too tense in the first two games, a win and a loss, "but they played more relaxed against Marin. They probably only took two bad shots all game."

For Marin in that final game, it was simply a story of running out of gas. While most teams in the tourney were substituting freely for the three games, Panagakis, as he has done all season in tight situations, went with his front liners practically throughout. It was a gutty comeback for Marin to fight from a nine-point deficit early in the second half to finally tie the CCSF game at 55-55 on a shot by center Neil Traub with six minutes left. With both teams trying to control the ball and work for good percentage shots, the scoring came to a slowdown.

It was a tip-in shot by Marin freshman forward Wil Garner with one minute remaining which knotted the score at 59-all. Guard Joe DeMaestri tried to win it all on a drive to the

ALL-TOURNAMENT — Eddie Joe Chavez (22) of Drake High School fired one of his long-range jump shots Saturday night against Salesian of Richmond in the third-place game of the basketball Tournament of Champions at the Oakland Coliseum Arena. No. 41 is teammate John Channell. The crowd-pleasing Chavez became the first Marin player in four years to make the all-tournament team, but Salesian won the game, 70-62.

Drake's Cinderella Team Has An Untimely Ending

By LEW CODDINGTON

OAKLAND — Due to scheduling difficulties and other mundane considerations, midnight came for Cinderella at the unpoetic hour of 7:42 p.m. Saturday.

At that time, the final buzzer sounded to make official Drake High School's 70-62 loss to Salesian of Richmond in the game for third place in the basketball Tournament of Champions at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

Despite an outstanding performance by center John Channell, who scored 26 points and grabbed 18 rebounds, Drake (25-7) trailed ever since Salesian (24-8) erased an early 6-3 Pirate lead.

Pirate forward Eddie Joe Chavez scored 14 points in the game and clinched a berth on the all-tournament team, the first Marin player to be so honored since Jerry Piro of Redwood in 1969, and the first Pirate since Jerry Sprout in 1967.

Chavez, a 6-foot junior, scored 62 points and hauled down 22 rebounds in three games, and made 27 of 62 shots. Most of them came at times when other Pirates were not hitting and many of them were spectacular improvisations which drew cheers from the crowd.

And a good number of the cheers came from the Drake fans, who won one of three awards given out for the best cheering sections. The others went to Dublin and Oakland's Castlemont. Drake has never failed to win a cheering section award in five tournament appearances.

The tournament championship was won for the second straight year by San Joaquin Memorial of Fresno, which beat back a furious rally by lightning-quick Berkeley for a 70-65 victory before 12,500 fans just after Drake's game Saturday night.

Drake's fourth-place finish equaled the highest placing in TOC history by a Marin County Athletic League team, as Drake also was fourth in 1967. The only Marin team ever to do better was the 1957 Pirate aggregation, representing the North Bay League, which finished third.

"It was a great season, and they're a super team," said coach Pete Hayward of his Pirates, who won the MCAL by three games, twice beat North Bay League champion Vallejo, and became the favorite of the TOC crowds by stunning once-beaten Castlemont and nearly beating Memorial.

"The ball just wouldn't go in the hoop," Hayward said. "We couldn't move the ball the way we did in league. We were shooting with the defenses set, so we couldn't penetrate for rebounds the last two games, either."

Drake shot just 35 per cent against Salesian, making 26 of 74 shots, while the Chiefs hit a hot 57 per cent on 29 of 51.

After Drake took its early lead, Salesian went ahead by as much as 31-19, but the Pirates chipped away and got as close as 42-41 with 3:15 left in the third quarter. They came down the floor twice with chances to go ahead, but missed the shots,

Baseball Hall Of Famer Frisch Dies In Delaware

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — Baseball Hall of Famer Frankie Frisch died today at the Delaware Medical Center almost five weeks after he was injured in an automobile accident.

The 75-year-old Frisch was driving alone on Interstate 95 near Elkton, Md., on Feb. 8, when his car swerved off the road and crashed.

Frisch was listed in critical condition every day during his hospitalization. He was pronounced dead at 7:25 a.m. this morning.

Frisch was moved to the hospital's coronory unit at 6:14 a.m. and was pronounced dead about an hour later.

A hospital spokesman Andy Stern said the official cause of death was cardiac arrest.

Frisch had been in the hospital's intensive care unit until late last week, when he was moved to a private room. His condition continued to remain critical.

He is survived by his wife and a brother.

Born Sept. 9, 1898, Frisch was a product of the streets of New York City. He became famous as the "Fordham Flash" when he captained Fordham University's football, baseball and basketball teams and, after being graduated, went directly to the Giants in 1919.

Trevino Showing His Serious Side

MIAMI (UPI) — The myth of the "Merry Mexican" is slowly evaporating.

Lee Trevino, winner of two Professional Golfers Association tournaments in the last three weeks, is turning out to be a very serious guy when it comes to golf. He runs two miles a day, he hits 300 practice balls daily, he hasn't had a drink since July and now he says he's a nervous golfer.

"I know everybody calls me 'happy-go-lucky' and things like that, but I'm a nervous player —I think I'm just as nervous as anyone on the tour," said Trevino after firing a 1-under-par 71 Sunday for a one-stroke win in the $150,000 Doral Eastern golf tournament with 276.

The stocky Mexican-American, who won the Jackie Gleason Inverrary Classic two weeks ago, had plenty of reason to be nervous Sunday.

He had to fight off late challenges from Australian Bruce Crampton and Tom Weiskopf, who tied for second.

Trevino's $30,000 first prize nudged him ahead in the money winning race over Crampton, who dropped to second.

Trevino, who led by four strokes at the end of the first three rounds of the Doral event, looked up at the scoreboard after the 14th hole and discovered Crampton had tied him.

Crampton, birdying four of the first five holes, shot a 65—the day's best round. He had a shot at the title right up until the final hole.

But Trevino put him away with birdies on the 15th and 16th holes-on charging birdie putts of 20 and 15 feet, both of which hit the cup, bounced up and dropped in.

"I seem to play better when I'm tied or a shot ahead or a shot behind —when the chips are down," he said. "I'm not a good front-runner."

Nobody argued with him. His two birdies put him two strokes up on Crampton and Weiskopf and he promptly bogeyed the next hole—the par four 17th.

Coming up to the 18th with a one-shot lead, he said: "I kept telling myself I wasn't going to give this tournament away."

He didn't. Trevino hit the green, but 80 feet short of the cup. He putted to two feet, sank it and collected the $30,000 first prize.

The win moves Trevino's 1973 earnings to $98,275 against $91,436 for Crampton, who has held onto the money-winning lead tenaciously for the last several weeks.

The $30,000 also pushed Trevino closer to the $1 million mark he says he wants by August. Trevino, who would become the first to hit $1 million within six years, now has a career total of $957,965.

Weiskopf helped Crampton put the pressure on Trevino. As the rangy Ohioan came into the 72nd hole, he was down two to the leader. But he sank a 25-foot putt and would have set the stage for a three-way playoff, if Trevino had "given the turnament away."

Finishing tied for fourth at 280 — four strokes back — were Ralph Johnston of Marietta, Ga., and Californian Rod Curl. Napa's Ron Cerrudo had a 286, good for $1,410.

Mrs. Bailey Advances In City Golf

Melinda Bailey of Novato, who "just started to sink a few putts" at the moments when they were most needed, has moved into the second round in her annual quest for the San Francisco City Golf Championship.

Mrs. Bailey defeated 19-year-old San Francisco College freshman Barbara Vetrano, 3 and 1, yesterday to earn the right to confront Alice Miller, who defeated Mary Lowell on the 20th hole.

The field, now pared to eight, will play quarter-finals and semi-finals next weekend and finals the weekend after.

Mrs. Bailey, who has been runner-up five times, including last year, trailed Miss Vetrano until tying up the match on the 13th hole.

"What turned the match around was on 14, when I sank about a 50-foot par putt for a win," she said. The fire went out of Miss Vetrano's game, and Mrs. Bailey went on to clinch the victory with a par on 17.

If Mrs. Bailey makes the finals, she will not have to worry about Pam Palmieri, who defeated her last year for the title. Miss Palmieri was ousted yesterday by Sally Dodge, 1-up.

First-round results:

Upper Bracket — Melinda Bailey d. Barbara Vetrano, 3 and 1; Alice Miller d. Mary Lowell, 20th hole; Liana Zambresky d. Pat Cornett, 5 and 4; Cheryl Pastore d. Imogene Egner, 4 and 2.

Lower Bracket — Sally Dodge d. Pam Palmieri, 1-up; Marilyn Martinyiak d. Joanne McKissen, 5 and 4; Lauren Howe d. Sally Tomlinson, 6 and 4; Irene Gotta d. Carol Ley, 4 and 3.

Today is Monday, March 12, the 71st day of 1973 with 294 to follow.

The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

American astronomer Simon Newcomb was born March 12, 1835.

On this day in history:

In 1912, the first Girl Scouts of America troop was organized in Savannah, Ga., by Mrs. Juliette Gordon Law.

In 1933, after only eight days in office, President Franklin D. Roosevelt addressed the nation in the first of his many radio "Fireside Chats."

In 1938, Germany invated Austria.

In 1963, the House of Representatives voted to grant Former British Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill honorary U.S. citizenship.

A thought for the day: American writer John Marquand said, "It is worthwhile for anyone to have behind him a few generations of honest, hard-working ancestry."

SANTA ROSA — A Rohnert Park man was arrested on suspicion of murder after a Santa Rosa woman was shot to death early today.

Walker L. Moore, 25, was booked into Sonoma County Jail on suspicion of killing Sue Elizabeth Dandida, 25.

Santa Rosa police said the woman was killed by two shotgun blasts outside a Santa Rosa apartment building. William C. Middlebrook told police there was an argument outside the building and as he was walking back inside he heard two shots and found the woman fatally wounded on the sidewalk.

Moore was arrested by Cotati police and charged with first degree murder.

Southern California Weather To Clear

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Weather forecasters predicted clearing and windy weather in Southern California today in the wake of an icy storm from the Pacific Northwest which pelted the Southland with rain, snow and hail on Sunday.

The National Weather Service said a new storm is approaching from the Gulf of Alaska and could arrive here by Wednesday.

Sunday's storm brought as much as 12 inches of new snow to Southern California mountain areas, and the rainfall in many foothill communities exceeded 1.25 inches. Most points in the coastal area reported over one-half inch of rain and occasional outbursts of hail, making driving conditions hazardous throughou the Southland.

Police had to block off a four-mile section of the Ventura Freeway for 30 minutes Sunday night after icy roads and hail caused a series of collisions involving a total of 30 cars. The California Highway Patrol reported that two persons were injured in the accidents.

In San Diego County, police patrol cars with flashing warning lights slowed down drivers on Interstate 8 and Interstate 15, where heavy afternoon rainfall produced dangerously slick roads.

Travelers warnings for heavy snowfall were issued on most mountain highways and small craft warnings were posted along the coast for winds of up to 30 miles per hour.

Hail and sleet coated streets in Orange Sunday afternoon, and the Los Angeles Police Department issued a traffic alert for icy roads due to hail and sleet in the Eagle Rock area.

Police attributed a total of nine traffic deaths during the weekend to the rain-slicked streets and freeways. In one incident, Robert L. Davis, 37, of Whittier, and Gerald E. Vona, 39, of Hunting Beach, were killed when they pulled out in front of another car on the Pacific Coast Highway Sunday. The other driver, Robert M. Doolittle, 30, Seal Beach, was in good condition.

Sunday's storm increased Southern California's rainfall total to 19.72 inches for the season, compared with an average of 11.91 for this date and last year's total of 7.04 inches.

Nuclear Power Called One Energy Need Plan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Division of Oil and Gas, declaring electricity and fuel needs are expected to double by 1985, has warned that California can't bank on nuclear power as a solution to demand problems.

In a report on California's energy picture, the division said nuclear power is one of several alternatives for meeting future demands but that it should not be considered as a primary source.

The 69-page report said that "technological and economic problems facing the successful development of (nuclear) fusion are so great" it would not be a practical energy source within the next 15 years.

The report also said "oil alone will still supply more than half our total energy needs in 1985," adding that a "complete substitution" of atomic fuel for oil and gas would satisfy only 25 per cent of the total demand in the next decade.

The Reagan administration's report comes at a time when the Assembly Subcommittee on State Electrical Energy Policy is conducting hearings on California's energy needs, particularly the potential for nuclear power.

Assemblyman Charles D. Warren, D-Los Angeles, subcommittee chairman, has said his panel will draft legislation that will, among other things, focus on a Rand Corp., report recommending the state slow down its energy growth rate.

The administration report, however, suggests that a change in the energy rate might have a negative affect on the economy.

"A very close relationship between energy consumption and the gross national product," the report said. "If steps to restrict energy consumption are based on measures which will make energy use too costly for certain segments of society, then there is a real risk the growth of the GNP will suffer." The report, prepared for the state Resources Agency, said California already is in the midst of an "energy crisis" but not because of a lack of resources.

"There is no shortage of energy resources in the nation," it said, "but there is a shortage of environmentally acceptable energy resources. And there is a shortage of inexpensive energy resources."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Exposure To Rabies Infection Can Be Treated In Two Ways

A puppy bought as a mascot was imported into a United States Air Force base in Viet Nam. It was to be vaccinated at the age of 3 months, but before the owner could do this, the pup was scratched on the head in a fight with another animal.

Ten days later the dog began to make peculiar oral motions, rubbed his mouth with a paw, and jerked his head sharply to one side. These classic rabies symptoms were not recognized at first. Later, rabies was suspected and the animal was quarantined where he died the same day and the suspicion was confirmed.

WHAT DO YOU do next in such a situation? At least 31 people had been exposed to the infection at a party. Several of the veterinary staff also handled the dog. The problem of degree of exposure was evaluated by a board who concluded that 23 persons should be treated immediately.

Two types of rabies vaccine are available. The brain tissue serum (Pasteur) is used for definite exposure to a rabid animal and more so if a bite occurred.

Usage of the Pasteur serum is carefully weighed because there is a risk of severe reactions, including paralysis. The second and safer preventive is the anti-rabies duck-embryo vaccine. Its use is suggested whenever there is doubt about exposure such as being licked on abraded skin by a sick dog.

THE MEN who had been immunized with the duck-embryo antirabies vaccine needed only a booster shot. The others were given a full course of the same vaccine. All except one developed reactions varying from itching to serum sickness. Oddly, the military consequences were considerable. Eighteen pilots were grounded during the period the vaccine was given for fear of having a reaction while flying.

Rabid animals go into a state of excitation at which time they grow extremely restless, agitated, and tremulous. In the furious type of the disease they become erratic, aggressive, and growl and bark constantly. They grab viciously at any object or animal encountered and may wander great distances biting other animals and humans along the way. Convulsions and death follow.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

SUDDEN BOWING

A. W. B. writes: My 18-year-old son always had straight legs. But in the last few months, they have become bowed and he says they hurt. He grew 12 inches in one year. Could rapid growth be the cause?

REPLY

Possibly. There are several diseases of bones and joints that develop in growing children, especially boys. X-rays would be needed to determine whether the legs otherwise are normal.

ROQUEFORT CHEESE

R. V. writes: Is it healthy to eat blue or roquefort cheese? I am on a salt-free diet, but get so tired of cottage cheese.

REPLY

There is no harm in eating roquefort cheese.

HEAD LOWERING

F. L. G. writes: What is the purpose of putting the head lower than the body when a person faints?

REPLY

To bring blood to the brain via gravity.

BACKACHES

D. writes: Why would a perfectly straight neck and spine become painful?

REPLY

Because of fatigue, strain, arthritis, or a slipped disk. Our leaflet on backache can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

HEALED EARDRUM

L. M. writes: How long after a ruptured eardrum has been healed is swimming permissible?

REPLY

Immediately, but be sure healing has occurred.

NO AFTEREFFECTS

A. writes: Last month I was taken sick suddenly: I had abdominal pain and the doctor said it was a gallbladder attack and stomach ulcer. He gave me an injection which killed the pain at once. At 8 the next morning I woke up in the hospital and couldn't remember a thing, even though my husband says I told him what I needed to take with me and where to find it. Did this shot do anything to my mind? Since that time I've been so forgetful I'm ashamed of myself.

REPLY

No. The injection produced a temporary amnesia — a blessing when pain is severe.

PILONIDAL CYST

N. E. writes: Are pilonidal cysts at the base of the spine cancerous?

REPLY

No. These cysts are defects that form long before birth, when the two sides of the body are fusing along the back. Tissue cells that were destined to become skin have been misplaced and trapped under the surface. Later, when the cells are activated, they form a cyst near the base of the spine.

SIZE OF BOSOM

A reader writes: Could a deficiency of minerals or vitamins cause small breasts?

REPLY

The size of the bosom is an inherent characteristic varying with body build, glandular makeup, and weight. Calories — rather than vitamins and minerals — may influence the latter. Our leaflet on breast changes can be obtained by sending stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

PEPPER HARMFUL?

L.H.H. writes: My husband has high blood pressure and I have low blood sugar. Would you consider pepper harmful if it was used daily, or in large amounts?

REPLY

Pepper should not bother your husband's high blood pressure or your low blood sugar. He should not, however, use salt.

PLANTS AGAIN

J.L. writes: Do house plants cause people to have low resistance?

REPLY

No, there is no connection between the two. At one time many people thought that house plants robbed them of oxygen.

DIFFICULT GOAL

Warriors Seek 51-31 Record

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — After splitting a pair of games on the East Coast over the weekend, the Golden State Warriors find themselves hard-pressed to match last year's 51-31 record.

With 10 National Basketball Association games left, the Warriors are 43-29. They must win eight of their remaining contests to match last season's mark. Scattered among the 10 are such stalwarts as the Milwaukee Bucks, Los Angeles Lakers and New York Knicks.

Golden State moved a step closer to that goal Sunday night in Pittsburgh by getting some last second heroics from forward Rick Barry and guard Jim Barnett to pull out a 97-93 win over the Philadelphia 76ers.

Barnett's three-point play and a free throw by Barry in the final 13 seconds made the difference.

The 76ers had overcome an eight-point deficit to tie the score 93-93 on a layup by Freddie Boyd with 24 seconds to play.

Eleven seconds later, Barry sank one of two free throws to give the Warriors their winning point. Barry then stole the inbounds pass and fed Barnett who scored with only three seconds remaining. He was fouled on the play and got three chances at the free-throw line because 76ers coach Kevin Loughery was slapped with two technical fouls on the play for yelling at officials.

Barnett made one of the three for the Warriors final point.

The Warriors end their three-game trip in Portland Tuesday night.

and Salesian recovered to build the lead back up to seven.

Salesian spread its scoring around, with Granville Smith scoring 20 points, Myron Jordan 17, Ray Canepa 15 and James Thomas 12.

"We couldn't contain 41," said Salesian coach Russ Critchfield of Channell, who made 12 of 18 shots, many coming after one of his 12 offensive rebounds.

"Even when we were away ahead, I figured they (Drake) would come at us in the second half, but I felt if we stayed ahead we would b all right. We kept our poise."

Chosen along with Chavez on the all-tournament team were Ruppert Jones, Gene Ransom and Zerone Jefferson of Berkeley; Nelson Beazley, Cliff Pondexter and Kevin Caston of Memorial; Jordan of Salesian; Ted Otterstetter of Arroyo of San Lorenzo; and/Julius Bolds of Wilson of San Francisco.

Jones was chosen for the third straight year, an unprecedented feat.

For the first time, the selection committee was made up of a board of coaches, one from each of the participating leagues. Dick Hart of Redwood represented the MCAL.

Another Disaster Strikes Musselman

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Lightning has struck Bill Musselman; again and the Big Ten title has escaped.

Musselman, the Minesota coach who says, "defeat is worse than death because you have to live with defeat," is getting a chance to find out what it's like living with defeat.

Musselman's Gophers, ranked fourth in the nation, blew the Big Ten championship Saturday when they lost their second game in a row to a tail-end team 79-74 to Northwestern, a 19-game loser.

Minnesota's loss, combined with Indiana's 77-72 victory over Purdue, gave the Hoosiers their first outright Big Ten title in 15 years and sent Indiana into the NCAA tournament.

Top-ranked UCLA got ready for its try at a seventh straight National Collegiate Athletic Association championship by crushing cross-town rival Southern California 76-56 as Bill Walton had 17 points and 20 rebounds to lift the Bruins to their 71st straight victory.

No. 2 North Carolina State also finished unbeaten but the Wolfpack, on probation for a recruiting violation, don't get to play for the NCAA title. Led by 7-foot-4 Tom Burleson's shot-blocking and 14 rebounds, N.C. State became only the second team in history to win the Atlantic Coast Conference crown with a perfect record, edging Maryland 76-74 in the finals of the conference tournament.

Indiana was the last team to qualify for the NCAA tournament, which began Saturday with form generally prevailing. The first-round results set up these pairings for Thursday night's regional semifinals:

EAST (at Charlotte, N.C.)—Penn (21-5) vs. Providence (25-2); Maryland (22-6) vs. Syracuse (23-4).

MIDEAST (at Nashville, Tenn.)—Austin Peay (22-5) vs. Kentucky (19-7); Marquette (24-3) vs. Indiana (19-5).

MIDWEST (at Houston)—South Carolina (21-6) vs. Memphis State (21-5); Southwestern Louisiana (24-3) vs. Kansas State (22-4).

WEST (at Los Angeles)—Long Beach St. (25-2) vs. San Francisco (22-4); Arizona State (19-7) vs. UCLA (26-0).

Four players, led by Steve Downing who had 20 points, scored in double figures for Indiana, which appeared to be out of contention in the Big Ten race until last Monday night when Minnesota lost to Iowa, the conference's ninth-place team, 79-77.

Wooden, whose UCLA teams now have compiled the astounding record of 201-5 over the last seven seasons, said he was concerned about the regional semifinal matchup against Arizona State even though it will be played on the Bruins home court.

"UCLA played Arizona State at Provo in the regionals in 1963," Wooden recalled. "I had a team that was almost as good as my undefeated team of 1964 (UCLA's first national championship). Arizona State hit the first 15 shots they took and beat us 93-79."

Syracuse nearly blew a 19-point led but held off a late rally to nip Furman 83-82 behind 22 points by Mike Lee and 18 by Dennis Duval. Austin Peay upset Jacksonville 77-75 as freshman star James "Fly" Williams hit a 12-foot jump shot with three seconds to go. Williams finished with 26 points. Penn rallied from an early deficit, then beat St. John's 62-61 on a late jump shot by John Jablonski.

Leonard Gray All-America Ed Ratleff scored 25 points apiece to lead third-ranked Long Beach State over No. 19 Weber State 88-75; as fifth-ranked Marquette topped Miami (Ohio) 77-62; and sixth-ranked Providence beat St. Joseph's (Pa.) 89-76 behind 31 points by Ernie DiGregorio, 25 of them in the second half.

Dwight Lamar's 35 points and Roy Ebron's 23 led 12th-ranked Southwestern Louisiana over ninth-ranked Houston 102-89; No. 16 Arizona State rolled over Oklahoma City 103-78; and South Carolina pulled away in the last six minutes to beat Texas Tech 78-70 as Kevin Joyce scored 21 points.

Roto Rooter Takes Team Kegler Title

Roto Rooter captured the team championship and the duo of Larry Jones and Lou Eastland won the doubles title in the 25th annual Marin County Men's Bowling Association tournament which concluded Saturday and yesterday at Country Club Bowl in San Rafael and Nave Lanes in Ignacio.

The Roto Rooter team of Marion Ray, Myron Holmes, Jeff Bernard, Bob Curtin and Ron Reagan6bowled 2,933 with a 264 handicap for 3,197 pins, a scant eight better than Red Carpet Realtors.

Jones and Eastland combined for 1,334-82—1,416, some 18 pins ahead of Olando Conti and Bill Henderson.

The 706 series rolled by Don Vattuone the previous weekend withstood the challenge of Phil Biacocchi, who bowled 704, so Vattuone won the singles event. Mike Weddell's all-around series of 2,112 of two weeks ago also stood up to give him the all-events title.

San Rafael's Winning Wheels team of physically handicapped bowlers rolled 2,454. Team members were Walter Hughes, Hal Frazier, Russ Bolke, Irv Myerson and Phil Myers.

Results, which are unofficial (official results will be posted at all Marin bowling establishments within 10 days):

Team — Roto Rooter (Marion Ray, Myron Holmes, Jeff Bernardi, Bob Curtin, Ron Reagan), 2,933-264-3,197; Red Carpet Realtors, 2,787-402—3,189; Nave Lanes No. 1 2,751-410—3,161.

basket down the baseline but he was whistled for an offensive foul as he tried to put the ball up. San Francisco lost the ball out f bounds before it could get off a shot.

Garner and DeMaestri paced Marin in the final game as well as total for the three-game tourney. Each scored 19 Saturday, giving Garner a total of 49 points and DeMaestri 41. Traub scored 36 points total, forward Joe Casteel 35 and Len Smith 25. Traub ended up with 37 rebounds and Garner 30.

Unlike the blitzing Marin suffered in the semi-finals Friday night against Compton, 90-65, Saturday's game was a tight battle most of the way, Marin trailing at the half, 37-32. When CCSF tried to pull away with that nine-point lead, Marin came storming back.

The most interesting matchup of the game was between the Smith brothers, and I don't mean cough drops. Marin's Len Smith, 21, a freshman guard, was playing against oung brother Dave, 18, freshman guard for San Francisco. The younger Smith won his first matchup between the two, 18-2, his 18 points making him high man for CCSF.

tonight we were both out for blood." Although Len was smiling when he said it, the way they played you know he meant it.

THE TOURNAMENT WAS all seriousness for Panagakis. Instead of having the Tars stay at Holiday Inn, or at least in Ventura where the rest of the players stayed, Panagakis lodged the team in Fillmore, a little community about 23 miles from Ventura, so there would be no distractions for the players. That far out of the way, I'm sure there wasn't.

Tiburon's Rice Wins 5 Swimming Events

Denis Rice of Tiburon won five events and a relay and was second in another race yesterday in the 40-44 age bracket of the San Francisco State University Invitational Masters swimming meet.

Rice won the 50, 100, 200 and 500-yard freestyles and the 100 backstroke, was second in the 200 back, and swam on the winning 200 free relay team with Bill Foehr of San Rafael. Both represented the Olympic Club of San Francisco.

Jane McCollister of San Rafael and the Marin Aquatic Club won the 100 and 200 breaststrokes and the 100, 200 and 500 freestyles in the 50-54 age bracket. Marin A.C.'s Dore Schwab of Ross was second in the 50 butterfly and Ed Kadel of San Rafael third in the 100 breast.

Foeher won the 100 and 200 breasts and the 200 individual medley and was fourth in the 50 fly and 200 free and fifth in the 100 fly in the 30-34 age bracket.

Redwood Crews Win 2 Races Saturday

The Redwood High School varsity lightweight and heavyweight crews each won races Saturday against St. Joseph's School for Boys of Alameda, the heavyweights doing 5:40 for 1,500 meters to St. Joseph's 6:02, and the lightweights doing 5:32 to St. Joseph's 6:12 on Corte Madera Creek.

The meet originally was scheduled for Friday but postponed until Saturday because the Alameda rowers were tied up in traffic and failed to arrive in time Friday. Redwood's next meet will be Friday at 4 p.m. on Corte Madera Creek against Concordia of Oakland.

Suburban Softballers Open Play March 31

Suburban Auto of San Rafael will begin play in the Golden Gate Travel softball league March 31 with a doubleheader beginning at 7:15 p.m. against Atlas Tree Service of Concord at Albert Field in San Rafael.

Suburban will play a 20-game schedule in the 12-team world class (AA) league, with the regular season to end June 9 and playoffs to follow involving three divisional winners and the runner-up with the best winning percentage.

Golf Play Postponed

The 18-hole qualifying round for the National Cup Golf Tournament last Saturday at San Geronimo National Golf Club was interrupted by rain and will be completed this Saturday.

ATHLETICS

1972 World Series hero Gene Tenace is showing some rough edges.

Switched from catcher to first base this season because of a sore throwing arm, Tenace dropped a double play ball in the sixth inning. On the next pitch, non-roster shortstop Dave Ragland socked a three-run homer off rookie Chris Floethe to give Cleveland a 4-3 lead.

Cleveland won the game in the 10th inning when Chris Chambliss singled home Oscar Gamble who had opened the frame with a triple off loser Buddy Copeland.

MIDWEST (at Houston)—South Carolina (21-6) vs. Memphis State (21-5); Southwestern Louisiana (24-3) vs. Kansas State (22-4).

WEST (at Los Angeles)—Long Beach St. (25-2) vs. San Francisco (22-4); Arizona State (19-7) vs. UCLA (26-0).

Four players, led by Steve Downing who had 20 points, scored in double figures for Indiana, which appeared to be out of contention in the Big Ten race until last Monday night when Minnesota lost to Iowa, the conference's ninth-place team, 79-77.

Wooden, whose UCLA teams now have compiled the astounding record of 201-5 over the last seven seasons, said he was concerned about the regional semifinal matchup against Arizona State even though it will be played on the Bruins home court.

"UCLA played Arizona State at Provo in the regionals in 1963," Wooden recalled. "I had a team that was almost as good as my undefeated team of 1964 (UCLA's first national champions). Arizona State hit the first 15 shots they took and beat us 93-79."

Syracuse nearly blew a 19-point led but held off a late rally to nip Furman 83-82 behind 22 points by Mike Lee and 18 by Dennis Duval. Austin Peay upset Jacksonville 77-75 as freshman star James "Fly" Williams hit a 12-foot jump shot with three seconds to go. Williams finished with 26 points. Penn rallied from an early deficit, then beat St. John's 62-61 on a late jump shot by John Jablonski.

Leonard Gray All-America Ed Ratleff scored 25 points apiece to lead third-ranked Long Beach State over No. 19 Weber State 88-75; as fifth-ranked Marquette topped Miami (Ohio) 77-62; and sixth-ranked Providence beat St. Joseph's (Pa.) 89-76 behind 31 points by Ernie DiGregorio, 25 of them in the second half.

Dwight Lamar's 35 points and Roy Ebron's 23 led 12th-ranked Southwestern Louisiana over ninth-ranked Houston 102-89; No. 16 Arizona State rolled over Oklahoma City 103-78; and South Carolina pulled away in the last six minutes to beat Texas Tech 78-70 as Kevin Joyce scored 21 points.

1972 World Series hero Gene Tenace is showing some rough edges.

Switched from catcher to first base this season because of a sore throwing arm, Tenace dropped a double play ball in the sixth inning. On the next pitch, non-roster shortstop Dave Ragland socked a three-run homer off rookie Chris Floethe to give Cleveland a 4-3 lead.

Cleveland won the game in the 10th inning when Chris Chambliss singled home Oscar Gamble who had opened the frame with a triple off loser Buddy Copeland.

Roto Rooter Takes Team Kegler Title

Roto Rooter captured the team championship and the duo of Larry Jones and Lou Eastland won the doubles title in the 25th annual Marin County Men's Bowling Association tournament which concluded Saturday and yesterday at Country Club Bowl in San Rafael and Nave Lanes in Ignacio.

The Roto Rooter team of Marion Ray, Myron Holmes, Jeff Bernard, Bob Curtin and Ron Reagan6bowled 2,933 with a 264 handicap for 3,197 pins, a scant eight better than Red Carpet Realtors.

Jones and Eastland combined for 1,334-82—1,416, some 18 pins ahead of Olando Conti and Bill Henderson.

The 706 series rolled by Don Vattuone the previous weekend withstood the challenge of Phil Biacocchi, who bowled 704, so Vattuone won the singles event. Mike Weddell's all-around series of 2,112 of two weeks ago also stood up to give him the all-events title.

San Rafael's Winning Wheels team of physically handicapped bowlers rolled 2,454. Team members were Walter Hughes, Hal Frazier, Russ Bolke, Irv Myerson and Phil Myers.

Results, which are unofficial (official results will be posted at all Marin bowling establishments within 10 days):

All Events — Mike Weddell, 698-646-648-120—2,112; Larry Jones, 704-660-551-108—2,023; Ron Mendell, 551-620-567-240—2,008.

Singles — Don Vattuone, 622-84—706; Phil Biacocchi, 664-40—704; Walt Silva, 640-58-698.

Suburban Softballers Open Play March 31

Suburban Auto of San Rafael will begin play in the Golden Gate Travel softball league March 31 with a doubleheader beginning at 7:15 p.m. against Atlas Tree Service of Concord at Albert Field in San Rafael.

Suburban will play a 20-game schedule in the 12-team world class (AA) league, with the regular season to end June 9 and playoffs to follow involving three divisional winners and the runner-up with the best winning percentage.

A TRAUB REBOUND — College of Marin center Neil Traub, 6-foot-9 cager who led the Tars in rebounding at the state tournament in Ventura with 37, outbattled Riverside City College's Walt Wilson (4) and Dwight Tyler (53) for this one in Marin's 73-64 tourney opening victory. Also reaching for the ball was Marin's Joe Casteel. Marin lost its next two tourney games.

basket down the baseline but he was whistled for an offensive foul as he tried to put the ball up. San Francisco lost the ball out f bounds before it could get off a shot.

Garner and DeMaestri paced Marin in the final game as well as total for the three-game tourney. Each scored 19 Saturday, giving Garner a total of 49 points and DeMaestri 41. Traub scored 36 points total, forward Joe Casteel 35 and Len Smith 25. Traub ended up with 37 rebounds and Garner 30.

Unlike the blitzing Marin suffered in the semi-finals Friday night against Compton, 90-65, Saturday's game was a tight battle most of the way, Marin trailing at the half, 37-32. When CCSF tried to pull away with that nine-point lead, Marin came storming back.

The most interesting matchup of the game was between the Smith brothers, and I don't mean cough drops. Marin's Len Smith, 21, a freshman guard, was playing against oung brother Dave, 18, freshman guard for San Francisco. The younger Smith won his first matchup between the two, 18-2, his 18 points making him high man for CCSF.

tonight we were both out for blood." Although Len was smiling when he said it, the way they played you know he meant it.

THE TOURNAMENT WAS all seriousness for Panagakis. Instead of having the Tars stay at Holiday Inn, or at least in Ventura where the rest of the players stayed, Panagakis lodged the team in Fillmore, a little community about 23 miles from Ventura, so there would be no distractions for the players. That far out of the way, I'm sure there wasn't.

Tiburon's Rice Wins 5 Swimming Events

Denis Rice of Tiburon won five events and a relay and was second in another race yesterday in the 40-44 age bracket of the San Francisco State University Invitational Masters swimming meet.

Rice won the 50, 100, 200 and 500-yard freestyles and the 100 backstroke, was second in the 200 back, and swam on the winning 200 free relay team with Bill Foehr of San Rafael. Both represented the Olympic Club of San Francisco.

Jane McCollister of San Rafael and the Marin Aquatic Club won the 100 and 200 breaststrokes and the 100, 200 and 500 freestyles in the 50-54 age bracket. Marin A.C.'s Dore Schwab of Ross was second in the 50 butterfly and Ed Kadel of San Rafael third in the 100 breast.

Foeher won the 100 and 200 breasts and the 200 individual medley and was fourth in the 50 fly and 200 free and fifth in the 100 fly in the 30-34 age bracket.

Redwood Crews Win 2 Races Saturday

The Redwood High School varsity lightweight and heavyweight crews each won races Saturday against St. Joseph's School for Boys of Alameda, the heavyweights doing 5:40 for 1,500 meters to St. Joseph's 6:02, and the lightweights doing 5:32 to St. Joseph's 6:12 on Corte Madera Creek.

The meet originally was scheduled for Friday but postponed until Saturday because the Alameda rowers were tied up in traffic and failed to arrive in time Friday. Redwood's next meet will be Friday at 4 p.m. on Corte Madera Creek against Concordia of Oakland.

DIFFICULT GOAL

Warriors Seek 51-31 Record

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — After splitting a pair of games on the East Coast over the weekend, the Golden State Warriors find themselves hard-pressed to match last year's 51-31 record.

With 10 National Basketball Association games left, the Warriors are 43-29. They must win eight of their remaining contests to match last season's mark. Scattered among the 10 are such stalwarts as the Milwaukee Bucks, Los Angeles Lakers and New York Knicks.

Golden State moved a step closer to that goal Sunday night in Pittsburgh by getting some last second heroics from forward Rick Barry and guard Jim Barnett to pull out a 97-93 win over the Philadelphia 76ers.

Barnett's three-point play and a free throw by Barry in the final 13 seconds made the difference.

The 76ers had overcome an eight-point deficit to tie the score 93-93 on a layup by Freddie Boyd with 24 seconds to play.

Eleven seconds later, Barry sank one of two free throws to give the Warriors their winning point. Barry then stole the inbounds pass and fed Barnett who scored with only three seconds remaining. He was fouled on the play and got three chances at the free-throw line because 76ers coach Kevin Loughery was slapped with two technical fouls on the play for yelling at officials.

Barnett made one of the three for the Warriors final point.

The Warriors end their three-game trip in Portland Tuesday night.

and Salesian recovered to build the lead back up to seven.

Salesian spread its scoring around, with Granville Smith scoring 20 points, Myron Jordan 17, Ray Canepa 15 and James Thomas 12.

"We couldn't contain 41," said Salesian coach Russ Critchfield of Channell, who made 12 of 18 shots, many coming after one of his 12 offensive rebounds.

"Even when we were away ahead, I figured they (Drake) would come at us in the second half, but I felt if we stayed ahead we would b all right. We kept our poise."

Chosen along with Chavez on the all-tournament team were Ruppert Jones, Gene Ransom and Zerone Jefferson of Berkeley; Nelson Beazley, Cliff Pondexter and Kevin Caston of Memorial; Jordan of Salesian; Ted Otterstetter of Arroyo of San Lorenzo; and/Julius Bolds of Wilson of San Francisco.

Jones was chosen for the third straight year, an unprecedented feat.

For the first time, the selection committee was made up of a board of coaches, one from each of the participating leagues. Dick Hart of Redwood represented the MCAL.

Law Enforcement Agencies Vary In Public Disclosure Practice

Law enforcement agencies in Marin and Southern Sonoma practice varying degrees of public disclosure of crime in their communities, with most making all the facts of crime available to the public, according to a survey by the Independent-Journal.

Ten of the 16 agencies favor reporting all crime and its circumstances as in the public interest, or for the sake of leaving it to the press to decide what is newsworthy and proper to publish.

Five practice some degree of censorship at the police level, four saying that they limit the practice to residential burglaries and then only when victims of the crime request suppression.

Of those limiting nondisclosure to residential burglaries, one, the Mill Valley Police Department, has been ordered by the city council to withold the names and addresses of all such burglaries.

One department, Corte Madera's, witholds a wide range of criminal activity, a fact that first came to light when the department attempted to suppress reports of an armed robbery Feb. 5 at a restaurant, during which an employée was beaten, $500 stolen and the escape made by stealing the employee's car.

Knowledge of the crime was denied by a member of the force until the I-J pointed out it had some of the information from other sources.

Last Friday, the Corte Madera department's report on the death of a famous rock musician and recording star in his Corte Madera home was marked: "No press release." Knowledge of the death, however, obtained from other sources was already being carried by the wire services and radio, and the I-J reporter was allowed to read the report.

Sausalito's practice of not reporting residential burglaries came to light when John Medarious of Buchanan Drive wrote to the I-J demanding suppression of any report of a burglary at his home Feb. 14.

Police Chief James D. Wright, subsequently acknowledged that his department had suppressed the report at Medarious's request and acknowledged that this was in fact, the department's custom.

City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr, who in the past had said all reports were available to the press, expressed surprise at the department's practice but later approved it.

In Belvedere, Fairfax and Ross, the chiefs of police said they would honor burglary victims' requests for nondisclosure of the crime. But Belvedere's chief, John W. Jaeger, added thathe would inform residents seeking secrecy that he believes disclosure is an effective way of informing and alerting the community as to the crime activity.

The reason given for withholding burglary information, was that publication alerts other criminals to the existence of a potential future victim and invites repetition of the crime at that address.

Agencies reporting they practice full disclosure of criminal activity are the Marin and Sonoma County sheriffs' and the police chiefs of the cities of Cotati, Larkspur, Novato, Petaluma, Rohnert Park, San Anselmo, San Rafael and Tiburon.

They say the only exceptions to that practice are the withholding of the names of women assaulted or raped (something newspapers would not publish, in any case) juveniles by court order and details of evidence that might hinder investigation or violate court requirements (again something responsible papers avoid doing.)

The chiefs gave various reasons for full disclosure, among them that requests for censorship should be taken to the press and not performed by the police, that the people have the right to know about crime, that suppression is self defeating, ultimately drawing far greater attention to the matter for which secrecy is sought.

The practice of the Marin County Sheriff's Department is to note on reports: "Withholding of publication requested," leaving it to the press to be thus alerted but nevertheless informed.

Chief Joseph J. Brusatori said the San Rafael department advises a citizen seeking to avoid publication to take the request to the press.

Chief Raymond R. Buchignani of San Anselmo noted the possibility for unfairness if police were left to solve the knotty question of what should and what should not be reported. He said, "It's not fair to honor one request and ignore others."

Other typical comments by chiefs believing in full disclosure were:

Tiburon's Maurice D. Lafferty: "We have an open press policy. We indicate to people that the press has access to reports.

Larkspur's Howard Clark: "This department is not the arbiter of what type of news to publish."

Ghiringelli Estate Is $290,000

Joseph Ghiringhelli, late owner of the Deer Park Villa in Fairfax, left an estate of $290,000 with an annual income of $20,000, but no will to dispose of the property, according to papers filed in Marin Superior Court.

Since the 76-year-old restaurateur left no will, the courts will decide how his property is divided, but codes specify it should go to his wife, according to a court attace.

The papers were filed by Antoinette Ghiringhelli, wife of the restaurant owner who died Jan. 14 of a heart attack.

Born in Italy, Ghiringhelli began working in restaurants in San Francisco to pay his fare from Italy, then opened his first Marin restaurant in 1921. The Deer Park Villa, which is still run by his family, was founded in 1937.

Art Center Director Leaves Post

Shelagh Considine has resigned as director of the Sausalito Art Center, saying it is time for her "to seek a new challenge."

Miss Considine, who has held the post for two years, announced her intention to leave at the end of the month to the Art Center board last week.

"I think the center is on its way to being an institution," she told the Independent-Journal. "It's really gotten rolling and the time has come for someone else to take over."

Miss Considine, a goldsmith, said she hopes to move into the public relations field.

The center's assistant director, Elizabeth Douglas, will serve temporarily in the job until a successor is named.

The center board indicated it will accept applications for the post until April 1.

During Miss Considine's tenure as director, the center received its first federal grant, $7,500 from the National Endowment for the Arts.

An extensive educational program, offering a variety of classes, was developed under her direction.

In a very rare occurrence, the Black Hawks had only one shot on goal in the opening period by Lou Angotti and the puck got by Seals netminder Gilles Meloche.

Angotti tallied his second goal of the game and 12th of the season at 15:24 of the middle period to boost the Chicago lead to 3-0.

Dennis Hull, Pit Martin and Jim Pappin got the other Chicago goals.

It was a bad weekend for the Seals. They lost to the Kings 4-2 at Inglewood Saturday night.

Manager Berra Shows He's Boss

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Tightening his reins of authority early apparently is as important to New York Mets manager Yogi Berra as establishing his starting lineup. And yesterday he left no doubt about who's boss.

Berra slapped aging superstar Willie Mays with the largest fine of his 21-year career—$1,000—for failing to show up at Saturday's practice or notifying the club that he had left town. It was the second major fine Berra has assessed this year.

Mays, who said he flew to Atherton, Calif. to be with his wife, Mae, admitted he "made a mistake" in not informing the club and would not argue the fine.

"When I'm wrong, I'm wrong," said Mays, who was fined the equivalent of one day's pay from his $165,000 per year salary.

Berra, who assumed managerial duties last April following the death of Gil Hodges, has been criticized by some for being too lenient with his players. But Berra is showing he can be tough, too, and his fine of Mays can be interpreted as an indication of what will happen if any other players break his rules.

Last week Berra layed down the law to his top slugger, Rusty Staub. For the relatively minor indiscretion of reporting to camp two pounds overweight, Staub was fined $200.

"Willie told me his wife hadn't been feeling right," Berra said. "To me a man's family comes first. But he should tell me that he needs to go home."

Mays was only a spectator at yesterday's exhibition against St. Louis in St. Petersburg, Fla. but the Mets might've been able to use his bat as they suffered an 11-inning 5-4 loss to the Cards.

In other exhibition baseball games, Detroit defeated Cincinnati 13-8, Boston whipped Pittsburgh 6-1, Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh's "B" team 9-7, Montreal routed Texas 11-2, houston beat Minnesota 10-5, Kansas City edged the Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 10 innings, Los Angeles beat Atlanta 6-3, Baltimore ripped the New York Yankees 10-0, California clipped the Chicago Cubs 8-7, San Francisco defeated Cleveland 9- 5 and Milwaukee downed San Diego 12-2.

Seals Find Another Way To Succumb

OAKLAND (UPI) — Usually the California Golden Seals are outshot by their opponents and lose.

Not so Sunday night. The Seals outshot the Chicago Black Hawks by the unbelievable total of 37-16 yet lost 5-1 to the Western Division leaders in the National Hockey league.

In a very rare occurrence, the Black Hawks had only one shot on goal in the opening period by Lou Angotti and the puck got by Seals netminder Gilles Meloche.

Angotti tallied his second goal of the game and 12th of the season at 15:24 of the middle period to boost the Chicago lead to 3-0.

Dennis Hull, Pit Martin and Jim Pappin got the other Chicago goals.

It was a bad weekend for the Seals. They lost to the Kings 4-2 at Inglewood Saturday night.

Manager Berra Shows He's Boss

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Tightening his reins of authority early apparently is as important to New York Mets manager Yogi Berra as establishing his starting lineup. And yesterday he left no doubt about who's boss.

Berra slapped aging superstar Willie Mays with the largest fine of his 21-year career—$1,000—for failing to show up at Saturday's practice or notifying the club that he had left town. It was the second major fine Berra has assessed this year.

Mays, who said he flew to Atherton, Calif. to be with his wife, Mae, admitted he "made a mistake" in not informing the club and would not argue the fine.

"When I'm wrong, I'm wrong," said Mays, who was fined the equivalent of one day's pay from his $165,000 per year salary.

Berra, who assumed managerial duties last April following the death of Gil Hodges, has been criticized by some for being too lenient with his players. But Berra is showing he can be tough, too, and his fine of Mays can be interpreted as an indication of what will happen if any other players break his rules.

Last week Berra layed down the law to his top slugger, Rusty Staub. For the relatively minor indiscretion of reporting to camp two pounds overweight, Staub was fined $200.

"Willie told me his wife hadn't been feeling right," Berra said. "To me a man's family comes first. But he should tell me that he needs to go home."

Mays was only a spectator at yesterday's exhibition against St. Louis in St. Petersburg, Fla. but the Mets might've been able to use his bat as they suffered an 11-inning 5-4 loss to the Cards.

In other exhibition baseball games, Detroit defeated Cincinnati 13-8, Boston whipped Pittsburgh 6-1, Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh's "B" team 9-7, Montreal routed Texas 11-2, houston beat Minnesota 10-5, Kansas City edged the Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 10 innings, Los Angeles beat Atlanta 6-3, Baltimore ripped the New York Yankees 10-0, California clipped the Chicago Cubs 8-7, San Francisco defeated Cleveland 9- 5 and Milwaukee downed San Diego 12-2.

Ventura: No Place For The Little Guy

Back from the Land of the Giants.

After spending the last few days in Ventura surrounded by basketball players and coaches who went anywhere from six to seven feet I was starting to feel like a midget. My neck is stiff from looking up.

With most of the players from 12 tournament junior college teams and perhaps 100 basketball coaches milling around Ventura's Holiday Inn when the action wasn't going on in the Ventura College gymnasium, the lobby at times looked like a forest of tall trees with eyes.

In addition to the tournament Thursday through Saturday, the California Community College Basketball Coaches Association held its annual meeting so when that many cage coaches get together you know there is going to be a lot of neck craning by we 5-foot-9ers.

WHEN THE TOURNAMENT was all over, after Compton College had narrowly decisioned Long Beach City College in the Championship game, 73-72, it came time for picking the all-tournament team and it turned out that the only way to get on it would be to play in that final game. The most valuable player and two members of the all-tourney team came from Compton and the other three players from Long Beach.

Most valuable player was Compton's Ike Whitfield, 6-foot-8 forward, who was joined on the allstar team by teammates Al Forney, 6-5 guard, and Dean Bowser, 6-8 forward. Long Beach players named were John Sagehorn, 6-3 guard; Floyd Heaton, 6-6 forward, and Dave Hillman, 6-5 forward.

Forney had the MVP prize all locked up before slumping in the final game when he hit a cold spell. He had scored 40 points in Compton's 125-95 win over East Los Angeles and 21 points against Marin in the semi-finals, both times leading his team. Then in the final game he scored only 12 while Whitfield was the key man in that one, scoring 21 points and grabbing 19 rebounds. Word around the press table was that Forney is headed for UCLA next year. I can believe it.

MARIN COACH John Panagakis was one of four coaches on a committee with Fred Baer, director of the JC Athletic Bureau, to pick the all-tournament team.

Also winning quite an honor was City College of San Francisco's veteran coach Sid Phelan, inducted into the California Junior College Basketball Hall of Fame prior to the start of the championship game. Sid, in 18 years of coaching basketball at S.F. City College, has taken teams to the state tournament 13 times. That's quite a record.

WHEN MARIN'S freshman guard Len Smith was matched against little brother Dave in the consolation game against City College of S.F., it was the first time they had ever played against each other in a school game.

"But we've played recreation basketball against each other," said Len, displaying that wide smile of his. Len, Dave, older brother Willie, and Jim Watkins, a brother-in-law, will all be playing in the same San Francisco recreation league this summer.

How did 21-year-old Len feel about playing against his 19-year-old brother Saturday? "When Dave and I were playing against each other

By RALPH CHATOIAN
I-J Sports Editor

The 1973 basketball season is all over for College of Marin's Tars but they'll have some fond memories of a great year for the rest of their lives. It was a season in which they won 27 of 32 games and went all the way to the state tournament, first time since 1961.

Marin missed by an eyelash of becoming the best junior college team in Northern California Saturday when it lost to City College of San Francisco in overtime, 69-61, in the consolation finals of the 22nd annual California State Community College Basketball Championships at Ventura College.

Compton took home the state title after a thrilling 73-72 victory over stubborn Long Beach City College before 2,900 fans in Saturday night's feature game. In the small school division Barstow won the championships with a 74-68 triumph over Menlo and Merced won the consolation crown with a 78-69 verdict over Shasta College of Redding.

"These kids really worked hard," said Marin coach John Panagakis in the dressing room as Tar players were pulling off their uniforms, for most of them, the last time they would be tugging on those white and gold jerseys. "It's really a fine group of kids."

It was the first time Panagakis had a chance to coach a team against his old coach at San Francisco's Washington High, Sid Phelan, head coach for CCSF the last 18 years. Panagakis played for Phelan when John was a high school senior in 1954.

"We've scrimmaged against each other but this is the first time we've been against each other in a regular game," said Panagakis. "Sid told me before the game if it ends in a tie we could both go home happy." It's too bad John couldn't have taken Phelan up on that bargain, but rules are rules and that five-minute overtime period had to be played.

"Yeh, I did kid with John about a tie," said Phelan. "I told him it would be great if we could both go home with the title."

In a more serious vein, Phelan said he felt his players were too tense in the first two games, a win and a loss, "but they played more relaxed against Marin. They probably only took two bad shots all game."

For Marin in that final game, it was simply a story of running out of gas. While most teams in the tourney were substituting freely for the three games, Panagakis, as he has done all seaon in tight situations, went with his front liners practically throughout. It was a gutty comeback for Marin to fight from a nine-point deficit early in the second half to finally tie the CCSF game at 55-55 on a shot by center Neil Traub with six minutes left. With both teams trying to control the ball and work for good percentage shots, the scoring came to a slowdown.

It was a tip-in shot by Marin freshman forward Wil Garner with one minute remaining which knotted the score at 59-all. Guard Joe DeMaestri tried to win it all on a drive to the

ALL-TOURNAMENT — Eddie Joe Chavez (22) of Drake High School fired one of his long-range jump shots Saturday night against Salesian of Richmond in the third-place game of the basketball Tournament of Champions at the Oakland Coliseum Arena. No. 41 is teammate John Channell. The crowd-pleasing Chavez became the first Marin player in four years to make the all-tournament team, but Salesian won the game, 70-62.

Drake's Cinderella Team Has An Untimely Ending

By LEW CODDINGTON

OAKLAND — Due to scheduling difficulties and other mundane considerations, midnight came for Cinderella at the unpoetic hour of 7:42 p.m. Saturday.

At that time, the final buzzer sounded to make official Drake High School's 70-62 loss to Salesian of Richmond in the game for third place in the basketball Tournament of Champions at the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

Despite an outstanding performance by center John Channell, who scored 26 points and grabbed 18 rebounds, Drake (25-7) trailed ever since Salesian (24-8) erased an early 6-3 Pirate lead.

Pirate forward Eddie Joe Chavez scored 14 points in the game and clinched a berth on the all-tournament team, the first Marin player to be so honored since Jerry Piro of Redwood in 1969, and the first Pirate since Jerry Sprout in 1967.

Chavez, a 6-foot junior, scored 62 points and hauled down 22 rebounds in three games, and made 27 of 62 shots. Most of them came at times when other Pirates were not hitting and many of them were spectacular improvisations which drew cheers from the crowd.

And a good number of the cheers came from the Drake fans, who won one of three awards given out for the best cheering sections. The others went to Dublin and Oakland's Castlemont. Drake has never failed to win a cheering section award in five tournament appearances.

The tournament championship was won for the second straight year by San Joaquin Memorial of Fresno, which beat back a furious rally by lightning-quick Berkeley for a 70-65 victory before 12,500 fans just after Drake's game Saturday night.

Drake's fourth-place finish equaled the highest placing in TOC history by a Marin County Athletic League team, as Drake also was fourth in 1967. The only Marin team ever to do better was the 1957 Pirate aggregation, representing the North Bay League, which finished third.

"It was a great season, and they're a super team," said coach Pete Hayward of his Pirates, who won the MCAL by three games, twice beat North Bay League champion Vallejo, and became the favorite of the TOC crowds by stunning once-beaten Castlemont and nearly beating Memorial.

"The ball just wouldn't go in the hoop," Hayward said. "We couldn't move the ball the way we did in league. We were shooting with the defenses set, so we couldn't penetrate for rebounds the last two games, either."

Drake shot just 35 per cent against Salesian, making 26 of 74 shots, while the Chiefs hit a hot 57 per cent on 29 of 51.

After Drake took its early lead, Salesian went ahead by as much as 31-19, but the Pirates chipped away and got as close as 42-41 with 3:15 left in the third quarter. They came down the floor twice with chances to go ahead, but missed the shots,

Baseball Hall Of Famer Frisch Dies In Delaware

WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — Baseball Hall of Famer Frankie Frisch died today at the Delaware Medical Center almost five weeks after he was injured in an automobile accident.

The 75-year-old Frisch was driving alone on Interstate 95 near Elkton, Md., on Feb. 8, when his car swerved off the road and crashed.

Frisch was listed in critical condition every day during his hospitalization. He was pronounced dead at 7:25 a.m. this morning.

Frisch was moved to the hospital's coronory unit at 6:14 a.m. and was pronounced dead about an hour later.

A hospital spokesman Andy Stern said the official cause of death was cardiac arrest.

Frisch had been in the hospital's intensive care unit until late last week, when he was moved to a private room. His condition continued to remain critical.

He is survived by his wife and a brother.

Born Sept. 9, 1898, Frisch was a product of the streets of New York City. He became famous as the "Fordham Flash" when he captained Fordham University's football, baseball and basketball teams and, after being graduated, went directly to the Giants in 1919.

He was a star second and third baseman on the 1921-22-23-24 Giants, who set a National League record of four consecutive pennants. In succession, Frisch batted .341, .327, .348 and .328 in those seasons and he hit at least .300 in each of the four world series.

A 5-foot-10, 185-pound switch-hitter, Frisch compiled a .316 lifetime batting averae in the major leagues and between 1921 and 1934 failed to hit .300 in only one season. A swift and aggressive base runner, Frisch led the league in stolen bases in 1921, 1927 and 1931.

Trevino Showing His Serious Side

MIAMI (UPI) — The myth of the "Merry Mexican" is slowly evaporating.

Lee Trevino, winner of two Professional Golfers Association tournaments in the last three weeks, is turning out to be a very serious guy when it comes to golf. He runs two miles a day, he hits 300 practice balls daily, he hasn't had a drink since July and now he says he's a nervous golfer.

"I know everybody calls me 'happy-go-lucky' and things like that, but I'm a nervous player —I think I'm just as nervous as anyone on the tour," said Trevino after firing a 1-under-par 71 Sunday for a one-stroke win in the $150,000 Doral Eastern golf tournament with 276.

The stocky Mexican-American, who won the Jackie Gleason Inverrary Classic two weeks ago, had plenty of reason to be nervous Sunday.

He had to fight off late challenges from Australian Bruce Crampton and Tom Weiskopf, who tied for second.

Trevino's $30,000 first prize nudged him ahead in the money winning race over Crampton, who dropped to second.

Trevino, who led by four strokes at the end of the first three rounds of the Doral event, looked up at the scoreboard after the 14th hole and discovered Crampton had tied him.

Crampton, birdying four of the first five holes, shot a 65—the day's best round. He had a shot at the title right up until the final hole.

But Trevino put him away with birdies on the 15th and 16th holes-on charging birdie putts of 20 and 15 feet, both of which hit the cup, bounced up and dropped in.

"I seem to play better when I'm tied or a shot ahead or a shot behind —when the chips are down," he said. "I'm not a good front-runner."

Nobody argued with him. His two birdies put him two strokes up on Crampton and Weiskopf and he promptly bogeyed the next hole—the par four 17th.

Coming up to the 18th with a one-shot lead, he said: "I kept telling myself I wasn't going to give this tournament away."

He didn't. Trevino hit the green, but 80 feet short of the cup. He putted to two feet, sank it and collected the $30,000 first prize.

The win moves Trevino's 1973 earnings to $98,275 against $91,436 for Crampton, who has held onto the money-winning lead tenaciously for the last several weeks.

The $30,000 also pushed Trevino closer to the $1 million mark he says he wants by August. Trevino, who would become the first to hit $1 million within six years, now has a career total of $957,965.

Weiskopf helped Crampton put the pressure on Trevino. As the rangy Ohioan came into the 72nd hole, he was down two to the leader. But he sank a 25-foot putt and would have set the stage for a three-way playoff, if Trevino had "given the turnament away."

Finishing tied for fourth at 280 — four strokes back — were Ralph Johnston of Marietta, Ga., and Californian Rod Curl. Napa's Ron Cerrudo had a 286, good for $1,410.

Mrs. Bailey Advances In City Golf

Melinda Bailey of Novato, who "just started to sink a few putts" at the moments when they were most needed, has moved into the second round in her annual quest for the San Francisco City Golf Championship.

Mrs. Bailey defeated 19-year-old San Francisco College freshman Barbara Vetrano, 3 and 1, yesterday to earn the right to confront Alice Miller, who defeated Mary Lowell on the 20th hole.

The field, now pared to eight, will play quarter-finals and semi-finals next weekend and finals the weekend after.

Mrs. Bailey, who has been runner-up five times, including last year, trailed Miss Vetrano until tying up the match on the 13th hole.

"What turned the match around was on 14, when I sank about a 50-foot par putt for a win," she said. The fire went out of Miss Vetrano's game, and Mrs. Bailey went on to clinch the victory with a par on 17.

If Mrs. Bailey makes the finals, she will not have to worry about Pam Palmieri, who defeated her last year for the title. Miss Palmieri was ousted yesterday by Sally Dodge, 1-up.

First-round results:

Upper Bracket — Melinda Bailey d. Barbara Vetrano, 3 and 1; Alice Miller d. Mary Lowell, 20th hole; Liana Zambresky d. Pat Cornett, 5 and 4; Cheryl Pastore d. Imogene Egner, 4 and 2.

Lower Bracket — Sally Dodge d. Pam Palmieri, 1-up; Marilyn Martinyiak d. Joanne McKissen, 5 and 4; Lauren Howe d. Sally Tomlinson, 6 and 4; Irene Gotta d. Carol Ley, 4 and 3.

FUENTES, MARICHAL

Giants' Fox Happy For Two Reasons

PHOENIX (UPI) — San Francisco Giants manager Charlie Fox has two reasons to be happy today—Tito Fuentes and Juan Marichal.

Marichal, a perennial 20-game winner who dropped to 6-16 last season because of a bad back, was impressive Sunday in his first competitive outing since undergoing spine surgery last October.

The right-hander was at his high-kicking best in working three shutout innings against Cleveland. He struck out three, including Ray Fosse on a screwball, walked none and allowed three hits.

"My back gave me no trouble," he said. "It felt the best it has been since 1971."

Fuentes, the final Giants holdout, signed his 1973 contract for a reported $45,000 in the morning and then destroyed the Indians in the afternoon with a single, double and three runs batted in as the Giants won 9-5 in the Cactus League.

The veteran second baseman received a raise of approximately $5,500. After entering the game in the middle innings, he singled home the tying run and scored the go-ahead tally in the fourth inning to snap a 3-3 tie.

Fuentes drove home two more runs in a five-run fifth with a double that hugged the third-base line.

Garry Maddox, Chris Speier, Alan Gallagher and Bobby Bonds also chipped in with two hits as San Francisco improved its Cactus record to -1. The Indians nipped the Giants 4-3 Saturday.

Gallagher, battling Dave Kingman for the Giants' third-base job, continued his hot hitting with two singles to rise his average to .751. Fosse hit a home run off Giants pitcher Don Carrithers.

Conigliaro Making Bat Noises For A's

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — Billy Conigliaro is making his presence felt with a loud bang in the training camp of the world champion Oakland Athletics.

Trying to latch onto the roster as a free agent, the former Boston Red Sox and Milwaukee Brewer outfielder showed he still has some of his old power by blasting a three-run homer Sunday as the Cleveland Indians B team nipped the A's 5-4 in the Cactus League. It was Conigliaro's second circuit swipe of the spring.

Safety Act Seminar Set

Objectives of the federal Occupational Safety and Health act (OSHA) will be discussed at a seminar on March 31 at Fireman's Fund, 3333 California Street, San Francisco.

The seminar, offered free of charge, will begin at 9:30 a.m. and wind up at noon. It is cosonored by the Small Business Administration and Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies.

"This program is of particular value to the operator of a small business," said Edgar H. Lion Jr., resident vice president of Fireman's Fund and seminar coordinator. "Compliance with OSHA can be a complicated and costly proposition, and this seminar can teach the businessman how to deal with both the complication and the cost."

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have recently inherited 175 shares of American Electric Power (NYSE). Now I have been notified that I can buy one extra share for each 10 that I hold. Would you advise one to do this? — D.K.

A. Utility companies are constantly in need of large amounts of capital and one means of raising funds is through rights offerings to stockholders. This particular offer of 6,500,000 shares will raise about $179 million for repayment of short-term debt, purchase of equity in subsidiaries and add to working capital. The 10 per cent increase in common stock outstanding will also dilute per share earnings by a similar amount. However, since 1961, per share profit has grown 121 per cent despite a 29 per cent increase in the number of common shares outstanding. In 1972 alone earnings rose 21.5 per cent year-to-year although there were 7 per cent more common shares.

The December dividend increase to $1.80 a share annually provides a generous 6.5 per cent return on your principal. Thus, if you are interested in income with gradual long-term capital appreciation I would advise accepting the rights offer. Otherwise the rights should be sold prior to the April 17 expiration date.

Q. I hold 4,699 shares of a mining stock and I cannot get any information on it. How do I establish a tax loss? — H.C.

A. If this corporation has filed bankruptcy and forfeited its charter, you may claim a tax loss only for the year the charter was forfeited.If this forfeiture took place several years ago you would have to file an amended return for that year. To determine whether the charter was rescinded, and in what year, you should write to the secretary of the state in which the company is or was incorporated.

On the other hand, should you find that no forfeiture has taken place you will be in a more tenuous tax position. However, you may sell your shares for a nominal amount at "auction" in order to establish an actual loss.

Solar Heating System Being Sold For Pools

A new solar heating system for swimming pools is being marketed by Fafco Inc. of 2860 Spring Street in Redwood City.

Brian Sullivan of Santa Rosa, distributor for the North Bay area, said the system can be used alone or as a supplement to regular pool heaters and save a pool owner a minimum of $150 per year on gas bills, more if the pool is heated by electricity.

The solar heating system, costing $500 to $700 for the average pool, will keep the water at 80 degree temperature, said Sullivan.

Large, black panels made of special plastic clamp together to make any size of heat absorber. These panels are mounted on a roof or on a rack at an incline about 30 degrees. As the pool water passes through these panels, it is heated8by the sun even on a cloudy day.

Sullivan said the system has no moving parts, is maintenance free, and will last indefinitely.

Monetary News Aids The Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market moved firmly ahead today as investors demonstrated approval over recently announced currency floats by six Common Market nations.

Analysts said the unresolved monetary crisis has kept many investors on the sidelines. But news that several countries, including West Germany, planned to float their currencies as soon as official foreign exchange markets reopen next Monday seemed to attract some buying.

Two-hour volume came to about 4,800,000 shares, compared with 6,860,000 shares in the first two hours Friday.

Bath Industries (ex-dividend) led the actives with a loss of ⅝ to 23 ¾ on turnover of 165,000 shares.

Prices were slightly higher in the American Stock Exchange. Polychrome was the most active issue, off ¼ at 10 ¾ on 28,200 shares.

On the Big Board, chemicals and oils were mixed as Monsanto added 1 ⅜, Natomas 1 ⅛ and Superior 1 ½.

Electronics and computers generally were higher. Honeywell gained 4⅜, IBM 3½.

Glamors also moved up, paced by Xerox, up 3, Polaroid 2 and Corning Glass .

Steels, motors, rails, airlines and aircrafts were mixed in fractions.

The seminar, offered free of charge, will begin at 9:30 a.m. and wind up at noon. It is cosonored by the Small Business Administration and Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies.

"This program is of particular value to the operator of a small business," said Edgar H. Lion Jr., resident vice president of Fireman's Fund and seminar coordinator. "Compliance with OSHA can be a complicated and costly proposition, and this seminar can teach the businessman how to deal with both the complication and the cost."

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have recently inherited 175 shares of American Electric Power (NYSE). Now I have been notified that I can buy one extra share for each 10 that I hold. Would you advise one to do this? — D.K.

A. Utility companies are constantly in need of large amounts of capital and one means of raising funds is through rights offerings to stockholders. This particular offer of 6,500,000 shares will raise about $179 million for repayment of short-term debt, purchase of equity in subsidiaries and add to working capital. The 10 per cent increase in common stock outstanding will also dilute per share earnings by a similar amount. However, since 1961, per share profit has grown 121 per cent despite a 29 per cent increase in the number of common shares outstanding. In 1972 alone earnings rose 21.5 per cent year-to-year although there were 7 per cent more common shares.

The December dividend increase to $1.80 a share annually provides a generous 6.5 per cent return on your principal. Thus, if you are interested in income with gradual long-term capital appreciation I would advise accepting the rights offer. Otherwise the rights should be sold prior to the April 17 expiration date.

Q. I hold 4,699 shares of a mining stock and I cannot get any information on it. How do I establish a tax loss? — H.C.

A. If this corporation has filed bankruptcy and forfeited its charter, you may claim a tax loss only for the year the charter was forfeited.If this forfeiture took place several years ago you would have to file an amended return for that year. To determine whether the charter was rescinded, and in what year, you should write to the secretary of the state in which the company is or was incorporated.

On the other hand, should you find that no forfeiture has taken place you will be in a more tenuous tax position. However, you may sell your shares for a nominal amount at "auction" in order to establish an actual loss.

Solar Heating System Being Sold For Pools

A new solar heating system for swimming pools is being marketed by Fafco Inc. of 2860 Spring Street in Redwood City.

Brian Sullivan of Santa Rosa, distributor for the North Bay area, said the system can be used alone or as a supplement to regular pool heaters and save a pool owner a minimum of $150 per year on gas bills, more if the pool is heated by electricity.

The solar heating system, costing $500 to $700 for the average pool, will keep the water at 80 degree temperature, said Sullivan.

Large, black panels made of special plastic clamp together to make any size of heat absorber. These panels are mounted on a roof or on a rack at an incline about 30 degrees. As the pool water passes through these panels, it is heated8by the sun even on a cloudy day.

Sullivan said the system has no moving parts, is maintenance free, and will last indefinitely.

Monetary News Aids The Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market moved firmly ahead today as investors demonstrated approval over recently announced currency floats by six Common Market nations.

Analysts said the unresolved monetary crisis has kept many investors on the sidelines. But news that several countries, including West Germany, planned to float their currencies as soon as official foreign exchange markets reopen next Monday seemed to attract some buying.

Two-hour volume came to about 4,800,000 shares, compared with 6,860,000 shares in the first two hours Friday.

Bath Industries (ex-dividend) led the actives with a loss of ⅝ to 23 ¾ on turnover of 165,000 shares.

Prices were slightly higher in the American Stock Exchange. Polychrome was the most active issue, off ¼ at 10 ¾ on 28,200 shares.

On the Big Board, chemicals and oils were mixed as Monsanto added 1 ⅜, Natomas 1 ⅛ and Superior 1 ½.

Electronics and computers generally were higher. Honeywell gained 4⅜, IBM 3½.

Glamors also moved up, paced by Xerox, up 3, Polaroid 2 and Corning Glass .

Steels, motors, rails, airlines and aircrafts were mixed in fractions.

'Greatest Show On Wheels' Set For Town And Country Village

The Greatest Show On Wheels, the Independent-Journal's first annual automobile show, will be held on April 28 and 29 (Saturday and Sunday) in the parking area of the Strawberry Town and Country Village in Mill Valley.

The snow will feature not only the latest models from Marin automobile agencies but also antique cars from Bay Area car clubs, and possibly sports cars. Details of the show will be announced later.

A special automobile edition will be published by the I-J on April 27, the day preceding The Greatest Show On Wheels.

MARIN COLOR SERVICE Inc. of San Rafael, which opened Marin Color Service II in Novato a year ago, will move its Novato outlet across the street into the present Jim's Sport Shop at 703 Grant Avenue.

Jim's Sports Shop is conducting its final sale before closing its operations. Marin Color Service II, now located at 700 Grant Avenue, will move into the new place about the first of April.

"We will feature an enlarged wallpaper section at the new store," said Larry Martin, part owner of the company. "We'll have more space and better parking."

Marin Color Service, with headquarters at 902 Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael, is owned by Larry Martin and Dario Galatolo, both of Novato.

CONLEY V. BAKER of Sausalito has been named a senior partner in Warren L. Ambrose & Associates of Larkspur, consultants in personnel management.

Baker, formerly personnel director for P & O Lines (North America) Inc., will specialize in personnel policies, manpower planning, employee development and compensation.

Edward F. Walsh of Mill Valley, who owned the bar for three years, sold it to Jack R. and Mary Ann Nancarrow of Mill Valley. Nancarrow formerly managed Small World Leasing in Mill Valley, which was taken over by Varner-Ward Leasing.

Walsh said his immediate plan after selling the business is to take a trip around the world for a couple of months. He said the new owners will retain the name Two Turtles and will probably re-decorate the place.

CARTER-RICHES IMPORTS, a wholesale firm that imports personalized name plaques from England, opened last Friday at 130-H Hamilton Drive in Hamilton Industrial Park, Ignacio.

William Hoey Company arranged the lease of 1,820 square feet for owner Keith A. Carter, who had been operating the business at his home on Countyview Drive in Mill Valley for the past two months. Associated with Carter is his son-in-law, Trevor Riches, of Novato.

The company distributes name plaques made of fine English tile for use on doors and gates.

Carter was in the real estate business in Hawaii for 20 years before opening his import firm in Marin.

Other industrial leases negotiated by the Hoey Company include these:

SWEDEN HOUSE BAKERY at 35 Main Street in Tiburon is open for business under new owners, Bo and Bridget Brink of Strawberry and Mrs. Brink's sister, Elisabeth Stromberg of Tiburon.

Open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sweden House specializes in Swedish pastries and cakes and also serves open-faced Scandinavian-type sandwiches. Brink has eight years of experience operating bakeries and coffee shops in Sweden.

NO CAGE TITLE

Another Disaster Strikes Musselman

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Lightning has struck Bill Musselman; again and the Big Ten title has escaped.

Musselman, the Minesota coach who says, "defeat is worse than death because you have to live with defeat," is getting a chance to find out what it's like living with defeat.

Musselman's Gophers, ranked fourth in the nation, blew the Big Ten championship Saturday when they lost their second game in a row to a tail-end team 79-74 to Northwestern, a 19-game loser.

Minnesota's loss, combined with Indiana's 77-72 victory over Purdue, gave the Hoosiers their first outright Big Ten title in 15 years and sent Indiana into the NCAA tournament.

Top-ranked UCLA got ready for its try at a seventh straight National Collegiate Athletic Association championship by crushing cross-town rival Southern California 76-56 as Bill Walton had 17 points and 20 rebounds to lift the Bruins to their 71st straight victory.

No. 2 North Carolina State also finished unbeaten but the Wolfpack, on probation for a recruiting violation, don't get to play for the NCAA title. Led by 7-foot-4 Tom Burleson's shot-blocking and 14 rebounds, N.C. State became only the second team in history to win the Atlantic Coast Conference crown with a perfect record, edging Maryland 76-74 in the finals of the conference tournament.

Indiana was the last team to qualify for the NCAA tournament, which began Saturday with form generally prevailing. The first-round results set up these pairings for Thursday night's regional semifinals:

EAST (at Charlotte, N.C.)—Penn (21-5) vs. Providence (25-2); Maryland (22-6) vs. Syracuse (23-4).

MIDEAST (at Nashville, Tenn.)—Austin Peay (22-5) vs. Kentucky (19-7); Marquette (24-3) vs. Indiana (19-5).

MIDWEST (at Houston)—South Carolina (21-6) vs. Memphis State (21-5); Southwestern Louisiana (24-3) vs. Kansas State (22-4).

WEST (at Los Angeles)—Long Beach St. (25-2) vs. San Francisco (22-4); Arizona State (19-7) vs. UCLA (26-0).

Four players, led by Steve Downing who had 20 points, scored in double figures for Indiana, which appeared to be out of contention in the Big Ten race until last Monday night when Minnesota lost to Iowa, the conference's ninth-place team, 79-77.

Wooden, whose UCLA teams now have compiled the astounding record of 201-5 over the last seven seasons, said he was concerned about the regional semifinal matchup against Arizona State even though it will be played on the Bruins home court.

"UCLA played Arizona State at Provo in the regionals in 1963," Wooden recalled. "I had a team that was almost as good as my undefeated team of 1964 (UCLA's first national champions). Arizona State hit the first 15 shots they took and beat us 93-79."

Syracuse nearly blew a 19-point led but held off a late rally to nip Furman 83-82 behind 22 points by Mike Lee and 18 by Dennis Duval. Austin Peay upset Jacksonville 77-75 as freshman star James "Fly" Williams hit a 12-foot jump shot with three seconds to go. Williams finished with 26 points. Penn rallied from an early deficit, then beat St. John's 62-61 on a late jump shot by John Jablonski.

Leonard Gray All-America Ed Ratleff scored 25 points apiece to lead third-ranked Long Beach State over No. 19 Weber State 88-75; as fifth-ranked Marquette topped Miami (Ohio) 77-62; and sixth-ranked Providence beat St. Joseph's (Pa.) 89-76 behind 31 points by Ernie DiGregorio, 25 of them in the second half.

Dwight Lamar's 35 points and Roy Ebron's 23 led 12th-ranked Southwestern Louisiana over ninth-ranked Houston 102-89; No. 16 Arizona State rolled over Oklahoma City 103-78; and South Carolina pulled away in the last six minutes to beat Texas Tech 78-70 as Kevin Joyce scored 21 points.

ATHLETICS

1972 World Series hero Gene Tenace is showing some rough edges.

Switched from catcher to first base this season because of a sore throwing arm, Tenace dropped a double play ball in the sixth inning. On the next pitch, non-roster shortstop Dave Ragland socked a three-run homer off rookie Chris Floethe to give Cleveland a 4-3 lead.

Cleveland won the game in the 10th inning when Chris Chambliss singled home Oscar Gamble who had opened the frame with a triple off loser Buddy Copeland.

Roto Rooter Takes Team Kegler Title

Roto Rooter captured the team championship and the duo of Larry Jones and Lou Eastland won the doubles title in the 25th annual Marin County Men's Bowling Association tournament which concluded Saturday and yesterday at Country Club Bowl in San Rafael and Nave Lanes in Ignacio.

The Roto Rooter team of Marion Ray, Myron Holmes, Jeff Bernard, Bob Curtin and Ron Reagan6bowled 2,933 with a 264 handicap for 3,197 pins, a scant eight better than Red Carpet Realtors.

Jones and Eastland combined for 1,334-82—1,416, some 18 pins ahead of Olando Conti and Bill Henderson.

The 706 series rolled by Don Vattuone the previous weekend withstood the challenge of Phil Biaocchi, who bowled 704, so Vattuone won the singles event. Mike Weddell's all-around series of 2,112 of two weeks ago also stood up to give him the all-events title.

San Rafael's Winning Wheels team of physically handicapped bowlers rolled 2,454. Team members were Walter Hughes, Hal Frazier, Russ Bolke, Irv Myerson and Phil Myers.

Results, which are unofficial (official results will be posted at all Marin bowling establishments within 10 days):

All Events — Mike Weddell, 698-646-648-120—2,112; Larry Jones, 704-660-551-108—2,023; Ron Mendell, 551-620-567-240—2,008.

Singles — Don Vattuone, 622-84—706; Phil Biacocchi, 664-40—704; Walt Silva, 640-58-698.

Doubles — Larry Jones-Lou Eastland, 1,334-82—1,416; Olando Conti-Bill Henderson, 1,344-54—1,398; Doc Kirkhoff-John Coffey, 1,255-108—1,363.

Suburban Softballers Open Play March 31

Suburban Auto of San Rafael will begin play in the Golden Gate Travel softball league March 31 with a doubleheader beginning at 7:15 p.m. against Atlas Tree Service of Concord at Albert Field in San Rafael.

Suburban will play a 20-game schedule in the 12-team world class (AA) league, with the regular season to end June 9 and playoffs to follow involving three divisional winners and the runner-up with the best winning percentage.

A TRAUB REBOUND — College of Marin center Neil Traub, 6-foot-9 cager who led the Tars in rebounding at the state tournament in Ventura with 37, outbattled Riverside City College's Walt Wilson (4) and Dwight Tyler (53) for this one in Marin's 73-64 tourney opening victory. Also reaching for the ball was Marin's Joe Casteel. Marin lost its next two tourney games.

basket down the baseline but he was whistled for an offensive foul as he tried to put the ball up. San Francisco lost the ball out f bounds before it could get off a shot.

Garner and DeMaestri paced Marin in the final game as well as total for the three-game tourney. Each scored 19 Saturday, giving Garner a total of 49 points and DeMaestri 41. Traub scored 36 points total, forward Joe Casteel 35 and Len Smith 25. Traub ended up with 37 rebounds and Garner 30.

Unlike the blitzing Marin suffered in the semi-finals Friday night against Compton, 90-65, Saturday's game was a tight battle most of the way, Marin trailing at the half, 37-32. When CCSF tried to pull away with that nine-point lead, Marin came storming back.

The most interesting matchup of the game was between the Smith brothers, and I don't mean cough drops. Marin's Len Smith, 21, a freshman guard, was playing against oung brother Dave, 18, freshman guard for San Francisco. The younger Smith won his first matchup between the two, 18-2, his 18 points making him high man for CCSF.

San Francisco — Atchan 3-2-8, Mooney 3-2-8, Smith 8-2-18, Chambers 2-3-7, Jackson 4-1-9, Pruitt 7-1-15, Frazier 2-0-4. Totals: 29-11—69.

Marin — DeMaestri 9-1-19, Smith 1-0-2, Casteel 4-1-9, Garner 9-1-19, Traub 5-2-12. Totals: 28-5—61.

Golf Play Postponed

The 18-hole qualifying round for the National Cup Golf Tournament last Saturday at San Geronimo National Golf Club was interrupted by rain and will be completed this Saturday.

tonight we were both out for blood." Although Len was smiling when he said it, the way they played you know he meant it.

THE TOURNAMENT WAS all seriousness for Panagakis. Instead of having the Tars stay at Holiday Inn, or at least in Ventura where the rest of the players stayed, Panagakis lodged the team in Fillmore, a little community about 23 miles from Ventura, so there would be no distractions for the players. That far out of the way, I'm sure there wasn't.

Tiburon's Rice Wins 5 Swimming Events

Denis Rice of Tiburon won five events and a relay and was second in another race yesterday in the 40-44 age bracket of the San Francisco State University Invitational Masters swimming meet.

Rice won the 50, 100, 200 and 500-yard freestyles and the 100 backstroke, was second in the 200 back, and swam on the winning 200 free relay team with Bill Foehr of San Rafael. Both represented the Olympic Club of San Francisco.

Jane McCollister of San Rafael and the Marin Aquatic Club won the 100 and 200 breaststrokes and the 100, 200 and 500 freestyles in the 50-54 age bracket. Marin A.C.'s Dore Schwab of Ross was second in the 50 butterfly and Ed Kadel of San Rafael third in the 100 breast.

Foeher won the 100 and 200 breasts and the 200 individual medley and was fourth in the 50 fly and 200 free and fifth in the 100 fly in the 30-34 age bracket.

Redwood Crews Win 2 Races Saturday

The Redwood High School varsity lightweight and heavyweight crews each won races Saturday against St. Joseph's School for Boys of Alameda, the heavyweights doing 5:40 for 1,500 meters to St. Joseph's 6:02, and the lightweights doing 5:32 to St. Joseph's 6:12 on Corte Madera Creek.

The meet originally was scheduled for Friday but postponed until Saturday because the Alameda rowers were tied up in traffic and failed to arrive in time Friday. Redwood's next meet will be Friday at 4 p.m. on Corte Madera Creek against Concordia of Oakland.

DIFFICULT GOAL

Warriors Seek 51-31 Record

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — After splitting a pair of games on the East Coast over the weekend, the Golden State Warriors find themselves hard-pressed to match last year's 51-31 record.

With 10 National Basketball Association games left, the Warriors are 43-29. They must win eight of their remaining contests to match last season's mark. Scattered among the 10 are such stalwarts as the Milwaukee Bucks, Los Angeles Lakers and New York Knicks.

Golden State moved a step closer to that goal Sunday night in Pittsburgh by getting some last second heroics from forward Rick Barry and guard Jim Barnett to pull out a 97-93 win over the Philadelphia 76ers.

Barnett's three-point play and a free throw by Barry in the final 13 seconds made the difference.

The 76ers had overcome an eight-point deficit to tie the score 93-93 on a layup by Freddie Boyd with 24 seconds to play.

Eleven seconds later, Barry sank one of two free throws to give the Warriors their winning point. Barry then stole the inbounds pass and fed Barnett who scored with only three seconds remaining. He was fouled on the play and got three chances at the free-throw line because 76ers coach Kevin Loughery was slapped with two technical fouls on the play for yelling at officials.

Barnett made one of the three for the Warriors final point.

The Warriors end their three-game trip in Portland Tuesday night.

and Salesian recovered to build the lead back up to seven.

Salesian spread its scoring around, with Granville Smith scoring 20 points, Myron Jordan 17, Ray Canepa 15 and James Thomas 12.

"We couldn't contain 41," said Salesian coach Russ Critchfield of Channell, who made 12 of 18 shots, many coming after one of his 12 offensive rebounds.

"Even when we were away ahead, I figured they (Drake) would come at us in the second half, but I felt if we stayed ahead we would b all right. We kept our poise."

Chosen along with Chavez on the all-tournament team were Ruppert Jones, Gene Ransom and Zerone Jefferson of Berkeley; Nelson Beazley, Cliff Pondexter and Kevin Caston of Memorial; Jordan of Salesian; Ted Otterstetter of Arroyo of San Lorenzo; and/Julius Bolds of Wilson of San Francisco.

Jones was chosen for the third straight year, an unprecedented feat.

For the first time, the selection committee was made up of a board of coaches, one from each of the participating leagues. Dick Hart of Redwood represented the MCAL.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Special Rules Govern Profits On Certain Installment Sales

The rules for installment sales:

The installment method may be used only for reporting profits on certain sales of real property or casual sales of personal property where the sales price is in excess of $1,000 and the buyer agrees to pay the seller the sales price in two or more installments in two or more years.

There is a special rule that when you sell on the installment basis that if the purchaser assumes the existing mortgatgage on the property, you can exclude the amount of the mortgage from the sale so that you do not have to include it in determining whether or not you received more than 30% in the year of sale. This is a general rule and there is one big exception.

If the mortgage taken over is in excess of the basis of the property, that is your cost of other basis, then the excess of the mortgage over basis is considered a year of sale payment and has to be taken into consideration in determining whether or not you received more than 30% in the year of sale.

Many a taxpayer has been caught in this trap. So if you are thinking of making a sale on the installment basis, be sure that the mortgage is less than your basis or that the excess of the mortgage over your basis plus the amount received in the year of sale does not exceed 30%.

Under the old law, the installment method was available only if the payments received by the seller in the year of sale (not counting debt obligations of the purchaser) did not exceed 30% of the selling price. Now, certain debt obligations are to be treated as payments received in the year of the sale and counted when determining the 30% requirement.

Registered, coupon or readily marketable bonds (other than those in registered form which a seller establishes will not be readily tradable) or other evidence of indebtedness, issued by a corporation of governmental body, including bonds that are payable on demand, are considered as payments received in the year of sale.

These payments must be taken in account by a seller when determining whether the payments received in the year of the sale exceed 30% of the selling price.

This provision is effective with respect to sales and other dispositions occurring after May 27, 1969, except when the sale or other disposition is made under a binding contract entered into on or before that date.

Be sure to check this with your tax advisor if you are selling to a corporation or a governmental body.

Transit Workers Approve Strike

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Transit workers have voted unanimously for a strike that would leave 400,000 commuters without bus, trolley or subway transportation in the country's fourth largest city.

Members of Local 234, Transport Workers Union (TWU), gave their executive council authority Sunday night to call a strike if no agreement were reached by Wednesday with the Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority (SEPTA).

Transit Workers Approve Strike

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Transit workers have voted unanimously for a strike that would leave 400,000 commuters without bus, trolley or subway transportation in the country's fourth largest city.

Members of Local 234, Transport Workers Union (TWU), gave their executive council authority Sunday night to call a strike if no agreement were reached by Wednesday with the Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority (SEPTA).

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Special Rules Govern Profits On Certain Installment Sales

The rules for installment sales:

The installment method may be used only for reporting profits on certain sales of real property or casual sales of personal property where the sales price is in excess of $1,000 and the buyer agrees to pay the seller the sales price in two or more installments in two or more years.

There is a special rule that when you sell on the installment basis that if the purchaser assumes the existing mortgatgage on the property, you can exclude the amount of the mortgage from the sale so that you do not have to include it in determining whether or not you received more than 30% in the year of sale. This is a general rule and there is one big exception.

If the mortgage taken over is in excess of the basis of the property, that is your cost of other basis, then the excess of the mortgage over basis is considered a year of sale payment and has to be taken into consideration in determining whether or not you received more than 30% in the year of sale.

Many a taxpayer has been caught in this trap. So if you are thinking of making a sale on the installment basis, be sure that the mortgage is less than your basis or that the excess of the mortgage over your basis plus the amount received in the year of sale does not exceed 30%.

Under the old law, the installment method was available only if the payments received by the seller in the year of sale (not counting debt obligations of the purchaser) did not exceed 30% of the selling price. Now, certain debt obligations are to be treated as payments received in the year of the sale and counted when determining the 30% requirement.

Registered, coupon or readily marketable bonds (other than those in registered form which a seller establishes will not be readily tradable) or other evidence of indebtedness, issued by a corporation of governmental body, including bonds that are payable on demand, are considered as payments received in the year of sale.

These payments must be taken in account by a seller when determining whether the payments received in the year of the sale exceed 30% of the selling price.

This provision is effective with respect to sales and other dispositions occurring after May 27, 1969, except when the sale or other disposition is made under a binding contract entered into on or before that date.

Be sure to check this with your tax advisor if you are selling to a corporation or a governmental body.

Sartre's "The Roads to Freedom"

The inner war to relate spirit and action— to act according to one's feelings—is fought by Everyman.

You'll witness such inner wars in this dynamic 13-week drama, based on the masterful Jean-Paul Sartre trilogy on the decadence of pre-war France.

You'll meet Mathieu (Michael Bryant), a man who thinks but cannot act; Daniel (Daniel Massey), a homosexual who acts against his own beliefs; Brunet (Donald Burton), a man who believes that action is all. And Lola (Georgia Brown), a nightclub singer whose battle is with time.

All playing out their personal wars—all seeking their own roads to freedom.

Seals Find Another Way To Succumb

OAKLAND (UPI) — Usually the California Golden Seals are outshot by their opponents and lose.

Not so Sunday night. The Seals outshot the Chicago Black Hawks by the unbelievable total of 37-16 yet lost 5-1 to the Western Division leaders in the National Hockey league.

In a very rare occurrence, the Black Hawks had only one shot on goal in the opening period by Lou Angotti and the puck got by Seals netminder Gilles Meloche.

Angotti tallied his second goal of the game and 12th of the season at 15:24 of the middle period to boost the Chicago lead to 3-0.

Dennis Hull, Pit Martin and Jim Pappin got the other Chicago goals.

It was a bad weekend for the Seals. They lost to the Kings 4-2 at Inglewood Saturday night.

Manager Berra Shows He's Boss

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Tightening his reins of authority early apparently is as important to New York Mets manager Yogi Berra as establishing his starting lineup. And yesterday he left no doubt about who's boss.

Berra slapped aging superstar Willie Mays with the largest fine of his 21-year career—$1,000—for failing to show up at Saturday's practice or notifying the club that he had left town. It was the second major fine Berra has assessed this year.

Mays, who said he flew to Atherton, Calif. to be with his wife, Mae, admitted he "made a mistake" in not informing the club and would not argue the fine.

"When I'm wrong, I'm wrong," said Mays, who was fined the equivalent of one day's pay from his $165,000 per year salary.

Berra, who assumed managerial duties last April following the death of Gil Hodges, has been criticized by some for being too lenient with his players. But Berra is showing he can be tough, too, and his fine of Mays can be interpreted as an indication of what will happen if any other players break his rules.

Last week Berra layed down the law to his top slugger, Rusty Staub. For the relatively minor indiscretion of reporting to camp two pounds overweight, Staub was fined $200.

"Willie told me his wife hadn't been feeling right," Berra said. "To me a man's family comes first. But he should tell me that he needs to go home."

Mays was only a spectator at yesterday's exhibition against St. Louis in St. Petersburg, Fla. but the Mets might've been able to use his bat as they suffered an 11-inning 5-4 loss to the Cards.

In other exhibition baseball games, Detroit defeated Cincinnati 13-8, Boston whipped Pittsburgh 6-1, Philadelphia beat Pittsburgh's "B" team 9-7, Montreal routed Texas 11-2, houston beat Minnesota 10-5, Kansas City edged the Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 10 innings, Los Angeles beat Atlanta 6-3, Baltimore ripped the New York Yankees 10-0, California clipped the Chicago Cubs 8-7, San Francisco defeated Cleveland 9- 5 and Milwaukee downed San Diego 12-2.

Labor Head Says Recession Likely

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Union leader Leonard Woodcock said today a recession may occur if the sharp cutback in deficit spending sought by President Nixon is allowed to occur.

Seeking to make a case for heavier taxes on the wealthy, Woodcock told the House Ways and Means Committee that heavier spending, financed by tax reform, was a safer alternative than a sudden swing away from the stimulation provided by deficit spending.

Nixon's budget for the next fiscal year proposes a deficit of $13 billion—almost a 50 per cent cut from the deficit in the current fiscal year.

"The proposal for a $12 billion cut in the deficit for fiscal 1974, if put into effect, will have restrictive effect on the economy which may well choke off the current expansion, if it does not produce actual recession as similar fiscal swings did in the period 1958 to 1960 and 1968-69," Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, said in prepared testimony.

"It should be pointed out that never in our history, except immediately after World War II when a cut in government spending was offset by a release of pent-up private savings, has a fiscal swing of this magnitude failed to result in a recession."

Woodcock argued that a far better course—for social as well as economic reasons—is to raise the government's revenues through tax reforms.

His proposals would increase taxes by $47 billion, going beyond the $20 billion worth of reforms proposed last week before the same panel by AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Woodcock's plan attacked tax laws exempting half of capital gains from taxes, allowing bequests and gifts to escape fugl taxation, exempting income from state and local bonds from taxes, allowing homeowners to deduct mortgage interest and deducting life insurance interest.

With the war behind America, Woodcock argued, social ills need to be remedied, a costly process.

"The only way to get that money is to go where the money is," he said. "Scores of billions of dollars of it are to be found every year in the incomes of wealthy individuals and huge corporations which are getting a free ride at the expense of the ordinary taxpayer by avoiding their share of the tax burden."

Israel Denies Story Of Occupied Islands

TEL AVIV (UPI) — The military command and Foreign Minister Abba Eban denied reports today that Israel has occupied several islands in the Red Sea off the coast of Yemen. A military spokesman said Israel has no need to occupy an island.

"We are denying it strongly," a military spokesman said. "This story is a pity. It is a very nice joke."

Another command spokesman said, "It is not true at all. There is no need to occupy an island."

He said the base at Sharm el Sheikh at the tip of the occupied Sinai peninsula could not protect incoming ships with its guns but that Israel's planes and missile boats could.

"There is no Israeli occupation on any island," Eban told newsmen. "I am ready to give you a long list of unreliable reports that were published from time to time."

Time Magazine said in its current edition that Israel had occupied several uninhabited islands 1,200 miles south of its shores to protect tankers bringing oil to the country to supply its military forces.

Eban made the comment to newsmen before leaving for Vienna for a four-day visit to Austria, the first official visit to that country by an Israeli official.

He said he met Prime Minister Golda Meir late Sunday after her return home from a 12-day visit to the United States and reasserted her statements that Israel saw no reason to change its policy toward the Arabs because they have not changed their positions.

"There is no fundamental move from the Arab positions towards the question of settlement," Eban said.

Mrs. Meir spoke with newsmen on her arrival after a visit to Washington that included meetings with President Nixon and key members of his administration.

Dog Food Gives Way To Steak

STILLWATER, Okla. (UPI) — Two college students who ate nothing but dog food for a week to protest the high cost of food got so sick of it they decided to spend the money they had saved to buy expensive steaks.

"You can eat hamburger every meal, and it gets old. Well, so does dog food," said Terry Arnall, 22, a senior at Oklahoma State university.

He and his roommate, Jerry Dizmang, another senior, together spent a total of $3 on food in the experiment, which ended during the weekend. But with the week up, they said they planned to use the money they saved to celebrate with a big steak.

"We paid $1.50 for a sack of Gravy Train and bought a couple of cans of Skippy, some Hi-Vi, and a can of Alpo," Arnall said.

He said their experiment apparently stirred a lot of interest.

"We got hundreds of letters and at least 150 phone calls from all over—New York, Canada, London and Los Angeles," Arnall said. "Almost everyone thought it was great. A lot of them wanted to trade dog food recipes with us."

He said the pair decided against one caller's recipe for "dog food meat loaf," but could not resist a Michigan man's suggestion that they sprinkle wheat germ over Alpo.

"We did, but I don't like Alpo very much," Arnall said. "It is a little crunchy. It's got bony bits in it, and it makes you feel like your teeth are going to break. I don't think Jerry liked it at all."

But like it or not, they ate it.

"We were serious, although it made us the laughing stock of the campus," he said.

Arnall said his friends did not laugh as hard after he was invited by a television network to appear on the panel show "To Tell the Truth." He said the two students are also going to be featured in a national news magazine.

Orientation For Parents Scheduled

Orintation meetings for parents of incoming freshmen at Sir Francis Drake High School will be held at 8 p.m. on March 28 and 29 in the school's little theater. School officials will be present to discuss Drake's programs.

Smogland Session Is Suggested

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Republican assemblyman today proposed moving the legislature to Southern California for one month next autumn to give the lawmakers a good dose of what it is like to live in smog.

Assemblyman Jerry Lewis of Highland said his resolution convening the Senate and Assembly for a month-long session someplace in the sprawling South Coast Air Basin had 50 coauthors.

He said one month of breathing, living and working in smog should be enough to convince the legislature that additional money for air pollution control and research "should be the No. 1 priority."

Lewis announced his plan as the legislature returned for the 65th day of its new two-year session.

At the same time, Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, announced legislation aimed at driving downward the high cost of prescription medicines, and a Riverside Democrat assailed what he said was the state's failure to monitor dangerous drugs.

The Moretti bill would require pharmacies to prominently display the prices of the 100 most frequently sold prescription drugs. It also would allow drug stores to advertise prices in the newspapers, radio and television.

"Given a choice, people aren't going to pay a premium price for a prescription that's available for half the cost somewhere else," he said.

In the Los Angeles area, he said, the price of 100 one-grain thyroid tablets can vary from $1.85 to $3.90. The cost of 500 milligram tablets of the antibiotic Polycillin ranges from $13.95 to $33.60, he added.

"It is time that we quit bowing to the rhetoric that the sale of drugs is a professional service instead of a retail transaction," Moretti asserted.

Similar drug pricing legislation was killed on the Assembly floor last year. Moretti blamed the defeat on "heavy lobbying" by the California Pharmaceutical Association.

Assemblyman Walter Ingalls of Riverside accused the state Board of Pharmacy of ignoring 1970 legislation which required it to monitor the distribution of drugs "from manufacturer to user."

"Nearly eight billion barbiturate and amphetamine pills are still being diverted to illegal markets annually," he said. Ingalls claimed that in two years the board had not "sent one piece" of information to the Bureau of Narcotic Enforcement in the attorney general's office.

He announced plans to introduce legislation stripping the board of its drug report duty and transferring it to the Bureau of Narcotic Enforcement.

"It seems clear to me that the job of drug control should be removed from the jurisdiction of this industry-dominated agency and given to law enforcement experts," he said.

Expansion Of Sewer Plant To Be Eyed

The San Rafael Planning Commission will discuss the proposed expansion of the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District Plant at a 7:30 p.m. meeting tomorrow.

According to commissioner Ben C. Albritton, the commission has no jurisdiction over the proposal but could become involved in a sanitary district request that calls for the county and San Rafael to limit building permits to the number of sewer hookups that plant expansion will allow.

The expansion of the Smith Ranch Road plant will permit another 13,000 residents to be added to the present district population of 27,000. An environmental impact report on the project says that this growth could adversely affect the environment.

The planning commission will also look over landscaping details and plans for the east elevation of an office building-parking garage development planned by McKeon Construction Co. for San Rafael's courthouse square.

The commission approved most of the plans for the square in September.

Check Casher Is Arrested

A 23-year-old San Francisco man was arrested Saturday on suspicion of trying to cash a check using someone else's identification, San Rafael police reported.

Walter Frank Glynn was held in jail in lieu of $1,500 bail to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

According to police, he attempted to cash a check made out to David Searls True from Nowell and Associates of Sausalito. He tried to cash it at 2:30 p.m. at George's Recreation at 812 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Police were unable to contact anyone from Nowell and Associates. They reached True at his home at 812 D Street, San Rafael, who said he had lost the identification some weeks ago.

Disaster Relief Will Be Considered

The Larkspur City Council will consider a resolution requesting federal disaster assistance for damage to municipal property at 7:30 p.m., today in city hall.

City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst said recent flooding and mudslides caused approximately $30,000 to city property.

Labor Head Says Recession Likely

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Union leader Leonard Woodcock said today a recession may occur if the sharp cutback in deficit spending sought by President Nixon is allowed to occur.

Seeking to make a case for heavier taxes on the wealthy, Woodcock told the House Ways and Means Committee that heavier spending, financed by tax reform, was a safer alternative than a sudden swing away from the stimulation provided by deficit spending.

Nixon's budget for the next fiscal year proposes a deficit of $13 billion—almost a 50 per cent cut from the deficit in the current fiscal year.

"The proposal for a $12 billion cut in the deficit for fiscal 1974, if put into effect, will have restrictive effect on the economy which may well choke off the current expansion, if it does not produce actual recession as similar fiscal swings did in the period 1958 to 1960 and 1968-69," Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, said in prepared testimony.

"It should be pointed out that never in our history, except immediately after World War II when a cut in government spending was offset by a release of pent-up private savings, has a fiscal swing of this magnitude failed to result in a recession."

Woodcock argued that a far better course—for social as well as economic reasons—is to raise the government's revenues through tax reforms.

His proposals would increase taxes by $47 billion, going beyond the $20 billion worth of reforms proposed last week before the same panel by AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Woodcock's plan attacked tax laws exempting half of capital gains from taxes, allowing bequests and gifts to escape fugl taxation, exempting income from state and local bonds from taxes, allowing homeowners to deduct mortgage interest and deducting life insurance interest.

With the war behind America, Woodcock argued, social ills need to be remedied, a costly process.

"The only way to get that money is to go where the money is," he said. "Scores of billions of dollars of it are to be found every year in the incomes of wealthy individuals and huge corporations which are getting a free ride at the expense of the ordinary taxpayer by avoiding their share of the tax burden."

Israel Denies Story Of Occupied Islands

TEL AVIV (UPI) — The military command and Foreign Minister Abba Eban denied reports today that Israel has occupied several islands in the Red Sea off the coast of Yemen. A military spokesman said Israel has no need to occupy an island.

"We are denying it strongly," a military spokesman said. "This story is a pity. It is a very nice joke."

Another command spokesman said, "It is not true at all. There is no need to occupy an island."

He said the base at Sharm el Sheikh at the tip of the occupied Sinai peninsula could not protect incoming ships with its guns but that Israel's planes and missile boats could.

"There is no Israeli occupation on any island," Eban told newsmen. "I am ready to give you a long list of unreliable reports that were published from time to time."

Time Magazine said in its current edition that Israel had occupied several uninhabited islands 1,200 miles south of its shores to protect tankers bringing oil to the country to supply its military forces.

Eban made the comment to newsmen before leaving for Vienna for a four-day visit to Austria, the first official visit to that country by an Israeli official.

He said he met Prime Minister Golda Meir late Sunday after her return home from a 12-day visit to the United States and reasserted her statements that Israel saw no reason to change its policy toward the Arabs because they have not changed their positions.

"There is no fundamental move from the Arab positions towards the question of settlement," Eban said.

Mrs. Meir spoke with newsmen on her arrival after a visit to Washington that included meetings with President Nixon and key members of his administration.

Dog Food Gives Way To Steak

STILLWATER, Okla. (UPI) — Two college students who ate nothing but dog food for a week to protest the high cost of food got so sick of it they decided to spend the money they had saved to buy expensive steaks.

"You can eat hamburger every meal, and it gets old. Well, so does dog food," said Terry Arnall, 22, a senior at Oklahoma State university.

He and his roommate, Jerry Dizmang, another senior, together spent a total of $3 on food in the experiment, which ended during the weekend. But with the week up, they said they planned to use the money they saved to celebrate with a big steak.

"We paid $1.50 for a sack of Gravy Train and bought a couple of cans of Skippy, some Hi-Vi, and a can of Alpo," Arnall said.

He said their experiment apparently stirred a lot of interest.

"We got hundreds of letters and at least 150 phone calls from all over—New York, Canada, London and Los Angeles," Arnall said. "Almost everyone thought it was great. A lot of them wanted to trade dog food recipes with us."

He said the pair decided against one caller's recipe for "dog food meat loaf," but could not resist a Michigan man's suggestion that they sprinkle wheat germ over Alpo.

"We did, but I don't like Alpo very much," Arnall said. "It is a little crunchy. It's got bony bits in it, and it makes you feel like your teeth are going to break. I don't think Jerry liked it at all."

But like it or not, they ate it.

"We were serious, although it made us the laughing stock of the campus," he said.

Arnall said his friends did not laugh as hard after he was invited by a television network to appear on the panel show "To Tell the Truth." He said the two students are also going to be featured in a national news magazine.

Orientation For Parents Scheduled

Orintation meetings for parents of incoming freshmen at Sir Francis Drake High School will be held at 8 p.m. on March 28 and 29 in the school's little theater. School officials will be present to discuss Drake's programs.

Information about registration or counseling for new students may be obtained from Michael Convis, head counselor at the high school.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have recently inherited 175 shares of American Electric Power (NYSE). Now I have been notified that I can buy one extra share for each 10 that I hold. Would you advise one to do this? — D.K.

A. Utility companies are constantly in need of large amounts of capital and one means of raising funds is through rights offerings to stockholders. This particular offer of 6,500,000 shares will raise about $179 million for repayment of short-term debt, purchase of equity in subsidiaries and add to working capital. The 10 per cent increase in common stock outstanding will also dilute per share earnings by a similar amount. However, since 1961, per share profit has grown 121 per cent despite a 29 per cent increase in the number of common shares outstanding. In 1972 alone earnings rose 21.5 per cent year-to-year although there were 7 per cent more common shares.

The December dividend increase to $1.80 a share annually provides a generous 6.5 per cent return on your principal. Thus, if you are interested in income with gradual long-term capital appreciation I would advise accepting the rights offer. Otherwise the rights should be sold prior to the April 17 expiration date.

Q. I hold 4,699 shares of a mining stock and I cannot get any information on it. How do I establish a tax loss? — H.C.

A. If this corporation has filed bankruptcy and forfeited its charter, you may claim a tax loss only for the year the charter was forfeited.If this forfeiture took place several years ago you would have to file an amended return for that year. To determine whether the charter was rescinded, and in what year, you should write to the secretary of the state in which the company is or was incorporated.

On the other hand, should you find that no forfeiture has taken place you will be in a more tenuous tax position. However, you may sell your shares for a nominal amount at "auction" in order to establish an actual loss.

Solar Heating System Being Sold For Pools

A new solar heating system for swimming pools is being marketed by Fafco Inc. of 2860 Spring Street in Redwood City.

Brian Sullivan of Santa Rosa, distributor for the North Bay area, said the system can be used alone or as a supplement to regular pool heaters and save a pool owner a minimum of $150 per year on gas bills, more if the pool is heated by electricity.

The solar heating system, costing $500 to $700 for the average pool, will keep the water at 80 degree temperature, said Sullivan.

Large, black panels made of special plastic clamp together to make any size of heat absorber. These panels are mounted on a roof or on a rack at an incline about 30 degrees. As the pool water passes through these panels, it is heated8by the sun even on a cloudy day.

Sullivan said the system has no moving parts, is maintenance free, and will last indefinitely.

Monetary News Aids The Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market moved firmly ahead today as investors demonstrated approval over recently announced currency floats by six Common Market nations.

Analysts said the unresolved monetary crisis has kept many investors on the sidelines. But news that several countries, including West Germany, planned to float their currencies as soon as official foreign exchange markets reopen next Monday seemed to attract some buying.

Two-hour volume came to about 4,800,000 shares, compared with 6,860,000 shares in the first two hours Friday.

Bath Industries (ex-dividend) led the actives with a loss of ⅝ to 23 ¾ on turnover of 165,000 shares.

Prices were slightly higher in the American Stock Exchange. Polychrome was the most active issue, off ¼ at 10 ¾ on 28,200 shares.

On the Big Board, chemicals and oils were mixed as Monsanto added 1 ⅜, Natomas 1 ⅛ and Superior 1 ½.

Electronics and computers generally were higher. Honeywell gained 4⅜, IBM 3½.

Glamors also moved up, paced by Xerox, up 3, Polaroid 2 and Corning Glass .

Steels, motors, rails, airlines and aircrafts were mixed in fractions.

IS IT A BIRD?
HONK HONK

We're not asking you to race against us. Race with us. You'll win every time.

Here's why: Driving to San Francisco Airport from Marin heliport takes at least 45 minutes. More if you run into heavy traffic. Flying SFO Helicopter on a direct flight takes 11 minutes. No traffic jams. No luggage problem (we check your luggage through to your ultimate destination). You win hands down when you race with SFO Helicopter.

The price? As little as $8.37 depending on your destination and connecting carrier. Free parking at the heliport. 24 flights daily between Marin and SF Airport.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Special Rules Govern Profits On Certain Installment Sales

The rules for installment sales:

The installment method may be used only for reporting profits on certain sales of real property or casual sales of personal property where the sales price is in excess of $1,000 and the buyer agrees to pay the seller the sales price in two or more installments in two or more years.

There is a special rule that when you sell on the installment basis that if the purchaser assumes the existing mortgatgage on the property, you can exclude the amount of the mortgage from the sale so that you do not have to include it in determining whether or not you received more than 30% in the year of sale. This is a general rule and there is one big exception.

If the mortgage taken over is in excess of the basis of the property, that is your cost of other basis, then the excess of the mortgage over basis is considered a year of sale payment and has to be taken into consideration in determining whether or not you received more than 30% in the year of sale.

Many a taxpayer has been caught in this trap. So if you are thinking of making a sale on the installment basis, be sure that the mortgage is less than your basis or that the excess of the mortgage over your basis plus the amount received in the year of sale does not exceed 30%.

Under the old law, the installment method was available only if the payments received by the seller in the year of sale (not counting debt obligations of the purchaser) did not exceed 30% of the selling price. Now, certain debt obligations are to be treated as payments received in the year of the sale and counted when determining the 30% requirement.

Registered, coupon or readily marketable bonds (other than those in registered form which a seller establishes will not be readily tradable) or other evidence of indebtedness, issued by a corporation of governmental body, including bonds that are payable on demand, are considered as payments received in the year of sale.

These payments must be taken in account by a seller when determining whether the payments received in the year of the sale exceed 30% of the selling price.

This provision is effective with respect to sales and other dispositions occurring after May 27, 1969, except when the sale or other disposition is made under a binding contract entered into on or before that date.

Be sure to check this with your tax advisor if you are selling to a corporation or a governmental body.

Transit Workers Approve Strike

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Transit workers have voted unanimously for a strike that would leave 400,000 commuters without bus, trolley or subway transportation in the country's fourth largest city.

Members of Local 234, Transport Workers Union (TWU), gave their executive council authority Sunday night to call a strike if no agreement were reached by Wednesday with the Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority (SEPTA).

Sartre's "The Roads to Freedom"

The inner war to relate spirit and action— to act according to one's feelings—is fought by Everyman.

You'll witness such inner wars in this dynamic 13-week drama, based on the masterful Jean-Paul Sartre trilogy on the decadence of pre-war France.

You'll meet Mathieu (Michael Bryant), a man who thinks but cannot act; Daniel (Daniel Massey), a homosexual who acts against his own beliefs; Brunet (Donald Burton), a man who believes that action is all. And Lola (Georgia Brown), a nightclub singer whose battle is with time.

All playing out their personal wars—all seeking their own roads to freedom.

Labor Head Says Recession Likely

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Union leader Leonard Woodcock said today a recession may occur if the sharp cutback in deficit spending sought by President Nixon is allowed to occur.

Seeking to make a case for heavier taxes on the wealthy, Woodcock told the House Ways and Means Committee that heavier spending, financed by tax reform, was a safer alternative than a sudden swing away from the stimulation provided by deficit spending.

Nixon's budget for the next fiscal year proposes a deficit of $13 billion—almost a 50 per cent cut from the deficit in the current fiscal year.

"The proposal for a $12 billion cut in the deficit for fiscal 1974, if put into effect, will have restrictive effect on the economy which may well choke off the current expansion, if it does not produce actual recession as similar fiscal swings did in the period 1958 to 1960 and 1968-69," Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, said in prepared testimony.

"It should be pointed out that never in our history, except immediately after World War II when a cut in government spending was offset by a release of pent-up private savings, has a fiscal swing of this magnitude failed to result in a recession."

Woodcock argued that a far better course—for social as well as economic reasons—is to raise the government's revenues through tax reforms.

His proposals would increase taxes by $47 billion, going beyond the $20 billion worth of reforms proposed last week before the same panel by AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Woodcock's plan attacked tax laws exempting half of capital gains from taxes, allowing bequests and gifts to escape fugl taxation, exempting income from state and local bonds from taxes, allowing homeowners to deduct mortgage interest and deducting life insurance interest.

With the war behind America, Woodcock argued, social ills need to be remedied, a costly process.

"The only way to get that money is to go where the money is," he said. "Scores of billions of dollars of it are to be found every year in the incomes of wealthy individuals and huge corporations which are getting a free ride at the expense of the ordinary taxpayer by avoiding their share of the tax burden."

Israel Denies Story Of Occupied Islands

TEL AVIV (UPI) — The military command and Foreign Minister Abba Eban denied reports today that Israel has occupied several islands in the Red Sea off the coast of Yemen. A military spokesman said Israel has no need to occupy an island.

"We are denying it strongly," a military spokesman said. "This story is a pity. It is a very nice joke."

Another command spokesman said, "It is not true at all. There is no need to occupy an island."

He said the base at Sharm el Sheikh at the tip of the occupied Sinai peninsula could not protect incoming ships with its guns but that Israel's planes and missile boats could.

"There is no Israeli occupation on any island," Eban told newsmen. "I am ready to give you a long list of unreliable reports that were published from time to time."

Time Magazine said in its current edition that Israel had occupied several uninhabited islands 1,200 miles south of its shores to protect tankers bringing oil to the country to supply its military forces.

Eban made the comment to newsmen before leaving for Vienna for a four-day visit to Austria, the first official visit to that country by an Israeli official.

He said he met Prime Minister Golda Meir late Sunday after her return home from a 12-day visit to the United States and reasserted her statements that Israel saw no reason to change its policy toward the Arabs because they have not changed their positions.

"There is no fundamental move from the Arab positions towards the question of settlement," Eban said.

Mrs. Meir spoke with newsmen on her arrival after a visit to Washington that included meetings with President Nixon and key members of his administration.

Dog Food Gives Way To Steak

STILLWATER, Okla. (UPI) — Two college students who ate nothing but dog food for a week to protest the high cost of food got so sick of it they decided to spend the money they had saved to buy expensive steaks.

"You can eat hamburger every meal, and it gets old. Well, so does dog food," said Terry Arnall, 22, a senior at Oklahoma State university.

He and his roommate, Jerry Dizmang, another senior, together spent a total of $3 on food in the experiment, which ended during the weekend. But with the week up, they said they planned to use the money they saved to celebrate with a big steak.

"We paid $1.50 for a sack of Gravy Train and bought a couple of cans of Skippy, some Hi-Vi, and a can of Alpo," Arnall said.

He said their experiment apparently stirred a lot of interest.

"We got hundreds of letters and at least 150 phone calls from all over—New York, Canada, London and Los Angeles," Arnall said. "Almost everyone thought it was great. A lot of them wanted to trade dog food recipes with us."

He said the pair decided against one caller's recipe for "dog food meat loaf," but could not resist a Michigan man's suggestion that they sprinkle wheat germ over Alpo.

"We did, but I don't like Alpo very much," Arnall said. "It is a little crunchy. It's got bony bits in it, and it makes you feel like your teeth are going to break. I don't think Jerry liked it at all."

But like it or not, they ate it.

"We were serious, although it made us the laughing stock of the campus," he said.

Arnall said his friends did not laugh as hard after he was invited by a television network to appear on the panel show "To Tell the Truth." He said the two students are also going to be featured in a national news magazine.

Orientation For Parents Scheduled

Orintation meetings for parents of incoming freshmen at Sir Francis Drake High School will be held at 8 p.m. on March 28 and 29 in the school's little theater. School officials will be present to discuss Drake's programs.

Information about registration or counseling for new students may be obtained from Michael Convis, head counselor at the high school.

Smogland Session Is Suggested

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Republican assemblyman today proposed moving the legislature to Southern California for one month next autumn to give the lawmakers a good dose of what it is like to live in smog.

Assemblyman Jerry Lewis of Highland said his resolution convening the Senate and Assembly for a month-long session someplace in the sprawling South Coast Air Basin had 50 coauthors.

He said one month of breathing, living and working in smog should be enough to convince the legislature that additional money for air pollution control and research "should be the No. 1 priority."

Lewis announced his plan as the legislature returned for the 65th day of its new two-year session.

At the same time, Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, announced legislation aimed at driving downward the high cost of prescription medicines, and a Riverside Democrat assailed what he said was the state's failure to monitor dangerous drugs.

The Moretti bill would require pharmacies to prominently display the prices of the 100 most frequently sold prescription drugs. It also would allow drug stores to advertise prices in the newspapers, radio and television.

"Given a choice, people aren't going to pay a premium price for a prescription that's available for half the cost somewhere else," he said.

In the Los Angeles area, he said, the price of 100 one-grain thyroid tablets can vary from $1.85 to $3.90. The cost of 500 milligram tablets of the antibiotic Polycillin ranges from $13.95 to $33.60, he added.

"It is time that we quit bowing to the rhetoric that the sale of drugs is a professional service instead of a retail transaction," Moretti asserted.

Similar drug pricing legislation was killed on the Assembly floor last year. Moretti blamed the defeat on "heavy lobbying" by the California Pharmaceutical Association.

Assemblyman Walter Ingalls of Riverside accused the state Board of Pharmacy of ignoring 1970 legislation which required it to monitor the distribution of drugs "from manufacturer to user."

"Nearly eight billion barbiturate and amphetamine pills are still being diverted to illegal markets annually," he said. Ingalls claimed that in two years the board had not "sent one piece" of information to the Bureau of Narcotic Enforcement in the attorney general's office.

He announced plans to introduce legislation stripping the board of its drug report duty and transferring it to the Bureau of Narcotic Enforcement.

"It seems clear to me that the job of drug control should be removed from the jurisdiction of this industry-dominated agency and given to law enforcement experts," he said.

Expansion Of Sewer Plant To Be Eyed

The San Rafael Planning Commission will discuss the proposed expansion of the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District Plant at a 7:30 p.m. meeting tomorrow.

According to commissioner Ben C. Albritton, the commission has no jurisdiction over the proposal but could become involved in a sanitary district request that calls for the county and San Rafael to limit building permits to the number of sewer hookups that plant expansion will allow.

The expansion of the Smith Ranch Road plant will permit another 13,000 residents to be added to the present district population of 27,000. An environmental impact report on the project says that this growth could adversely affect the environment.

The planning commission will also look over landscaping details and plans for the east elevation of an office building-parking garage development planned by McKeon Construction Co. for San Rafael's courthouse square.

The commission approved most of the plans for the square in September.

Check Casher Is Arrested

A 23-year-old San Francisco man was arrested Saturday on suspicion of trying to cash a check using someone else's identification, San Rafael police reported.

Walter Frank Glynn was held in jail in lieu of $1,500 bail to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

According to police, he attempted to cash a check made out to David Searls True from Nowell and Associates of Sausalito. He tried to cash it at 2:30 p.m. at George's Recreation at 842 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Police were unable to contact anyone from Nowell and Associates. They reached True at his home at 812 D Street, San Rafael, who said he had lost the identification some weeks ago.

Disaster Relief Will Be Considered
